VOTING RIGHTS BILL PASSES

–SUSIE PICKED–

Dystrophy Victim Is 1965 Queen

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Susie Dahl became a queen Wednesday.

It was equally as big an event for Susie as it was for the Northeast High ag class when Susie was named the 1965 Queen of the Class.

An 18-year-old honor student at Northeast, Susie uses a telephone communications system that takes her into each of her classrooms. A transmitter-receiver in the rooms carries every sound to Susie's bedside.

This is the method Susie, a victim of muscular dystrophy, has used to keep pace with her school class.

Spirit, Valor Cited

"When it came to picking the girl with the most spirit and valor and a real booster for our ag class Susie was the winner," said friends in the ag class.

The coronation ceremony for Susie took place during the time a movie was being shown in one of her classes at school.

Susie told Ray Madeson and Bill Lange, president and secretary respectively of the Northeast ag class, "This works swell. I won't miss a thing in class while you boys make me a queen."

Susie will be in attendance for both her class baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies.

Mrs. Francis Watters, dean of girls at Northeast, said, "Susie's academic achievement has been excellent."

Other Honors

Other recent honors won by Susie include the University of Nebraska's certificate of award honor for the handicapped division, a second place win in the city-wide theme contest sponsored by the Mayor's Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped, and a fourth place win in the state-wide contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee in a similar contest.

Susie plans to take two classes at Nebraska Wesleyan University next fall.

Susie is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sam Dahl of 1240 No 33rd.

State Income Tax True Replacement

. . . BOWEN BOOSTS LB797

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The state income tax proposed in LB797 would be a true replacement tax rather than additional tax for the average Nebraska citizen, Speaker of the Legislature Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud said Wednesday.

Without adoption of LB797, or a similar tax-broadening bill, the state property tax levy will leap about 44% to finance increased state spending in the coming biennium, Bowen noted.

The 44% figure, he said, comes "from people connected with the state tax commissioner's office."

Releases Study

To back his contention that the tax would be a true replacement for the state property tax and the institutional mill levy collected at the county level, Bowen released results of a study of the effect of LB797 on an average taxpayer in Scottsbluff.

Under the present property tax system (with a projected mill levy boost just under four mills), the taxpayer would pay $81.76 a year to support state government in the coming biennium, Bowen noted.

His comparative tax bill under LB797 would be $80, the senator said.

Shows Up Briefly

LB797 showed up briefly on select file Wednesday only to run into an immediate kill motion filed by Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha.

However, the bill was held and the motion left pending upon the request of Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln, its chief sponsor.

Bauer has submitted the measure to scrutiny by the attorney general's office, and the probe has not yet been completed, he told the Legislature.

After Recess

Later, Bauer said he does not expect to be ready to consider the measure on select file until the Unicameral returns from its Memorial Day recess next week.

Bowen said that, with exemptions for dependents, LB797 is now "slightly progressive."

It "would not hurt the poor man as much as a 3% sales tax which would very definitely be a gross income tax on every dollar he would earn as most of the money would be spent for items that would require a sales tax to be paid."

Would Increase

LB797, Bowen said, "would increase the tax on real estate and insurance people, such as myself, along with other professional people such as bankers, doctors and lawyers, or any person not requiring property to be owned as a method of earning the income."

But, for the average family, Bowen contended, the tax will be a true replacement for taxes already paid.

The average family earns $4,850 a year, Bowen said.

$5,000 Income

His example involves a family composed of wife, husband and two dependents with an annual income ot $5,000.

The family would be entitled to exemptions totaling $1,800 ($1,200 for the couple and $300 for each dependent). Thus, taxable income would total $3,200.

A state income tax rate of 2.5% would be needed to replace an anticipated 13.0 mill levy for state government and the 3.0 mill levy for institutional patients, Bowen said. Present state levy is 9.14 mills; thus, the estimate envisions a 3.86 mill increase.

Would Pay $80

Given those factors, the family would pay $80 in state income tax.

(The institutional mill levy, which varies among counties, has been determined in an attorney general's opinion to be a state tax and must be replaced if the base is broadened, Bowen noted.)

Under the senator's example, the Scottsbluff family lives in a $3,000 home, taxed at $4,550 or 35% of actual value. Sixteen mills applied against that value would yield $72.80 in taxes.

Household Goods

The family owns $600 in household goods; its $200 exemption reduces the value to $400, 35% of which totals $140. The 6 mills would yield $2.24.

The family owns an automobile valued at $1,200, 35% of which is $420. The 16 mills would yield $6.72.

Total property tax replaced: $81.76.

Woman Dies; Husband, 74, Is 'Critical'

An elderly Lincoln woman died about 2 p.m. Wednesday of a gunshot wound apparently inflicted by her husband.

Her husband, James Ellis, 74, of 927 Charleston, was in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital with a gunshot wound, believed to have been self-inflicted, in his stomach.

Detective Roe Heston said Mrs. James (Ruth) Ellis, 72, was struck in the side by one blast from a double-barreled .12 gauge ehotgun and her husband then shot himself.

Police Lt. Arthur Aksamit said the woman was found in the backyard at the home about 10:50 Wednesday morning. Her husband was inside the house with the shotgun nearby. Both were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where they underwent immediate surgery

Henry Hegel, employe of a nearby food market, said he had come out the back door of the store and saw the injured woman lying near the driveway of her home. Hegel said he summoned George Maser from the store and they went to where the woman was lying.

Hegel said he heard a shot from inside the house and then called for an ambulance and the police

Ellis is a retired barber.

Storms Lash 9 States

By United Press International

More than 40 tornadoes and vicious winds raked sections of nine central states Wednesday, injuring at least 24 persons and killing one

More than 30 funnel clouds were spotted in and around Grand Rapids, Mich At least five tornadoes slammed through the Chicago area. The weather onslaught hit parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio.

An electric lineman, Linder J. McVicker, 34, of Westfield, Ill., fell 30 feet to his death, from the top of an Indiana utility pole when wind blew a high tension wire against it.

The winds unroofed Our Lady of Hope School at Rosemont, Ill., and hit a Baptist home for the aged at Ironton, Mo. No injuries were reported at either place. Parents rushed to the Rosemont school to see if the 350 pupils were safe.

O'Hare Hit

A tornado stabbed at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest. Three persons were cut by flying glass.

Two hangars and a barracks were unroofed and a twin-engine plane hurled into a four-engine plane. Thirty cars were damaged, 15 of them when the roof from the airport's air conditioning plant was blown into a telephone company garage.

Winds that sounded "like a jet plane" swept through a trailer court in Redsburg, Wis. Seven persons were injured and six trailers were destroyed or damaged.

Trailer Houses Toppled

A tornado injured seven persons at Addison, Ill. A mother and two children were hurt when a twister upended their house trailer in Plainfield, Ill.

A tornado or high wind toppled house trailers at Blue Springs, Mo., injuring four persons.

Thomas Herzog, his wife and two infant daughters almost miraculously escaped serious injury when high winds — possibly a tornado —destroyed their home at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where there was heavy wind damage. Three fourths of the city was without electrical service for a time.

Lightning and 60 m.p.h. winds knocked out electricity in parts of downtown Oklahoma City, Okla. The small frame Church of God in Christ was wrecked as was the Rev. Samuel Shaw's parsonage.

Several airplanes were severely damaged at a downtown airport. A brick wall of a building being demolished toppled onto several parked cars.

Budget Unit Wants Hospitals' Figures

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The three state mental hospitals and the Beatrice State Home were asked to come up with additional budget figures for staffing and operations early next week by the Legislature's Budget Committee following public hearing Wednesday.

The committee met with State Institutions Director George Morris and the hospital representatives to see whether the committee had short-changed the institutions in its initial budget recommendations.'

Morris listed these additional needs: Lincoln, $1,260,000; Hastings, $1,268,000, and Norfolk, $421,600.

Increases

But, Committee Chairman Richard Marvel noted the committee had increased the budgets over the previous biennium for Lincoln, $1.2 million; Norfolk, $1.1 million and Hastings, $700,000.

"Somewhere between the committee appropriation and that which would be ideal is a realistic figure," Marvel told the representatives of the hospitals. "Can you give us those figures in dollars by program categories that the committee can defend on the floor?"

Marvel said the committee had attempted to "provide the dollars for staffing in line with APA (American Psychiatric Association) standards, but there is apparently some misunderstandings between the committee and the hospitals."

Failed To Consider

However, the hospital spokesman said the committee formula for doctor-to-patient ratios failed to consider consulting staff members and there was some disagreement with the fiscal analyist's categorizing of patient load.

Committee discussion indicated the budget formula was only intended to provide the dollars for a medical and operational staff by categories, and hospital administration could reasonably adjust staff categories to specific needs.

Marvel expressed hope that the committee would be able to make a recommendation soon after the Legislature reconvenes Wednesday after the Memorial Day weekend recess, based on new documental information requested from the institutions.

Senate Roll Call Vote Is 77 To 19

. . . CURTIS, HRUSKA SAY AYE

Washington (AP) — Amid echoes of a bitter Southern assault, the Senate Wednesday passed President Johnson's Negro voting rights bill and sent it to the House.

After a 25-day debate, Johnson's top-priority measure won Senate passage on a 77-19 roll call vote Voting for the bill were 47 Democrats and 30 Republicans—including Nebraska's Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis—while 17 Democrats and 2 Republicans voted against it.

The President termed the vote "triumphant evidence of this nation's resolve that every citizen must and shall be able to march to a polling place and vote without fear of prejudice or obstruction."

"It has taken us 100 years to catch up with this problem," said Republican leader Everett M Dirksen of Illinois who helped write the bill and chart its course through the Senate

"Nor since Reconstruction has the Senate permitted this Union to be so perverted and subjected to such a diabolical attack," said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La.

The outcome was never in doubt. Sixty-six senators — more than enough to pass the measure—sponsored it in the first place.

Major Hurdle

The major hurdle was cleared Tuesday when the Senate voted to stop talking about the bill.

Ellender said the Johnson bill violates the Magna Carta, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

"I am confident that this is constitutional and will stand up before the Supreme Court," Dirksen said. "It remains for those who sit in the big marble palace across the plaza to make that determination."

Epochal Day

Dirksen called the bill practical and enforceable "This may yet be an epochal day in the life of this country," he said

Ellender labeled it a grotesque violation of state authority to set voter qualifications.

"Many senators have rubber-stamped a vicious proposal merely to please the President and an entourage of demagogues which prevailed upon him to take the lead," Ellender said.

And he charged that the Supreme Court, by applauding Johnson's March 15 voting rights appeal to a joint session of Congress, gave "handclap approval" to the measure.

"We have witnessed the spectacle of the President of the greatest nation on earth turning our assembled leaders into an incited throng," Ellender said.

Selma Cauldron

He said Selma, Ala.—the cauldron in which the voting rights controversy boiled into violence — was a peaceful Southern town until "Negro agitators" arrived.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Senate was at last invoking "the majesty and power" of the nation to guarantee Negroes the right to vote.

"Do it we will," he said. "Do it we must."

Advocates of the measure wrote in a last-minute amendment seeking to make sure its new voting rights guarantees go swiftly into effect.

The bill Johnson proposed 10 weeks ago would suspend state literacy tests and authorize federal registration of voters in wide areas of the South

Formula

It applies automatically to counties and states in which literacy tests or similar requirements were used to qualify voters for last November's election, less than half the adult population registered or voted, and at least 20% of the population is nonwhite

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., sponsored the amendment which erases from that formula an exclusion for aliens, servicemen and their families.

He said that could have forced a delay in the bill's impact while the Census Bureau collected new population figures

That change broadened slightly the bill's coverage. As it stands now, the basic formula applies to Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, parts of North Carolina and Virginia, two sparsely settled election districts in Alaska, and Apache County, Ariz.

Federal Registrars

In addition, the Senate measure would authorize federal voter registration in any county where less than 25% of the Negro population is registered. It would take new census surveys to determine exactly what areas that covers.

At the same time, the bill declares state poll taxes still required in Mississippi, Alabama, Texas and Virginia have been used to discriminat against Negroes and other voters.

The measure would send Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to court, armed with that finding, to challenge the constitutionality of those poll taxes.

House Flat Ban

Voting rights legislation awaiting action in the House would flatly outlaw state poll taxes a course the Senate rejected

Another amendment authorized special census surveys to determine whether a covered county is qualified to escape federal voter registration.

Duskin To Make London Trip For Army

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Major Charles R. Duskin, commanding officer of the Lincoln Salvation Army, will be on hand when the international centenary celebration of the charitable organization's 100th anniversary begins in London June 24.

Honored by his selection to be one of the 2,000 official delegates from 69 countries having operating centers, Duskin will represent Nebraska and North and South Dakota at meetings "emphasizing various phases of Salvation Army work."

But more than the honor of being selected to attend the London celebrations has gone to Duskin for he will also be one of the 14 officers from the Central States marching in the welcome pageant processional

Special Invitation

The major has also received a special invitation from the international general, Frederick Coutts, to be among selected delegates attending a "meeting of Thanksgiving" in Westminister Abbey. A memorial plaque to William Booth, Salvation Army founder is to be unveiled in St. George's Chapel during the service

MAJ. C. R. DUSKIN

The nine-day anniversary affair, in the city where the Salvation Army was founded 100 years ago, will be one of the first conferences to see the international headquarters' new building, according to Maj. Duskin. The original structure was bombed during the war.

The meeting, he said, is a "celebration of rededication. It will be a look at the past and the present to commemorate accomplishments of the Salvation Army. It will also serve as a forum to rededicate our efforts to greater work in the future"

Centry Of Song

On the agenda for the 2,000 official delegates is a day devoted to a program of "A Century of Salvation Song," demonstrating the songs and methods used by the Army to "sing its way around the world" Another day will feature a musical show by Army bands and sports events of the Torchbearer Group Movement Annual Games Day

In addition, sessions will include a festival of youth, a review of European projects, festivals of praise, women's, retired officers' and Over-Sixty Clubs' rallies, sessions of world, youth and social services witness, an open-air rally, and daily public meetings "to witness to the truths which the Army was raised up by God to declare."

Duskin will spend two weeks in London and then tour the Holy Land with other Salvation Army officers.

He pointed out that the Lincoln Salvation Army will probably observe a second 100th anniversary celebration in the fall upon his return. Last week at the annual civic meeting the city's organization focused on the centenary, Duskin said. At that time Mrs. Genie McGlasson was presented a life membership and a scroll for her 41 years of service on the Army board.

Budget Unit Wants Hospitals' Figures

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The three state mental hospitals and the Beatrice State Home were asked to come up with additional budget figures for staffing and operations early next week by the Legislature's Budget Committee following public hearing Wednesday.

The committee met with State Institutions Director George Morris and the hospital representatives to see whether the committee had short-changed the institutions in its initial budget recommendations.'

Morris listed these additional needs: Lincoln, $1,260,000; Hastings, $1,268,000, and Norfolk, $421,600.

Increases

But, Committee Chairman Richard Marvel noted the committee had increased the budgets over the previous biennium for Lincoln, $1.2 million; Norfolk, $1.1 million and Hastings, $700,000.

"Somewhere between the committee appropriation and that which would be ideal is a realistic figure," Marvel told the representatives of the hospitals. "Can you give us those figures in dollars by program categories that the committee can defend on the floor?"

Marvel expressed hope that the committee would be able to make a recommendation soon after the Legislature reconvenes Wednesday after the Memorial Day weekend recess, based on new documental information requested from the institutions.

Senate Roll Call Vote Is 77 To 19

. . . CURTIS, HRUSKA SAY AYE

Washington (AP) — Amid echoes of a bitter Southern assault, the Senate Wednesday passed President Johnson's Negro voting rights bill and sent it to the House.

After a 25-day debate, Johnson's top-priority measure won Senate passage on a 77-19 roll call vote. Voting for the bill were 47 Democrats and 30 Republicans—including Nebraska's Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis—while 17 Democrats and 2 Republicans voted against it.

The President termed the vote "triumphant evidence of this nation's resolve that every citizen must and shall be able to march to a polling place and vote without fear of prejudice or obstruction."

"It has taken us 100 years to catch up with this problem," said Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois who helped write the bill and chart its course through the Senate.

"Not since Reconstruction has the Senate permitted this Union to be so perverted and subjected to such a diabolical attack," said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La.

The outcome was never in doubt. Sixty-six senators — more than enough to pass the measure—sponsored it in the first place.

Major Hurdle

The major hurdle was cleared Tuesday when the Senate voted to stop talking about the bill.

Ellender said the Johnson bill violates the Magna Carta, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

"I am confident that this is constitutional and will stand up before the Supreme Court," Dirksen said. "It remains for those who sit in the big marble palace across the plaza to make that determination."

Epochal Day

Dirksen called the bill practical and enforceable. "This may yet be an epochal day in the life of this country," he said.

Ellender labeled it a grotesque violation of state authority to set voter qualifications.

"Many senators have rubber-stamped a vicious proposal merely to please the President and an entourage of demagogues which prevailed upon him to take the lead," Ellender said.

And he charged that the Supreme Court, by applauding Johnson's March 15 voting rights appeal to a joint session of Congress, gave "handclap approval" to the measure.

"We have witnessed the spectacle of the President of the greatest nation on earth turning our assembled leaders into an incited throng," Ellender said.

Selma Cauldron

He said Selma, Ala.— the cauldron in which the voting rights controversy boiled into violence — was a peaceful Southern town until "Negro agitators" arrived.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Senate was at last invoking "the majesty and power" of the nation to guarantee Negroes the right to vote.

"Do it we will," he said. "Do it we must."

Advocates of the measure wrote in a last-minute amendment seeking to make sure its new voting rights guarantees go swiftly into effect.

The bill Johnson proposed 10 weeks ago would suspend state literacy tests and authorize federal registration of voters in wide areas of the South.

Formula

It applies automatically to counties and states in which literacy tests or similar requirements were used to qualify voters for last November's election, less than half the adult population registered or voted, and at least 20% of the population is nonwhite.

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., sponsored the amendment which erases from that formula an exclusion for aliens, servicemen and their families.

He said that could have forced a delay in the bill's impact while the Census Bureau collected new population figures.

That change broadened slightly the bill's coverage. As it stands now, the basic formula applies to Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, parts of North Carolina and Virginia, two sparsely settled election districts in Alaska, and Apache County, Ariz.

Federal Registrars

In addition, the Senate measure would authorize federal voter registration in any county where less than 25% of the Negro population is registered. It would take new census surveys to determine exactly what areas that covers.

At the same time, the bill declares state poll taxes still required in Mississippi, Alabama, Texas and Virginia have been used to discriminat against Negroes and other voters.

The measure would send Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to court, armed with that finding, to challenge the constitutionality of those poll taxes.

House Flat Ban

Voting rights legislation awaiting action in the House would flatly outlaw state poll taxes, a course the Senate rejected.

Another amendment authorized special census surveys to determine whether a covered county is qualified to escape federal voter registration.

Duskin To Make London Trip For Army

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Major Charles R. Duskin, commanding officer of the Lincoln Salvation Army, will be on hand when the international centenary celebration of the charitable organization's 100th anniversary begins in London June 24.

Honored by his selection to be one of the 2,000 official delegates from 69 countries having operating centers, Duskin will represent Nebraska and North and South Dakota at meetings "emphasizing various phases of Salvation Army work."

But more than the honor of being selected to attend the London celebrations has gone to Duskin, for he will also be one of the 14 officers from the Central States marching in the welcome pageant processional.

Special Invitation

The major has also received a special invitation from the international general, Frederick Coutts, to be among selected delegates attending a "meeting of Thanksgiving" in Westminister Abbey. A memorial plaque to William Booth, Salvation Army founder, is to be unveiled in St. George's Chapel during the service.

MAJ. C. R. DUSKIN

The nine-day anniversary affair, in the city where the Salvation Army was founded 100 years ago, will be one of the first conferences to see the international headquarters' new building, according to Maj. Duskin. The original structure was bombed during the war.

The meeting, he said, is a "celebration of rededication. It will be a look at the past and the present to commemorate accomplishments of the Salvation Army. It will also serve as a forum to rededicate our efforts to greater work in the future."

Centry Of Song

On the agenda for the 2,000 official delegates is a day devoted to a program of "A Century of Salvation Song," demonstrating the songs and methods used by the Army to "sing its way around the world." Another day will feature a musical show by Army bands and sports events of the Torchbearer Group Movement Annual Games Day.

In addition, sessions will include a festival of youth, a review of European projects, festivals of praise, women's, retired officers' and Over-Sixty Clubs' rallies, sessions of world, youth and social services witness, an open-air rally, and daily public meetings "to witness to the truths which the Army was raised up by God to declare."

Duskin will spend two weeks in London and then tour the Holy Land with other Salvation Army officers.

He pointed out that the Lincoln Salvation Army will probably observe a second 100th anniversary celebration in the fall upon his return. Last week at the annual civic meeting the city's organization focused on the centenary, Duskin said. At that time Mrs. Genie McGlasson was presented a life membership and a scroll for her 41 years of service on the Army board.

LBJ Would Prod States On Road Beautification

. . . ASKS CONGRESS FOR POTENT LAWS

Washington (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Wednesday for potent laws to prod the states into banishing billboards and auto junkyards from the nation's main highways and into beautifying the roadsides for motorists pleasure.

Efforts to persuade the states to act voluntarily have failed, Johnson said in submitting four separate bills as "evidence of our determination not to be such a neglected generation."

The tools in his program are provisions to deny federal aid highway grants to states which refuse to cooperate.

Johnson's controversial proposals were submitted a day after he closed out a two-day White House Conference on Natural Beauty attended by about 1,000 delegates and observers who urged federal action to erase the scars progress has inflicted on the countryside.

The most controversial of the four bills is Johnson's plan that the states in general ban advertising signs from "within 1,000 feet of the pavement and visible to the passing motorist."

Such a control over erection of new signs would be instituted as a condition for receiving federal highway funds after Jan. 1, 1968. Existing signs would have to be removed by July 1, 1970.

The control would apply to those sections of the interstate and primary systems not zoned or used predominantly for commercial or industrial purposes.

Erasing Eyesores

As for erasing the eyesores of auto junkyards, Johnson said:

"I recommend that as a condition of receiving federal aid, states must exercise control along the entire interstate and primary systems. No new junkyards could be established within 1,000 feet of the pavement and visible to the motorist. Existing junkyards would have to be effectively screened or removed by July 1, 1970."

Johnson noted that some states may lack adequate police power to control either junkyards or outdoor advertising. In such cases, he proposed that the federal government share in the cost of purchase and condemnation.

In saying efforts to get the states to act voluntarily had failed, Johnson said this was demonstrated by a 1958 law which authorizes bonus payments to states which agree to regulate outdoor advertising along the interstate highway system.

Only 20 States

"Only 20 states have entered into agreements under this voluntary program," he said, "and only eight states have actually become eligible for such payments."

(Nebraska has already received bonus payments.)

The same lack of action has been shown by the states, Johnson said, in using authority to apply 3% of the federal highway funds—without matching it—to acquire land alongside highways and to transform it into scenic beauty.

This authority has never been used and not until this year, in three instances, was any application for it made to the federal government, the President said.

Use It Or Lose It

In view of this, Johnson asked Congress to require the states to use the 3% for that purpose or lose that amount of federal aid. It could be spent, he said, for landscape and roadside development, including acquiring rest and recreation areas. About $120 million a year is involved.

But a state that can prove it is already beautifying the roadside and doesn't need to spend the money for that purpose could be exempted.

The fourth bill Johnson proposed would require each state to spend at least one-third of its federal funds for secondary roads for building scenic roads and roads leading to recreational or scenic areas.

'Today's Conservation Must Restore Beauty'

Washington (AP) — Here are the highlights of President Johnson's message to Congress Wednesday on highway beautification:

—Today's new conservation must shift from the classic role of protecting threatened nature. It must restore beauty where it has already been destroyed.

—The automobile is a central feature of American life. It takes people to and from work. It is used for travel to friends and relatives. It carries us to place of recreation and beauty. It helps to expand the horizons of our daily life; and the "Sunday drive" has become an American institution.

Beauty And Economics

— . . . We must make sure that the massive resources we now devote to roads also serve to improve and broaden the quality of American life. Moreover beauty has an economic aspect. Roads which are highways to pleasure will encourage travel. Increased travel in many areas will mean new opportunities for tourism and for investment.

— . . . I recommend that states—as a condition of receiving federal aid highway grants after Jan. 1, 1968 — institute control over outdoor advertising along those sections of the interstate and primary systems not zoned or used predominantly for commercial or industrial purposes.

— . . . I recommend that as a condition of receiving federal aid, states must exercise control (of junk yards) along the entire interstate and primary systems.

Rest Areas

— . . . I propose to broaden existing authority to use federal-aid funds — on a matching basis — for the cost of landscape and roadside development. Under this authority rest and recreation areas can be acquired and developed for use by the traveling public.

— . . . I propose that each state use one-third of the federal aid it now receives for secondary roads to (A) construct scenic roads, (B) construct roads leading to scenic and recreational areas, and (C) provide for landscape and roadside developments along federal-aid highways.

—Next fiscal year we will spend an estimated $3.9 billion on federal-aid highways. This is an investment in the future of America. Surely that future will include the wonders of the natural world, as well as the growth of the world which man has made. We must invest in both these futures if we are to conquer the challenges of the modern world while protecting the values of our past.

CROWD JUST WATCHED

"They just let me lie there. I could hardly crawl and nobody tried to help. I didn't think people could treat a hurt dog that way," Viola Smith said Wednesday. The 49-year-old Philadelphia store detective said she spotted a woman shoplifting, followed her to the street and grabbed her. The shoplifter attacked her with hands and feet while a crowd stood in a circle and watched, despite Miss Smith's cries for help. She suffered eye, arm and leg injuries.

Bundy Mission Aids Settlement Basis

EDITOR'S NOTE [illegible] AP Staff [illegible] Washington [illegible] McGeorge Bundy.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Bundy mission to try to settle the Dominican civil war without further bloodshed ended Wednesday with the outcome still in doubt but with McGeorge Bundy convinced he had made considerable progress in laying the basis for a settlement.

President Johnson's adviser for national security affairs, who came here on his emergency assignment 10 days ago, left for Washington Wednesday to report to the President. He turned over the task of mediation between Dominican warring factions, now locked in military stalemate, to Dr. Jose Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States.

This change of commands on the diplomatic front marked the beginning of a new phase in the Dominican crisis. It coincided roughly with the establishment earlier this week of an OAS military command, following the arrival of troops from Brazil and other Latin American countries.

'Not Alone'

These developments meant as one U.S. official expressed it that in trying to work out a settlement while maintaining the military standoff "We are not alone." Bundy and other American officials consider OAS assumption of responsibility here a precedent-making development.

Bundy's arrival in the Dominican Republic on the weekend of May 15 was shrouded in mystery. He and three other top officials, including Deputy Undersecretary of Defense Cyrus Vance, were under orders from Johnson to stop the fighting as rapidly as possible and try to get a new coalition set up.

Of the original top four only Vance now remains as a Johnson lieutenant on the scene, working with Mora and U.S. Ambassador William Tapley Bennett Jr., Undersecretary of State Thomas Mann, and a former ambassador here with good contacts with the rebels, John Bartlow Martin, returned to Washington last week. Assistant Secretary of State Jack Hood also returned.

Mora Preeminent

Bundy left not knowing whether he would return. Should the President send him back, his position obviously would be somewhat different in view of Mora's preeminent role now.

When Bundy first arrived he and the embassy staff kept all his activities secret and consistently declined to disclose either the people he was seeing or the places he was going.

From what could be learned of his activities just before he left, his achievements and unsolved problems can be summed up in these points:

1. He reached substantial understanding with the rebel leadership under Col. Francisco Caamano Deno on the possible make up of a new government under Antonio Guzman, 54-year-old businessman and farmer, who was a cabinet member in the popular government of President Juan Bosch.

Anti-Red Agreement

2. He also came to an understanding with Caamano and Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, president of the civilian-military junta, on what he considered some basic principles for a settlement. These included the points that some leaders on both sides in the civil war would have to be dropped in any coalition also so that any new government would be anti-Communist.

3. He failed to get an agreement from Imbert to resign as president of the junta, dissolve that body, and support the formation of the proposed Guzman government.

In the first days of the junta, U.S. officials reportedly considered recommending to President Johnson that the United States give it formal recognition. Informants say they decided against that course, however, when they found that Imbert had not rallied wide popular support.

Bundy is known to feel that the best chance for developing an effective national leadership in this country—with its long history of dictatorship—would lie in forming a broadly based coalition government dedicated to constitutional, democratic rule.

Williams Sees Diabolical Plan For Baker

Washington (UPI) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., Wednesday accused the administration of drawing up a "diabolically clever plan" designed to influence a federal grand jury into clearing Bobby Baker.

Williams said a campaign of criticism aimed at his conduct in the investigation of Baker, former secretary of the Senate Democratic majority, was designed to raise questions in the minds of the jurors now considering Baker's many financial and business activities.

He said a report prepared by the staff of the Senate Rules Committee, which he called one of the most "damnable attempts at character assassination in the history of the U.S. Senate," was part of the plan to divert attention from Baker.

"Why is the administration so intent on criticizing me?" Williams asked in a floor speech. "They are desperate.

"The decision has been made by the Great Society hierarchy that John Williams must be stopped," he added. "They are determined to save Bobby Baker from prosecution at all costs . . . and diverting attention . . . by launching an attack on me."

Williams said that by filling the newspapers daily with attacks on witnesses in the Baker investigations, and on him, "they hope to raise questions in the minds of jurors.

"The decision has been made," he said. "Bobby Baker must be cleared at all costs."

Means Nothing

He belittled the recent announcement that the White House has ordered a code of ethics for the executive branch. He said it meant nothing as long as the administration condoned the influence-peddling of people like Baker.

"Instead of prosecuting Baker they are actually making a national hero of him," Williams said.

He said Baker's vending machine business was booming and that he not only is still doing business with defense contractors but that they "welcome the chance to show the White House what side they are on."

Serv-U Clearance

He also said that one year after Baker resigned, Serv-U, Baker's vending operation, was given special confidential clearance so it could get into defense plants.

Williams said the report prepared by the Rules Committee staff was "a most fascinating document."

He conceded it made no specific charges against him, "but by innuendo makes one of the most damnable attempts at character assassination in the history of the U.S. Senate."

LBJ Would Prod States On Road Beautification

. . . ASKS CONGRESS FOR POTENT LAWS

Washington (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Wednesday for potent laws to prod the states into banishing billboards and auto junkyards from the nation's main highways and into beautifying the roadsides for motorists' pleasure.

Efforts to persuade the states to act voluntarily have failed, Johnson said in submitting four separate bills as "evidence of our determination not to be such a neglected generation."

Bundy Mission Aids Settlement Basis

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John M. Hightower, AP State Department specialist in Washington, went to Santo Domingo to report on diplomatic aspects of the Dominican situation. In this dispatch, he reports his assessment of the job done by the presidential mission led by McGeorge Bundy.)

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Bundy mission to try to settle the Dominican civil war without further bloodshed ended Wednesday with the outcome still in doubt but with McGeorge Bundy convinced he had made considerable progress in laying the basis for a settlement.

Crete — Little old Stay School No 1 had never shown bigger in all its 100 years.

More than 200 persons paid their respects Sunday Gov Frank Morrison made the main speech, and drivers dropped by from Colorado and Iowa and Illinois A rural school's centennial comes, after all only every century or so

School was out a week ago but we combined this occasion with our annual family picnic said leader Mrs Irene Drevo who lives in Crete eight miles to the southeast

This year's 24 pupils have attended not only Saline County's oldest district; they also comprised its largest one room school Plenty o reason for painting and polishing the star that has been the school symbol since that first term of 1864 65

Surprisingly complete school records had pelned Mrs Glenn Stoemeyer and other Ayers board members compile a detailed history for the occasion County Supt B J Klasek cooperated—and for reward got to introduce the governor

Star's present pupils celebrated with some bright-costumed square dancing, their fathers and grandfathers setting for coffee and cake. Except for the parked cars the shaved setting could just as well have been that of a century back

Nobody was nosing it around, incidentally, but a few were murmuring that the picnic could well be the district's last And the final picnic it was as the school was merged with Dorchester in a special election Tuesday.

Law Officers Hear Detroit Expert Explain 'What, Why' Of Sex Crime

By JOHN De CAMP
Star Staff Writer

The "what" and the "why" of sex crimes were explained to law enforcement officers at the third day of the Nebraska Law Enforcement Institute here Wednesday

Officers heard a lecture by Alan Canty, director for the last 17 years of the Detroit (Mich) Psychiatric Clinic. Canty is a nationally known authority on the cause and cure of sex criminals.

Canty said the most common sex crime commited—and the one which plagues all large cities—is indecent exposure He said the offense is usually commited by a male under 30 Exhibitionists may scare people. Canty said, but they are rarely dangerous Feelings of inferiority motivate the crime, Canty said

Pleasure From Pain

The most dangerous sex criminal Canty said is the sexual sadist, a type who gets pleasure from seeing others suffer pain—particularly if the sadist is the one who inflicts the pain These are the individuals, Canty said who are guilty of violent sex crimes

The most misunderstood deviate, according to Canty, is the homosexual Homosexuals are generally of high intelligence than other deviates and as a group are above average.

The trait of homosexuality is acquired rather than inherited in the vast majority of cases Canty said Canty said the trait is often acquired when 12 to 14 year olds become involved with a homosexual stunting their growth toward heterosexuality Conditioned to accept homosexuality and unable to develop a normal relationship with the opposite sex he becomes a social outcast

Homosexuals are not usually dangerous Canty said but sometimes they incur publicity by accosting strangers or trying to take advantage of adolescents

Least Crime

The second most frequently commited sex crime is molest, a crime parents fear and try to protect their children against But Canty said it is the crime from which least harm can be expected to arise

The crime generally is committed by men past 60 and in almost all cases involves girls under 14 Canty said He said the crime is linked to arteriosclerosis a disease which affects the elderly men by removing their inhibitions The disease makes the men do things they would not do if their minds were functioning normally

The saddest thing about the crime, Canty said, is that it is proof that a person's mind has been impaired by disease.

The would be molester may entice a child with candy or money but rarely does he harm the child, according to Canty

Dorchester s present valuation of $3 974 000 will go to approximately $7 million when the merger becomes effective June 4 according to Saline County Superintendent B J Klasek Rural districts included are 1 19 31, 25, 11 and part of 94 and 64

Two mail votes are still to be counted and one ballot has been challenged, but these cannot change the decision.

Surplus Of Migratory Beet Workers In State

While Colorado Wyoming and Montana have a shortage of migratory beet workers Nebraska has an oversupply

Labor Commissioner Lambert Eitel said Wednesday the Nebraska Division of Employment has been placing migratory beet workers in jobs in Colorado and Wyoming

Don Christenson, farm placement supervisor, said private beet concerns have been co-operating in advancing such workers money to get them to their jobs in Colorado and Wyoming.

A new federal law, providing that temporary, migratory workers can now enter the country only upon approval of the U S secretary of labor, had earlier caused some concern that Nebraska might face a shortage of beet workers

Eitel said Nebraska has not lost any beet acreage because of the new law He said there is not a shortage of labor in Nebraska caused by the turnover from foreign to domestic labor supply

However, the commissioner said there is still a need for other, full-growing season agriculture workers

Eitel said the beet growing season in western Nebraska is three weeks behind now because of drought conditions, but most of the beet workers are now in the beet fields

Labor Department personnel said the recruitment of an oversupply of workers was due to several reasons —Active recruitment by both the state and private concerns mostly in Texas

—More drift ins this year than usual

—The state offers better advantages to these workers than some other states including living conditions

—A law LB293, passed this session with the emergency clause

LB293 extended from 30 to 60 days the period in which migratory workers can stay in the state without buying auto registrations This period is as long as the beet workers remain in the state

Eitel said the law has been a good tool for the State Labor Department in that the workers have to come into division of employment offices to register for the exemption

A Nation Under God

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

". . . One nation, under God . . ." reads in part the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States. No mention is made of 50 states or many religions. What this underscores is the bond by which the people of this nation are united. It points to the common heritage in which we all share and the fundamental concepts of human dignity that have lighted our way through two centuries.

We are a people as unique in our similarities or sameness as we are in our individuality. The important thing to remember is that we have both. It is in recognition of this principle that Nebraska Wesleyan University has altered its relationship with the Nebraska Conference of The Methodist Church. With this alteration, the university becomes a private, independent institution related to the Nebraska Conference. Administration of the university will be shifted more into the hands of its lay governing board and that board will be composed less of conference representatives.

A Change At Wesleyan

This does not mean that things have suddenly changed on the campus of Nebraska Wesleyan. The student going to classes today, tomorrow and next year will notice no difference from things as they existed yesterday. But the character of the school has been changing and will continue to do so.

The principles and philosophies of Methodism will not be discarded or forgotten. Rather, the framework in which they are practiced and advanced will be strengthened so their meaning shall never be tarnished. What this change does is recognize the fact that the parochialism that has characterized many of our people and institutions of the past cannot prevail in the future. It tells us that we are living in a nation of people who are coming into the fullness of tolerance and compassion. It tells us that we are living in a universe whose inhabitants have shaken off the yoke of exploitation and the curse of a disadvantaged birth. It is by our humanity that we are coming to be known rather than our materialism.

And what does this mean in a practical sense? It is not just an abstraction for the entertainment of an enlightened few or the intellectually gifted. It means that you can no longer live within yourself and be a part of the world around you. In the case of Nebraska Wesleyan, it means that Methodism is not diminished but is offered as a force that can help mankind in the surmounting of the many difficulties that plague it. Rather than confining its influence to a few, it seeks to broaden itself, to become more of an integral part of the community, state, nation and world of which is it a part. At the same time, it seeks a greater exposure itself to the reality of today's environment so that it can grow in knowledge, understanding and foresight and in this way make a more lasting and meaningful contribution.

They see the things by which men are divided rather than the things by which they are united. That Import Malarky

Just a year ago anyone who didn't agree that Australian meat, being allowed into this country by a bad political administration, was the cause of the decline in beef prices was either ignorant or subversive.

In view of that it is interesting to note that a western livestock magazine editor told the Nebraska cattlemen at O'Neill this week that the American packers and the chain stores comprised a problem of 100 per cent more gravity than imports.

All we can say is that an explanation that won't last the year out is not a good explanation. And this one on imports should be remembered for some while. There was hardly a rancher or cattle feeder in Nebraska that did not believe it even though prices became better with little or no change in the volume of imports.

What is the matter with the cattle industry by a bad political administration is what is the matter with any other form of farming. It is a rural economy trying to make out in a country that is largely industrial. And it has never learned how to get an adequate price out of the market.

One should not expect the packers to go broke, nor the stores to sell at a loss. That would not cure the problem. But when the packers and the stores are making an adequate profit but the supplier is not the fault is in pricing. That was true last year as it is today.

The cattle feeder is not going to improve himself at the expense of the rancher, for both are caught in the squeeze, and the rancher more than any other because he is at the source. The feeder can quit feeding until prices become better but the rancher cannot so easily dismiss his herds.

Unfounded Power Fears

Attacks against the wholesale public power integration bill that has been advanced to the floor of the Legislature are difficult to understand. Some municipalities are complaining that the integration would make a captive of the cities while other interests are claiming a power grab on the part of their competitors.

The fact is that the integration of agencies at the wholesale level of things would not change the position of municipalities. They could still acquire the distribution systems to which they are entitled if they want them and they could obtain power from whatever source pleased them. They could even use the lines of the wholesale agency as a vehicle for wheeling power into their own systems if they so desired.

As to a power grab, the suggestion is made that Consumers Public Power District is building an empire with the integration measure. This is ridiculous because there would be no more Consumers. Consumers and the Nebraska Public Power System would be merged into a single entity and neither of them would emerge on top because they would be nonexistent. If going out of business is a power grab, it is a mighty strange one.

The Legislature's Public Works Committee is to be commended for advancing this merger bill to the floor. It took a lot of courage to do so because the bill hacks away at selfish interests in behalf of the people of Nebraska. It is hoped now that the entire Legislature can see the wisdom of eliminating the duplication that exists and the great need that exists for a consolidation of power facilities at the wholesale level.

Ambassador To Luxembourg

Patricia Harris is the first American Negro woman to be appointed a U.S. Ambassador.

She and her husband will soon establish themselves at Luxembourg where she will present her credentials and go into the ambassador business. Luxembourg is not the hottest spot in the world. It is too small to have an army and therefore is a major threat to no one. It is a picture post card country and like Belgium and Switzerland acts as a buffer between France and Germany.

Mrs. Harris has two illustrious predecessors as ambassador to Luxembourg. One was Perle Mesta, widow of a heavy machine manufacturer, who is still known as the "hostess with the mostest," and former U.S. Chief of Protocol Wiley Buchanan. Both have large fortunes, which Mrs. Harris does not, and spent tidy sums out of their own pocket being ambassador.

Mrs. Harris has little means and will not be much help to the Luxembourg economy that way. But she is one of the smartest women in the U.S.A. She graduated first in her class in law at George Washington University and felt that she could have done better. Her name was Roberts at that time. But she married William Beasley Harris, a professor of law on the Howard University faculty. They formed the Washington, D.C., law firm of Harris and Harris and have maintained it for 10 years. Unfortunately for both of them, their abilities are so much in demand that they haven't time to make large sums as lawyers. Mrs. Harris' appointment as ambassador will cause a veritable flurry of resignations as they leave any number of U.S. organizations.

Mrs. Harris is an enthusiastic supporter of Lyndon B. Johnson and, if your memory is any good, she was the woman who seconded Johnson's nomination at the 1964 Democratic convention. She also served as Washington, D.C.'s, first woman elector. She is on the federal commission charged with deciding whether Puerto Rico needs statehood, independence or merely constitutional improvement.

DREW PEARSON

Bolivian Envoy, Helper Of Poor

WASHINGTON — Sen. Wayne Morse, the indomitable Democrat from Oregon, is famous for having once established the Senate's longest speaking record, for copping blue ribbons for his English Red Devon cattle, and his unrelenting battle against military take-overs in Latin America.

The other day Morse received a call from a handsome young diplomat who introduced himself: "I am the new Bolivian ambassador, and I represent the new military junta. I know that you don't like military juntas. However, I came to see you anyway."

The young man who came to see him, Ambassador Julio Sanjines, is a unique Bolivian. To help the long-depressed Indian population of his country, he gave away one million acres of his land for Indian resettlement.

☆ ☆ ☆

Ambassador Sanjines was educated at Iowa State and West Point. In Bolivia he put the Army to work at such nonmilitary projects as irrigation, well-drilling and health, instead of politics. Though exiled for a time by the "National Revolutionary Movement," he believes in their policies — namely, higher taxes for the wealthy and dividing up the land to put the Indian population on the land.

The new president of Bolivia, Gen. Rene Barrientos Ortuno, got his training at Randolph and Kelly Fields with the U.S. Air Force, is also a believer in the fundamentals of "national revolution."

He has also carried the quarrel of ex-President Paz with Vice President Juan Lechin one step further. Lechin, sometimes called the "John L. Lewis" of the Bolivian tin miners, had incurred the ire of pro-Labor President Paz by leading frequent strikes in the tin mines, thereby pricing Bolivian tin almost out of the world market.

President Barrientos has now sent Lechin into exile which has brought a sitdown in government-owned mines and the call of a general strike against the government.

The new military regime is countering by urging production in 200 smaller privately owned tin mines.

As ambassador Sanjines explained it to Morse: "We are for the principles of the revolution and we want to continue the division of the land among the Indian population. But we are not going to let one union dominate the country. Government operation has not worked with this union in control, so now we are going to try private enterprise."

The ambassador points to the fact that the Gulf Oil Company has invested $100,000,000 in boring several productive wells, and its property has been protected.

"In these days when the production of tin in Indonesia and Viet Nam is highly uncertain," says the ambassador, "Bolivian tin may be the most important source for the United States, and we have to keep it moving."

Four More Shopping Days Before June

NEW YORK—There are only four more shopping days till June. This may give pause to thousands of young men who are due to stop shopping (girlwise) forever, come next month. For June, as every Ogden Nash fan realizes, is the time when. . .

"Ladies grow loony, and gentlemen loonier;

This year's June is next year's junior."

Of the 15.5 million single males and 12 million single females in the U.S., a goodly percentage will be bound—as they say, appropriately—within the next 34 days. In tribute to the month of weddings and to distract the distracted brides and grooms from the business at hand (the business-at-hand being the digestion of their fingernails), here are some items of interest about the history of wedding traditions:

1. The wedding cake. For centuries, the cake has been considered a delicacy to enhance the marriage chances of the spinster guests, who are supposed to sleep on hunks of same—thus assuring themselves of an early mate and a sticky bed.

This ritual actually was invented by the Romans. When they started it, they insisted that the cake be broken over the bride's head--thus assuring her an early shampoo, and great wealth.

2. Bride over the threshold. It was a bad omen, thought the Romans, for a bride to trip during her wedding day. It was a good omen for her to step into her new home with the left foot. Because women are awkward and incapable — especially in orange blossoms and togas—grooms were required to carry their wives over the doormat and drop them, port side first, where they belonged.

3. The bridal costume. If a bride is married in white, she's "chosen aright." If blue, her groom is true. Pearl, she'll live in a whirl. But beware pink—her spirits will sink. Yellow — she's ashamed of her fellow. And red—she'd better be dead.

4. Happy is the bride the sun shines on. This is the simple legend. Behind it is another old Roman wive's tale: The sun's rays are supposed to produce many children. (July marriages are more public than most.)

5. The best man. Roman custom made it necessary to have an extra man, beside the groom, to fight off angry relatives when a bride was captured by force, which was fairly common from old Roman times right up through Rudolf Valentino.

6. Throwing rice at the bride. The Hindus, not the Romans, of course, started this tradition. The bride would throw three handfuls of rice at the groom, and vice-versa. Object: fertility. Today, the guests throw rice at the bride and groom, and often it is instant rice. Everything moves faster these days . . .

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the shape of an infant's head inherited, or is the position in which he sleeps important? I am very concerned because of the shape of my baby's head.—MRS. R. H.

Lots of infants have odd-shaped heads because they fall into the habit of sleeping in a certain position — always lying on the same side for instance.

Molner

This can be because they tend to look at something — the light coming in around the window shade while having a nap, or a similar thing. To prevent this, some mothers put the crib on one side of the room for a couple of weeks, then on the other side. And it usually works.

However, it isn't of any great importance, because eventually the skull assumes its presidented shape anyway, and then hardens. The final shape is determined by heredity, NOT by anything the baby does.

You see, (well, I'm sure you know it already) a baby's skull is fairly soft, and in addition there are the soft spots at the back, sides and top of the head.

Mother Nature arranged it that way. The skull consists of a number of plates, rather loosely joined, so the skull is rather flexible. At least part of the purpose is to make it easier for the baby to be born.

Later the plates gradually fuse together into solid bone. The soft spots at the back and sides tend to close at the age of 6 to 8 weeks, but it is 6 to 8 months before the larger plates become firm. The last, largest and most familiar soft spot, on top of the head and toward the front part of the scalp, is the last to close at about 18 months.

It is not, strictly speaking, a question of the bone changing shape because a child sleeps in a certain position. Rather, the different bones or plates can change position somewhat, temporarily. The real shape of the plates changes very little if any, and as it is time for them to fuse together, nature sees to it that they join in the right position.

I doubt, Mrs. R. H., whether you have any cause for concern. But you have company. Millions of mothers before you have worried and later found that everything is all right.

Dear Dr. Molner: About a year ago I read about a new way to restore withered muscles. I understand it is done by electric shock. Is it still in the experimental stage? I am 41 and had polio when I was two years old. One leg is much smaller than the other. Is it too late for any hope?—MRS. H. L.

I wouldn't call it an electric "shock" exactly. Here's what it's all about: When a leg, hand or other member becomes temporarily paralyzed, the muscles wither from sheer lack of use.

The paralysis comes, of course, because there is an interruption somewhere in the nerve track. The patient wants to move—but the signal never reaches the muscles.

In many cases it is possible to apply a small electric impulse to the nerves somewhere beyond the point of interruption. With each impulse, the muscles contract, and the muscle "gets its exercise" and does not wither. This is done in cases in which the damaged nerve track ultimately can be expected to heal, and the paralysis will end.

I am afraid that this would be of no use in your case, Mrs. H. L. However, I suggest that you have an evaluation by specialists in physio-therapy.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed the letter from Mrs. J. A., whose son has cerebral palsy. I am a 23-year-old C. P. victim. I attended college and am now operating a travel agency. (I graduated from Syracuse University in 3½ years.) When I was a baby the doctors told my parents to put me in an institution and to forget about me. I tell you this because I think it shows (1) the advances made by medicine; (2) that doctors are not always right.—R. J. D.

I don't know of anybody who is always right, but I'm sure that a great deal has last 20 years in making cerebral palsy less of a handicap.

Definitely children with cerebral palsy should have the benefit of some of the things that have been learned, which brings us to another letter:

Dear Doctor: I read about the woman who has a small boy with a mild case of cerebral palsy. Maybe she worries too much or is overprotective.

I have a mild case. It affected my right side. I couldn't walk very well as my right heel would not go down. My parents took me to several doctors and found the right one.

When I was five, a night brace was put on my leg and foot. I also had to learn to eat left-handed. I was a right-handed child, but couldn't do much with my right hand.

I wore the brace until I was 15 and saw my doctor only once a year. This past summer he discharged me, saying I was 100 per cent all right.

I am now 18, a senior in high school, and having loads of fun. I can go out, do things that others do, even in sports, and in fact sometimes I can outdo others.

It used to hurt me to have people say, "Harriet can't do that." They didn't know me too well. Right now I'm playing basketball in my gym class and really enjoying it. —MISS H. T.

Miss H. T.: I hope a lot of people have been reading today's column!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Revolt On Commercial

Van Nuys, Calif.

After being involved in a serious accident, I was confined for 10 weeks flat on my back in a hospital. The first four weeks went along fairly fast. Because I was in a four-bed ward where each patient has his doctors come in at different times of the day, received medication at all hours of the day, had visitors streaming in and out, constant joking with the nurses and discussions of our own problems, the days were kept busy and pleasant for those of us who were not seriously ill.

We had two television sets, one on each side of the room. Each of us had a small, compact combination remote control button with the speaker being able to be adjusted to a mere whisper. But naturally two of us had to share one set and had to agree as to what program we were to watch. But with all the activity in the ward, we never bothered with it until eight or nine p.m., and hospital rules stated the sets must be turned off at 10:30 p.m., so we could take it or leave it.

After four weeks in this ward, I was moved to isolation, which was a small private room, because I contracted an infection in my wound which if not isolated is contagious. While here and being unable to hold a book very long, I turned to television night and day, for there is no limitation on TV hours in such a room.

I live in an area at present that has more TV stations than any other city in the world. But outside of about six hours a day and most of the movies—10, 20 and 30 years old—it's not for me. So, the reason for this letter is the stupid, insulting, ridiculous and suggestive commercials that are repeated over and over and over again. When one of this type would come on, I would get a churning in my stomach and reach for my remote control unit like a drowning man grabbing for a lifesaver. Then it would all be gone and I could watch my program again.

I am home now, but due to a full leg cast and crutches, it will be television over and over for some months to come and in complaining about these commercials, I am sure there are many others who feel the same way I do. Let's do something about it together!

Weather Warnings

Lincoln, Neb.

I think the service the Weather Bureau is doing, plus that of radio and TV, in giving advance warnings of severe weather is fine, up to a point. Certainly when an actual tornado or heavy wind is headed for a certain community, lives might very well be saved by an alert that would allow people to seek what shelter were available and close at hand.

But I wonder if the program isn't overdone just a bit when there is a constant breaking in with the "alerts" that do not materialize. Not that anyone wants them to materialize, mind you. But cannot the situation be analyzed a little more accurately before unnecessary alarms? The value is soon lost when a populace is informed so often that they tend to ignore repeated warnings.

Also, don't some of the individuals themselves who call in to report "tornadoes" get just a little excited sometimes, and perhaps label as a twister nothing more than a dark cloud that might resemble the funnel effect?

We don't want to get swept away by weather. But let's don't get carried away by excessive weather concern, either.

So Much Change

Lincoln, Neb.

The world is full of change and everyone wants to go along.

Let us not overdo it. Not all of the things of the old days ought to be banished. Some of them are very fine and we have no replacement for them. We just need to get rid of the backward things.

Wages are not the things that destroy industries today. It is obsolescence of product.

The churches had better take their change slowly and always make sure that the old customs they are putting to death don't turn out to be Christianity itself. All most churches need is a little more Christian tolerance.

Let us all remember that we think not in the long-range, but in terms of the time in which we live. We never needed Christianity more than we do today, because it is the only way we can live safely.

WONDERING

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

". . . One nation, under God . . ." reads in part the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States. No mention is made of 50 states or many religions. What this underscores is the bond by which the people of this nation are united. It points to the common heritage in which we all share and the fundamental concepts of human dignity that have lighted our way through two centuries.

We are a people as unique in our similarities or sameness as we are in our individuality. The important thing to remember is that we have both. It is in recognition of this principle that Nebraska Wesleyan University has altered its relationship with the Nebraska Conference of The Methodist Church. With this alteration, the university becomes a private, independent institution related to the Nebraska Conference. Administration of the university will be shifted more into the hands of its lay governing board and that board will be composed less of conference representatives.

A Change At Wesleyan

This does not mean that things have suddenly changed on the campus of Nebraska Wesleyan. The student going to classes today, tomorrow and next year will notice no difference from things as they existed yesterday. But the character of the school has been changing and will continue to do so.

The principles and philosophies of Methodism will not be discarded or forgotten. Rather, the framework in which they are practiced and advanced will be strengthened so their meaning shall never be tarnished. DREW PEARSON

Bolivian Envoy, Helper Of Poor

WASHINGTON — Sen. Wayne Morse, the indomitable Democrat from Oregon, is famous for having once established the Senate's longest speaking record, for copping blue ribbons for his English Red Devon cattle, and his unrelenting battle against military take-overs in Latin America.

The other day Morse received a call from a handsome young diplomat who introduced himself: "I am the new Bolivian ambassador, and I represent the new military junta. I know that you don't like military juntas. However, I came to see you anyway."

The young man who came to see him, Ambassador Julio Sanjines, is a unique Bolivian. To help the long-depressed Indian population of his country, he gave away one million acres of his land for Indian resettlement.

☆ ☆ ☆

Ambassador Sanjines was educated at Iowa State and West Point. In Bolivia he put the Army to work at such nonmilitary projects as irrigation, well-drilling and health, instead of politics. Though exiled for a time by the "National Revolutionary Movement," he believes in their policies — namely, higher taxes for the wealthy and dividing up the land to put the Indian population on the land.

The new president of Bolivia, Gen. Rene Barrientos Ortuno, got his training at Randolph and Kelly Fields with the U.S. Air Force, is also a believer in the fundamentals of "national revolution."

He has also carried the quarrel of ex-President Paz with Vice President Juan Lechin one step further. Lechin, sometimes called the "John L. Lewis" of the Bolivian tin miners, had incurred the ire of pro-Labor President Paz by leading frequent strikes in the tin mines, thereby pricing Bolivian tin almost out of the world market.

President Barrientos has now sent Lechin into exile which has brought a sitdown in government-owned mines and the call of a general strike against the government.

The new military regime is countering by urging production in 200 smaller privately owned tin mines.

As ambassador Sanjines explained it to Morse: "We are for the principles of the revolution and we want to continue the division of the land among the Indian population. But we are not going to let one union dominate the country. Government operation has not worked with this union in control, so now we are going to try private enterprise."

The ambassador points to the fact that the Gulf Oil Company has invested $100,000,000 in boring several productive wells, and its property has been protected.

"In these days when the production of tin in Indonesia and Viet Nam is highly uncertain," says the ambassador, "Bolivian tin may be the most important source for the United States, and we have to keep it moving."

Four More Shopping Days Before June

NEW YORK—There are only four more shopping days till June. This may give pause to thousands of young men who are due to stop shopping (girlwise) forever, come next month. For June, as every Ogden Nash fan realizes, is the time when. . .

"Ladies grow loony, and gentlemen loonier;

This year's June is next year's junior."

Of the 15.5 million single males and 12 million single females in the U.S., a goodly percentage will be bound—as they say, appropriately—within the next 34 days. In tribute to the month of weddings and to distract the distracted brides and grooms from the business at hand (the business-at-hand being the digestion of their fingernails), here are some items of interest about the history of wedding traditions:

1. The wedding cake. For centuries, the cake has been considered a delicacy to enhance the marriage chances of the spinster guests, who are supposed to sleep on hunks of same—thus assuring themselves of an early mate and a sticky bed.

This ritual actually was invented by the Romans. When they started it, they insisted that the cake be broken over the bride's head—thus assuring her an early shampoo, and great wealth.

2. Bride over the threshold. It was a bad omen, thought the Romans, for a bride to trip during her wedding day. It was a good omen for her to step into her new home with the left foot. Because women are awkward and incapable — especially in orange blossoms and togas—grooms were required to carry their wives over the doormat and drop them, port side first, where they belonged.

3. The bridal costume. If a bride is married in white, she's "chosen aright." If blue, her groom is true. Pearl, she'll live in a whirl. But beware pink—her spirits will sink. Yellow — she's ashamed of her fellow. And red—she'd better be dead.

4. Happy is the bride the sun shines on. This is the simple legend. Behind it is another old Roman wive's tale: The sun's rays are supposed to produce many children. (July marriages are more public than most.)

5. The best man. Roman custom made it necessary to have an extra man, beside the groom, to fight off angry relatives when a bride was captured by force, which was fairly common from old Roman times right up through Rudolf Valentino.

6. Throwing rice at the bride. The Hindus, not the Romans, of course, started this tradition. The bride would throw three handfuls of rice at the groom, and vice-versa. Object: fertility Today, the guests throw rice at the bride and groom, and often it is instant rice. Everything moves faster these days . . .

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the shape of an infant's head inherited, or is the position in which he sleeps important? I am very concerned because of the shape of my baby's head.—MRS. R. H.

Lots of infants have odd-shaped heads because they fall into the habit of sleeping in a certain position — always lying on the same side, for instance.

Molner

This can be because they tend to look at something — the light coming in around the window shade while having a nap, or a similar thing. To prevent this, some mothers put the crib on one side of the room for a couple of weeks, then on the other side. And it usually works.

However, it isn't of any great importance, because eventually the skull assumes its presidented shape anyway, and then hardens The final shape is determined by heredity, NOT by anything the baby does.

You see, (well, I'm sure you know it already) a baby's skull is fairly soft, and in addition there are the soft spots at the back, sides and top of the head.

Mother Nature arranged it that way. The skull consists of a number of plates, rather loosely joined, so the skull is rather flexible. At least part of the purpose is to make it easier for the baby to be born.

Later the plates gradually fuse together into solid bone. The soft spots at the back and sides tend to close at the age of 6 to 8 weeks, but it is 6 to 8 months before the larger plates become firm. The last, largest and most familiar soft spot, on top of the head and toward the front part of the scalp, is the last to close at about 18 months.

It is not, strictly speaking, a question of the bone changing shape because a child sleeps in a certain position. Rather, the different bones or plates can change position somewhat, temporarily. The real shape of the plates changes very little if any, and as it is time for them to fuse together, nature sees to it that they join in the right position.

I doubt, Mrs. R. H., whether you have any cause for concern. But you have company. Millions of mothers before you have worried and later found that everything is all right.

Dear Dr. Molner: About a year ago I read about a new way to restore withered muscles. I understand it is done by electric shock. Is it still in the experimental stage? I am 41 and had polio when I was two years old. One leg is much smaller than the other. Is it too late for any hope?—MRS. H. L.

I wouldn't call it an electric "shock" exactly. Here's what it's all about: When a leg, hand or other member becomes temporarily paralyzed, the muscles wither from sheer lack of use.

The paralysis comes, of course, because there is an interruption somewhere in the nerve track. The patient wants to move—but the signal never reaches the muscles.

In many cases it is possible to apply a small electric impulse to the nerves somewhere beyond the point of interruption. With each impulse, the muscles contract, and the muscle "gets its exercise" and does not wither. This is done in cases in which the damaged nerve track ultimately can be expected to heal, and the paralysis will end.

I am afraid that this would be of no use in your case, Mrs. H. L. However, I suggest that you have an evaluation by specialists in physio-therapy.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed the letter from Mrs. J. A., whose son has cerebral palsy. I am a 23-year-old C. P. victim. I attended college and am now operating a travel agency. (I graduated from Syracuse University in 3½ years.) When I was a baby the doctors told my parents to put me in an institution and to forget about me. I tell you this because I think it shows (1) the advances made by medicine; (2) that doctors are not always right.—R. J. D.

I don't know of anybody who is always right, but I'm sure that a great deal has last 20 years in making cerebral palsy less of a handicap.

Definitely children with cerebral palsy should have the benefit of some of the things that have been learned, which brings us to another letter:

Dear Doctor: I read about the woman who has a small boy with a mild case of cerebral palsy. Maybe she worries too much or is overprotective.

I have a mild case. It affected my right side. I couldn't walk very well as my right heel would not go down. My parents took me to several doctors and found the right one.

When I was five, a night brace was put on my leg and foot. I also had to learn to eat left-handed. I was a right-handed child, but couldn't do much with my right hand.

I wore the brace until I was 15 and saw my doctor only once a year. This past summer he discharged me, saying I was 100 per cent all right.

I am now 18, a senior in high school, and having loads of fun. I can go out, do things that others do, even in sports, and in fact sometimes I can outdo others.

It used to hurt me to have people say, "Harriet can't do that." They didn't know me too well. Right now I'm playing basketball in my gym class and really enjoying it. —MISS H. T.

Miss H. T.: I hope a lot of people have been reading today's column!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Revolt On Commercial

Van Nuys, Calif.

After being involved in a serious accident, I was confined for 10 weeks flat on my back in a hospital. The first four weeks went along fairly fast. Because I was in a four-bed ward where each patient has his doctors come in at different times of the day, received medication at all hours of the day, had visitors streaming in and out, constant joking with the nurses and discussions of our own problems, the days were kept busy and pleasant for those of us who were not seriously ill.

We had two television sets, one on each side of the room. Each of us had a small, compact combination remote control button with the speaker being able to be adjusted to a mere whisper. But naturally two of us had to share one set and had to agree as to what program we were to watch. But with all the activity in the ward, we never bothered with it until eight or nine p.m., and hospital rules stated the sets must be turned off at 10:30 p.m., so we could take it or leave it.

After four weeks in this ward, I was moved to isolation, which was a small private room, because I contracted an infection in my wound which if not isolated is contagious. While here and being unable to hold a book very long, I turned to television night and day, for there is no limitation on TV hours in such a room.

I live in an area at present that has more TV stations than any other city in the world. But outside of about six hours a day and most of the movies—10, 20 and 30 years old—it's not for me. So, the reason for this letter is the stupid, insulting, ridiculous and suggestive commercials that are repeated over and over and over again. When one of this type would come on, I would get a churning in my stomach and reach for my remote control unit like a drowning man grabbing for a life-saver. Then it would all be gone and I could watch my program again.

I am home now, but due to a full leg cast and crutches, it will be television over and over for some months to come and in complaining about these commercials, I am sure there are many others who feel the same way I do. Let's do something about it together!

Weather Warnings

Lincoln, Neb.

I think the service the Weather Bureau is doing, plus that of radio and TV, in giving advance warnings of severe weather is fine, up to a point. Certainly when an actual tornado or heavy wind is headed for a certain community, lives might very well be saved by an alert that would allow people to seek what shelter were available and close at hand.

But I wonder if the program isn't overdone just a bit when there is a constant breaking in with the "alerts" that do not materialize. Not that anyone wants them to materialize, mind you. But cannot the situation be analyzed a little more accurately before unnecessary alarms? The value is soon lost when a populace is informed so often that they tend to ignore repeated warnings.

Also, don't some of the individuals themselves who call in to report "tornadoes" get just a little excited sometimes, and perhaps label as a twister nothing more than a dark cloud that might resemble the funnel effect?

We don't want to get swept away by weather. But let's don't get carried away by excessive weather concern, either.

So Much Change

Lincoln, Neb.

The world is full of change and everyone wants to go along.

Let us not overdo it. Not all of the things of the old days ought to be banished. Some of them are very fine and we have no replacement for them. We just need to get rid of the backward things.

Wages are not the things that destroy industries today. It is obsolescence of product.

The churches had better take their change slowly and always make sure that the old customs they are putting to death don't turn out to be Christianity itself. All most churches need is a little more Christian tolerance.

Let us all remember that we think not in the long-range, but in terms of the time in which we live. We never needed Christianity more than we do today, because it is the only way we can live safely.

WONDERING

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Companionship Can Brighten Senior Citizens' Lives

By ROBERT PETERSON

One of the most disheartening aspects of age is loneliness and lack of companionship. Most elders will tell you their attitudes would brighten and their spirits would rise if they didn't have to eat so many meals alone, or if there was someone they could call on short notice to accompany them on a trip downtown or a visit to the movies.

The obvious solution to this geriatric dilemma is for clubs, churches, lodges and civic groups to phone older members and ask if they would care to have their names, addresses and phone numbers listed on a "Let's Get Together Sometime" roster for distribution to other older members.

By sending this roster to all those listed, elders would have a file to consult when loneliness creeps in. All they'd need do would be to pick up the phone, call one of these persons, and ask if they'd like to join them for a chat, dinner, stroll or shopping spree.

It's such a simple technique you'd think it would be used by organized groups everywhere. But if even one group uses the plan, this column hasn't heard about it.

We tend to scoff at proverbs and old wives' tales. Yet many musty maxims carry more than a figment of truth. Take the one about "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

Two or three recent studies have shown that the pectin in apples reacts on body chemistry in such a way as to reduce the level of cholesterol in the blood.

Apples are also being hailed for other values by Dr. Eugene E. Lucas of the University of Michigan who has kept health records over a three-year period on 3,000 students who have eaten at least one apple a day.

The survey reveals that apple-eating students made one-third fewer calls at the university's health center for colds, and one-sixth fewer visits for headaches and nervous symptoms. Dr. Lucas gives the credit to the high vitamin C content and mysterious natural tranquilizers in apples.

Many widows feel lonely and useless because they are without a companion, lack marketable skills and are convinced they're too old for new careers.

Here's an encouraging note from Mrs. Laura E. Berge who created a constructive new life for herself by moving to a small town. She writes, "Following my husband's death I was depressed and needed a new setting. So I moved to the small community of Lisco, Nebraska, where I had heard there was a need for high school teachers.

"At the age of 55 I went back to college and took 30 hours of courses in education and library science. I also brushed up on my typing as this is very important in library work. Presto. At the age of 57 I stepped into a good job as teacher and librarian in the local school.

"It's the most fascinating job I've ever had and I only wish I could urge others to forget age, set new goals, acquire the necessary training and make the most of the years ahead."

Mortality Table Bill Is Passed

A bill providing a new mortality table for industrial insurance was passed 47-0 by the State Legislature Wednesday.

The measure, LB598, introduced by Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, was the only bill on the final reading.

Col. Yost Named Commander Of NU's Army ROTC

Col. Carl R. Yost, a career army officer who received a commission as a student at the University of Nebraska, is the new commander of the University's Army ROTC program.

The native of Harvard, Neb., and graduate of the university succeeds Col. Elmer R. Powell, who retired last month as professor of military science.

Col. Yost received his army commission at the university in 1937. He served in the Pacific during World War II, and since the war has held several posts, including overseas duty in Iran, France and Germany.

Planners Back Height Rules In Vicinity Of Muny Airport

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday recommended approval of a proposed ordinance which will regulate the height of structures and trees in the vicinity of Lincoln Municipal Airport.

The ordinance prescribes approach zones for the three airport runways and provides for safety markers and lights in airport hazard areas.

The height limitation is 150 feet in all areas within a three-mile radius of the airport, except approach and transition zones, where the limitation will vary from ground level to 150 feet.

Approved By Authority

The ordinance is in line with state law authorizing cities to administer and enforce airport zoning, and has been approved by the Airport Authority

Final approval will come from the City Council

The commission also approved a county change of zone from agriculture district to industrial district., requested by Arnold Swanson Co., on property located on the east side of U.S. 77 south, one mile north of the Turnpike corner.

The Hastings construction firm wants to use the property as a base for its operation in southeast Nebraska

Attorney Frank Sidles, representing the Lincoln Memorial Park Association and several property owners in the area, appeared in opposition to the zoning change.

For Industrial Use

The planning staff had recommended approval of the request because the land has been proposed for industrial use in the comprehensive plan.

Also recommended for approval was a request by Wedgewood Manor, Inc., for a special permit to construct a swimming pool and bath house east of Seacrest Field on the north side of A.

Other business

—Change of zone from AA rural and public use to K light industry, requested by Lena and Otis Glebe, on property in the southeast corner of Folsom and South, deferred

—Change of zone from D multiple dwelling to I commercial on property located at 47th and Huntington, deferred The city will advertise for zoning changes in adjacent lots

—Request by the Labor Temple for a special permit to construct a parking lot at 46th and Y, approved

—Sale of city property located on the southeast corner of 56th and Morrill, approved.

'Silent Sam' The Sniper Big Pain In Charlie Co.'s Neck

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—"Silent Sam" the sniper is a big pain in the neck to Charlie Company of the U.S. Marines, who work out of Checkpoint Columbia on Bolivar Avenue.

He works with a silencer, usually at nightfall when traffic in and out of the rebel sector eases off.

This is fortunate for Charlie Company because the Leathernecks don't have to be out checking cars in the street where they'd be exposed to "Silent Sam's" fire.

Just The Phffts

"He hasn't got any of us yet," said Capt. Paul K. Dougherty, 27, of Norfolk, Va., the company commander. "But he's a real pain with that silencer. You don't hear him, just the phfft of his shots passing by."

Bolivar Avenue is a narrow, two-lane street lined with squat almond and flaming red flamboyant trees, and crowded with U.S. troops and tons of supplies.

The avenue starts in the western fringe of this divided city and swings through blocks of progressively inferior residences until it comes to a place where young folks in sports shirts and leather caps armed with rifles guard an intersection.

Westernmost

This intersection is the westernmost limit of the rebel-controlled sector of downtown Santo Domingo.

Vehicular and pedestrian traffic out of the rebel zone is channeled through only two checkpoints. One of these is Checkpoint Columbia, where Marines examine about 2,000 cars daily.

This means searching inside and under the cars. At the checkpoint north of here, the 82nd Airborne Division has found how to check under sides of cars easily. They opened a manhole and put a paratrooper in it. The Marines use the mirrors from dressers.

"If there's anything down there I should find it," said Sgt. Moses William, 26, of Harlan Ky., in charge of the mirrors.

Dougherty didn't say so, but it is known that all persons are being checked against a master list of Castroites and Marxists.

Even Chickens, Pigs

"Traffic out of the rebel zone is heavy and you wonder that any people are left in there," the captain continued. "People are coming out bringing even their chickens and pigs."

There are even some people in buses going through. The creaky bus to Barahona, southwest of Santo Domingo, hasn't let a war interfere with its daily round trip from the downtown part of the capital.

But once evening comes and the crickets start their chatter, things change around Checkpoint Columbia. "Silent Sam" is out there some place and the Marines tighten their bullet-proof vests and huddle behind the sandbags.

The trouble with this checkpoint is that it's only four blocks from the presidential palace, ransacked and bombed at the height of the civil war. The battered, domed building is occupied by 300 troops of the civilian-military junta opposing the rebels.

The building is only a few blocks from the rebel zone, and the rebels would like to reoccupy it. The palace has no political value, but its possession probably would give the rebels a psychological lift.

Frequent Firefights

So firefights are frequent around the palace between the rebels and junta troops.

"The shooting down there seems to awaken all the snipers in the vicinity," Dougherty said. "Then we're in for a lively evening."

These hazards to the job of traffic police has the Marines wondering what's next for them.

"Just before this job," said Dougherty, "we were shipped to Norway where we all learned to ski. That was in March. And now Santo Domingo. From frostbite to heat prostration. That's us."

Solons To Ask Road Laws Study

Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner and members of the Public Works Committee agreed Wednesday to call for an interim study to bring Nebraska's motor vehicle laws into conformity with the national uniform code.

Warner, introducer of five bills designed to conform Nebraska's rules of the road with the uniform code, said he will sponsor a resolution urging the study. The Public Works Committee pledged its support.

Warner agreed to seek withdrawal of his five bills, LB736 through LB740, which were a result of a study authorized by the 1963 Legislature and financed primarily by federal funds.

Warner said his resolution will ask for $2,000 in state funds to go along with federal money to finance the interim study.

The uniform code outlines rules of the road, licensing procedures, municipal laws and other vehicle regulations which states are urged to adopt.

Wednesday's decision was made after the committee informed Warner that it agreed Nebraska's vehicle laws should conform with the uniform code but that the five bills have conflicting and controversial sections which the committee could not support.

In other action, the committee advanced a bill requiring interstate truckers to file motor vehicle fuel reports in Nebraska for tax purposes.

The measure, LB622, introduced by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter, received 8-0 committee approval.

Carpenter Urges Open Meetings Bill Revival

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff moved in the Legislature Wednesday to revive the so-called open meetings bill.

Action on the request was deferred at the urging of the Scottsbluff lawmaker.

The Miscellaneous Subjects Committee killed LB790 last week. It is supported by news media representatives.

The bill would require that all meetings of governmental bodies be open to the public. It would outlaw executive sessions which the public and sometimes the news media may not attend.

Supporters of the legislation contend that under present law the news media have the responsibility of proving the right to attend meetings. The bill would make public officials show why the public should be denied attendance.

Similar bills have been killed in the past sessions of the Legislature.

Penneys
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY

The President has asked Congress to repeal the excise taxes on the merchandise listed here, effective July 1st. PENNEY'S applauds that action . . . and anticipates favorable action by our Congress. And PENNEY'S insists, of course, that such tax savings should be passed on to you . . . the customer. But, PENNEY'S believes further, that if you need (for example) a Refrigerator now, that you should not be obliged to wait until July 1st or later to get advantage of the tax cut. Solons To Ask Road Laws Study

Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner and members of the Public Works Committee agreed Wednesday to call for an interim study to bring Nebraska's motor vehicle laws into conformity with the national uniform code

Warner, introducer of five bills designed to conform Nebraska's rules of the road with the uniform code, said he will sponsor a resolution urging the study. The Public Works Committee pledged its support.

Warner agreed to seek withdrawal of his five bills, LB736 through LB740, which were a result of a study authorized by the 1963 Legislature and financed primarily by federal funds.

Warner said his resolution will ask for $2,000 in state funds to go along with federal money to finance the interim study.

The uniform code outlines rules of the road, licensing procedures, municipal laws and other vehicle regulations which states are urged to adopt

Wednesday's decision was made after the committee informed Warner that it agreed Nebraska's vehicle laws should conform with the uniform code but that the five bills have conflicting and controversial sections which the committee could not support.

In other action, the committee advanced a bill requiring interstate truckers to file motor vehicle fuel reports in Nebraska for tax purposes.

The measure, LB622, introduced by Scottsbluff Sen Terry Carpenter, received 8-0 committee approval

Carpenter Urges Open Meetings Bill Revival

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff moved in the Legislature Wednesday to revive the so-called open meetings bill

Action on the request was deferred at the urging of the Scottsbluff lawmaker.

The Miscellaneous Subjects Committee killed LB790 last week It is supported by news media representatives

The bill would require that all meetings of governmental bodies be open to the public. It would outlaw executive sessions which the public and sometimes the news media may not attend

Supporters of the legislation contend that under present law the news media have the responsibility of proving the right to attend meetings The bill would make public officials show why the public should be denied attendance.

Similar bills have been killed in the past sessions of the Legislature.

Youth Corps Conservation Work To Aid 300 Ready To Start

By LARRY FRUHLING
United Press International

A program to give between 200 and 300 young Nebraskans jobs in conservation work will begin within a week, Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the state Soil and Water Conservation Commission said Wednesday.

Fairchild said he learned that a $100,000 advance for operating the program the first two months has been approved by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Fairchild said he was informed of the advance by Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb.

"The agreements have been signed by all parties concerned and we're ready to go, Fairchild said.

He said the 85 local conservation districts in Nebraska will begin recruiting immediately for the Neighborhood Youth Corps program, set up under the Federal Economic Opportunity Act.

Fairchild said he anticipated between one and five enrollees in each of the state's local Soil and Water Conservation units.

Total cost of the six-month program is estimated at just over $350,000. Of this amount, the federal government will pay $287,712.

Fairchild said about 18% of the total cost will be in the form of "in kind" matching, which includes the time of local district supervisors and the use of equipment and facilities of the local districts.

Selection of youths for the project, Fairchild noted, will be up to supervisors of the local districts. The age limits for enrolling in the program are 16 through 21.

Fairchild said the program is initially authorized for six months, but that it would probably be extended.

He said the youths would be from economically disadvantaged families. Prerequisites for entering the corps, he added, would be that a youngster either needs money to continue his education or that he needs training to prepare him for future employment.

Fairchild said workers in the new program must have at least a tenth grade education. Jobs will be available both on a part-time and full-time basis.

Fairchild said some office jobs would be available for young women, but that most of the positions would be filled by men.

He explained that the number of jobs avilable would be determined by the number of applications for either part or full-time work. "We have only a set amount of money to operate on," he said.

The work will pay $1.25 an hour.

He said efforts will be made through employment agencies to place workers in the program in other jobs after they have worked the maximum two years in the corps.

Youths interested in the program may contact either their local conservancy district or employment agency, Fairchild added.

Nine Foreign Youths To Visit Nebraska Farms In August

Several Nebraska farm families will play host to nine foreign visitors beginning in August, under the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

Orhan Bahadirli of Hatay, Turkey; Jayanti Shah of Thamrung, Nepal; Claude P. Malcolm of Hanover, Jamaica; Yona T. Walder of Gedera, Israel; Margareta Karlsson of Flarken, Sweden; Betty Tsai of Tainan, Taiwan; Mutoko Suzuki of Sao Paulo, Brazil; Duck Yong Kang of Kyongsang Namdo, Korea; and Maceur Maskni of Sidi Bou Bouie, Tunisia, will arrive in Nebraska August 5, after spending several weeks in Kentucky. The exchangees were among 100 young men and women from 33 countries in Europe, Asia, and Africa who arrived in the U.S. this month.

They make up the 1965 contingent of 200 young people of the U.S. and 68 co-operating countries who are participating in the IFYE program.

Each foreign exchangee spends about six months in the U.S., living with rural families in two different states. Before coming to Nebraska, they will meet with other exchangees at Kansas State University for the annual IFYE mid-point conference.

The names of host families in Nebraska and the complete schedule of the nine IFYE's in the state this summer will be announced later.

The IFYE program is conducted by the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Co-operative Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and state land-grant colleges and universities.

Nebraska's 1965 IFYE's are Cheryl Abrahamson of Axtell, who will leave next month for the Philippines; Stanley Sutton of Lincoln, who will spend six months in Mexico, beginning in September; Bruce Holen of Bertrand, who will leave in September for Jamaica and Dorothy Winkenwerder of Hershey, who is currently living in Germany.

The Nebraska program is supported financially by the University of Nebraska 4-H Club, Nebraska Rural Youth, Gold's of Nebraska, and county 4-H members and interest groups.

Shipments Of Cattle Down 12%

. . . For Midwest

Washington (AP) — Cattle and calves moved into eight Midwestern Corn Belt states the first four months of this year for restocking herds and for fattening for slaughter declined 12% from a year earlier.

The Agriculture Department reported 1,392,000 head compared with 1,583,000 a year earlier. The decline largely reflected uncertainty about this year's prices of slaughter animals. Prices have strengthened greatly in recent weeks, however.

The number of sheep and lambs shipped into these states also was down 12%—519,000 this year compared with 580,000.

Ohio and Nebraska showed increased receipts in cattle and calves. Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota showed declines.

Response To Halsey Camp Needs Good

Halsey — Youth groups, church administrators, farm organization leaders and county Extension agents have responded almost unanimously in expressing a desire to keep original camping schedules at the fire-damaged state 4-H Camp here this summer.

This is the conclusion of a survey by John Orr, director of camping activities for the State 4-H office. The camp is being rebuilt through the help and guidance of specialists from the Forest Service, University of Nebraska and Soil Conservation Service, aided by volunteer workers.

Aid From Governor

The Nebraska Association for 4-H Development, which established the camp, has received help from the office of Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison, Orr stated. This assistance includes the loan of bed and tents from the Nebraska National Guard; volunteer labor crews from the Boys' Training School, Kearney; and the exploration of possible sources of assistance to help reconstruct the camp, valued at $300,000. However, no state or federal funds are being solicited at this time by the association, Orr said.

Approximately 4,000 youth from 4-H clubs, church, farm organizations and other youth agencies are expected to use the camp during the remainder of 1965.

Over seven thousand trees have been planted on the 4H camp site since the fire, including sycamore, Austrian pine, cottonwood, plum, ash, and other varieties. Recent cool rainy weather supplemented by water sprinklers, will boost the survival rate, Orr pointed out. Several Nebraska nurseries have volunteered to donate larger trees for fall planting, he added.

State Education Board Granted $64,304 By U.S.

Washington (AP) — A $64,304 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Nebraska State Board of Education was announced Wednesday.

The money will be used in a program of education for persons 18 years of age and older whose inability to read and write impairs their chances of obtaining and keeping employment.

The announcement was made through the office of Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb.

Ohio and Nebraska showed increased receipts in cattle and calves. Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota showed declines.

Response To Halsey Camp Needs Good

Halsey — Youth groups, church administrators, farm organization leaders and county Extension agents have responded almost unanimously in expressing a desire to keep original camping schedules at the fire-damaged state 4-H Camp here this summer.

This is the conclusion of a survey by John Orr, director of camping activities for the State 4-H office. The camp is being rebuilt through the help and guidance of specialists from the Forest Service, University of Nebraska and Soil Conservation Service, aided by volunteer workers.

Aid From Governor

The Nebraska Association for 4-H Development, which established the camp, has received help from the office of Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison, Orr stated. This assistance includes the loan of bed and tents from the Nebraska National Guard; volunteer labor crews from the Boys' Training School, Kearney; and the exploration of possible sources of assistance to help reconstruct the camp, valued at $300,000. However, no state or federal funds are being solicited at this time by the association, Orr said.

Approximately 4,000 youth from 4-H clubs, church, farm organizations and other youth agencies are expected to use the camp during the remainder of 1965.

Over seven thousand trees have been planted on the 4H camp site since the fire, including sycamore, Austrian pine, cottonwood, plum, ash, and other varieties. Recent cool rainy weather supplemented by water sprinklers, will boost the survival rate, Orr pointed out. Several Nebraska nurseries have volunteered to donate larger trees for fall planting, he added.

Vinh Area Focal Point Of Attacks

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)— U.S. bombers concentrated much of their attention Wednesday on a single section of North Viet Nam's seaward spine, the Vinh area. Four raids centered in and around Vinh, a garrisoned town midway between the border and Hanoi.

The Soviet news agency Tass said one attack was made on a point in Ninh Binh province only 60 kilometers (37 miles) from Hanoi. But its Hanoi dispatch gave no details and independent confirmation was lacking.

The closest approach cited in Saigon briefings covering strikes by more than 60 planes was a raid on three PT boats in the Song Ba River near Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Ho Chi Minh's Red capital. The closest previously announced strike was 55 miles from Hanoi.

Hanoi has been immune throughout the raids that started last Feb. 7 and the Russians now are reputed to be helping stiffen its difenses.

A dozen Australian soldiers, headed by Maj. J. Essex Clark, flew to Saigon to prepare for the arrival of the 800-man combat battalion Australia is sending to Viet Nam later this month.

Spokesmen said there was heavy antiaircraft fire over Vinh and some shooting in other cases, but all of Wednesday's raiders returned safely.

U.S. ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and Premier Phan Huy Quat initialed a food for peace agreement under which the United States will send South Viet Nam $6.8 million worth of food -- 25,000 tons of rice and 7,000 tons of milk. That will ease shortages caused in part by Viet Cong activity and 1964 floods in the northern provinces.

Taylor is leaving for Washington later this week — probably Saturday — for further consultations with President Johnson on Viet Nam.

Rusk: 'Larger War Will Not Remove U.S.'

Washington (AP)— Secretary of State Dean Rusk, disclosing a further Soviet missile involvement in the Viet Nam war, said Wednesday it would be a great mistake if Moscow and Peking should think "that a larger war on their side would remove us from Southeast Asia."

At his first news conference in two months, Rusk said there may be a second surface-to-air missile site in the immediate area of Hanoi, the North Viet Nam capital.

"We understand that in one of these sites, there is present missile-associated equipment," Rusk said under questioning. "I wouldn't want to go into details.

"But I would suppose that we could all assume that if they build sites, they don't build them to let them remain empty."

Officials said that the term missile-associated equipment refers to such things as launch platforms, gantries, derricks, launching pads and similar apparatus needed to put a missile into firing position.

Further, it was learned that in addition to the one certain site with missile-associated equipment there are "some probables" as well in the Hanoi region.

The type of Soviet-supplied missiles involved have a range of about 20 miles. They are not to be confused with the intermediate range missiles which the Soviets installed in Cuba and brought on the confrontation with President John F. Kennedy in October 1962.

Gov. Morrison's Speech Criticized By Knight

Lincoln Sen. John E. Knight Wednesday took the floor of the Legislature to criticize Governor Morrison's special address to the lawmakers Tuesday.

He described the governor's speech as saying little on the state's taxation problem.

"I'm bothered by the apparent willingness of this body to play dead on the matter of revenue and the budget in the face of the irresolute 'did he, didn't he' stand of our governor," Knight, a freshman legislator, said.

"Have you checked out the budget proposed by our governor. A budget which would have only a small hike, if any, in the property tax if we would enact certain suggested revenue measures?

"It may be because, as a freshman senator, I do not understand, but insofar as I am concerned this was not a balanced budget unless significant amounts would be added by a property tax increase. If this is the case, let's keep the facts clear."

Knight said he was also disturbed by what he called the governor's "insinuation that the members of this body, should we dare to modify the tax base, will automatically become interested in expansion of state bureaucracy."

Knight said Morrison suggested the Legislature transfer 50% of the state's agresearch fund to the dormant Nebraska Industrial Institute but has not introduced legislation to effect such a change.

He also noted the governor spoke out against LB807, a bill that would transfer control of the agresearch fund from the State Agriculture Department to a new agricultural and industrial institute.

Knight is the chief sponsor of LB807, which is pending in the Agriculture Committee. He said it is a good bill and would better fix administrative responsibility in both industrial and agricultural research.

Decision On Sticky Remap Problem Postponed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday discussed its sticky reapportionment problem for an hour, then decided to forego any decisions at the present time.

Tabled and pending before the lawmakers are separate motions to appeal the U.S. District Court decision tossing out its latest reapportionment bill, to proceed to reapportion according to county lines, and to proceed to reapportion ignoring county lines.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha proposed that the special five-member reapportionment committee draft a bill ignoring county boundaries.

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper urged that the Klaver motion be amended to direct the committee to follow county lines in reaching a recommendation.

But Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth prevailed on a 30-11 count when he asked lawmakers to table the issue for further study.

Lawmakers are "a bit jumpy" on the issue, he said, and should "settle down and look at all the possibilities" before taking any action.

Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill failed on a 13-26 vote when he attempted to bring a pending motion to appeal out of its tabled position for discussion.

The motion to appeal had been offered last week by Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte.

Discussion of the issue was carried on in an atmosphere of confusion which has prevailed in prior legislative deliberations resulting from the federal court order.

Craft said the Legislature should not violate the state constitution by crossing county lines, but Sen. George Syas of Omaha said such action is not necessarily prohibited by the constitution.

Only Way

Crossing county lines is "the only way that equality will prevail" Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln declared.

Rasmussen said citizens in over-populated districts actually receive better representation in the Legislature than they would if small portions of the larger counties were attached to whole counties which would dominate the district's vote.

Sen. Ira Paine of Grand Island said he does not want to see Hall County "chopped up like a jigsaw puzzle" just because it has been "caught in a mousetrap." Hall is the largest legislative district.

If the Legislature "monkeys around" without acting, Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance warned, senators will be required to run at-large in 1966, resulting in much less equitable representation.

If county lines are crossed, Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice suggested that the southern portion of Lancaster County be attached to Gage County to equalize districts in both counties.

Craft said the hour's discussion proved his point that "we are deciding not what is best for Nebraska, but how to satisfy three federal judges who have been appointed for life."

Bill Banning Junk Yards Along Roads Is Revived

With not a single vote to spare, the Legislature Wednesday pumped new life into a bill to prohibit junk yards and city dumps along public streets and highways.

Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme's motion to revive her LB602, killed by the Public Works Committee, carried on a 25-18 vote, with 25 affirmative votes needed.

The bill would designate junk yards and dumps along streets and highways to be public nuisances and force their removal if necessary.

Sen. Terry Carpetner objected to revival of the measure unless a provision was inserted providing that the bill would not apply to junk yards and dumps presently located along highways.

Sen. Orme said the state would have to pay costs if owners were forced to move their junk yards or dumps.

The revival action was taken the same day President Johnson urged Congress to pass legislation that would, among other things, require the screening of junk yards and dumps along the nation's Interstate and primary highway systems.

Sen. Carpenter suggested the administration is "now on a beauty binge."

A State Roads Department study several months ago showed that 234 junk yards and 37 dumps are "clearly visible" along Nebraska's 5,500 miles of Interstate and primary highways.

The Public Works Committee killed LB602 last week and decided to sponsor a resolution urging an interim study of eyesores.

Fremont Group Against State Income Tax Bill

Fremont (AP)—The Fremont City Council has adopted a resolution opposing the state income tax bill of Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln.

The bill was advanced off general file by the Legislature last week.

The council said it was opposed to Bauer's bill, LB797, or any other bill to change the state's tax base without a vote of the people.

Glen Ilgenfritz, manager of the Fremont Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber is basically in favor of a vote by the people and feels that when such a vote is held "the right answer usually comes out."

A vote, said Ilgenfritz, gets away from putting too much power in the hands of a few people.

Mayor Win Reinninger said he had been contacted by numerous persons recently on the bill and that no one had favored it.

Fremont is represented by Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, who last Saturday told the chamber he favored the Bauer bill.

Committee Approves $328 Billion Debt Top

Washington (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee approved Wednesday a bill setting a temporary ceiling of $328 billion for the national debt—$1 billion less than the treasury asked.

However, the figure still is $2.1 billion above the estimated high point of the debt during the coming year. The treasury customarily seeks borrowing authority $3 billion above its estimated need for flexibility in managing the debt.

Committee members said they felt the $328 billion ceiling — up $4 billion from the present one—was high enough since it would provide a $3 billion cushion for all but a short period during the year and in addition the treasury usually has on hand some $4 billion in cash.

The so-called permanent debt ceiling would be maintained at $285 billion, and the new temporary figure set for the year beginning July 1, if Congress follows the committee recommendation. Unless there is legislation by July 1, the ceiling would fall to the permanent figure.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler has told the committee he expects the debt to stand at $310.2 billion June 30 and to reach a high of $325.9 billion March 15, dropping, however, to $319.5 billion by the end of that month.

The debt fluctuates considerably during any year because peaks in tax collections and expenditures do not coincide.

Newell Resigns

Ogallala—The Rev. Leslie G. Newell has resigned as pastor of First Baptist Church here and will leave June 1 for his new position as pastor of First Baptist Church at Blue Rapids, Kan. He has served the Ogallala church for the past four years.

—PRESBYTERIANS—

Omaha Pastor Blasts Moves

. . . TO UNION, 'PRELACY'

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Minority protests flared Wednesday — both inside and outside the United Presbyterian general assembly — against a new confession of faith and moves toward inter-church union.

Both drew rebuttals, as the denomination's week-long governing meeting reached a close.

Assailing its historic decision in favor of a new expanded creed, the Rev. Dr. William T. Strong of Los Angeles filed a formal complaint calling it a "radical departure" and a breach of authorized procedures.

Right and Duty

Representatives of the 3.5 million-member church swiftly approved a curt reply, reiterating a standing principle that it is "the right and duty of a living church to restate its faith from time to time . . ."

Meanwhile, an Omaha, Neb., minister, the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Stimson, hurled a wide-ranging blast at recent denominational moves. He is pastor of Dundee Presbyterian Church.

He told a large outdoor news conference that the new confession helps "open the way to church union." He sharply denounced current talks for a six-denomination merger.

Makes Prediction

"If they succeed, as well they might, we shall have to leave the church which would no longer be free and Presbyterian-Reformed," he said. He predicted hundreds of others would walk out with him.

In contrast, the assembly has given overwhelming endorsement to continuing the union talks — involving Methodists, Espicopalians, Christians (Disciples), Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ, besides Presbyterians.

The new confession, the first projected creedal change in three centuries, was given preliminary sanction Tuesday night after lengthy debate. It still is subject to a two-year study and legislative process before final ratification.

To The Steps

Dr. Stimson summoned reporters to the auditorium steps after he was refused use of the meeting hall since he was not an elected delegate.

He said the new confession allows a doctrinal opening "for the loss of our liberties and the introduction of monarchical governmental forms" by permitting variety in them.

Referring to the union talks, including Methodists and Episcopalians who maintain the office of bishop, he said, "I cannot accept prelacy, bishops who exercise lordship and authority in violation of the teachings of Jesus, my Lord."

Charges Dr. Blake

He also accused the United Presbyterian chief administrator for 14 years, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, of "misusing his power and influence" in support of the union consultation, going on the last four years.

Shortly before, the assembly had unanimously repudiated circulation of charges of "alleged abuse of authority" by Dr. Blake and had commended him for "the sound exercise" of his duties.

"It was censure of me," said Dr. Stimson, who disclosed he had circulated his complaints to 12,000 Presbyterian ministers across the country.

Dr. Balke has also recently been a traget of attacks for his support of racial integration efforts.

Dr. Stimson 'Inaccucate'

Dr. Blake told newsmen he had long considered the Nebraska pastor a friend, that he regretted Dr. Stimson "has the convictions he has," that his charges were "no accurate," but that "if they were accurate they should be made in the right way."

He said that applying the word prelay to a church because it used bishops was "appealing to a recognized prejudice in some traditions."

He said the new confession was not specifically designed to promote church union. However, he added: "Of course, our church, with its ecumenical position, would be glad if it has the effect of leading us closer to our sister churches."

Bolivia Has Two Presidents

La Paz, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's ruling military junta was reshuffled Wednesday to establish a two-man joint presidency. Sporadic fighting continued between the army and rebellious tin miners.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando, commander of Bolivia's armed forces, moved up to share the presidency with Rene Barrientos, an air force general.

The two men shared the presidency for a few hours last November after the overthrow of President Victor Paz Estenssoro. Ovando was forced to resign in the face of public demonstrations against him.

Ovando's return to the copresidency climaxes nearly a week of political maneuvering and bitter fighting in the wake of a general strike that has virtually immobilized the country.

Ovando negotiated the truce Tuesday which ended most of the fighting between the army and miners.

Wednesday, however, miners were said to have fired at an army post near Catavi, 280 miles south of La Paz.

The fighting was reported by Defense Minister Hugo Suarez who accused the miners of breaking the cease-fire.

In describing the new two-man presidency, Suarez said, "It is a copresidency, but it has but one purpose and commands with only one voice."

Omaha Pastor Blasts Moves

. . . TO UNION, 'PRELACY'

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Minority protests flared Wednesday — both inside and outside the United Presbyterian general assembly — against a new confession of faith and moves toward inter-church union.

Both drew rebuttals, as the denomination's week-long governing meeting reached a close.

Assailing its historic decision in favor of a new expanded creed, the Rev. Dr. William T. Strong of Los Angeles filed a formal complaint calling it a "radical departure" and a breach of authorized procedures.

Right and Duty

Representatives of the 3.5 million-member church swiftly approved a curt reply, reiterating a standing principle that it is "the right and duty of a living church to restate its faith from time to time . . ."

Meanwhile, an Omaha, Neb., minister, the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Stimson, hurled a wide-ranging blast at recent denominational moves. He is pastor of Dundee Presbyterian Church.

He told a large outdoor news conference that the new confession helps "open the way to church union." He sharply denounced current talks for a six-denomination merger.

Makes Prediction

"If they succeed, as well they might, we shall have to leave the church which would no longer be free and Presbyterian-Reformed," he said. He predicted hundreds of others would walk out with him.

In contrast, the assembly has given overwhelming endorsement to continuing the union talks — involving Methodists, Espicopalians, Christians (Disciples), Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ, besides Presbyterians.

The new confession, the first projected creedal change in three centuries, was given preliminary sanction Tuesday night after lengthy debate. It still is subject to a two-year study and legislative process before final ratification.

To The Steps

Dr. Stimson summoned reporters to the auditorium steps after he was refused use of the meeting hall since he was not an elected delegate.

He said the new confession allows a doctrinal opening 'for the loss of our liberties and the introduction of monarchical governmental forms" by permitting variety in them.

Referring to the union talks, including Methodists and Episcopalians who maintain the office of bishop, he said, "I cannot accept prelacy, bishops who exercise lordship and authority in violation of the teachings of Jesus, my Lord."

Charges Dr. Blake

He also accused the United Presbyterian chief administrator for 14 years, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, of "misusing his power and influence" in support of the union consultation, going on the last four years.

Shortly before, the assembly had unanimously repudiated circulation of charges of "alleged abuse of authority" by Dr. Blake and had commended him for "the sound exercise" of his duties.

"It was censure of me," said Dr. Stimson, who disclosed he had circulated his complaints to 12,000 Presbyterian ministers across the country.

Dr. Balke has also recent-

Bolivia Has Two Presidents

La Paz, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's ruling military junta was reshuffled Wednesday to establish a two-man joint presidency. Sporadic fighting continued between the army and rebellious tin miners.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando, commander of Bolivia's armed forces, moved up to share the presidency with Rene Barrientos, an air force general.

The two men shared the presidency for a few hours last November after the overthrow of President Victor Paz Estenssoro. Ovando was forced to resign in the face of public demonstrations against him.

Ovando's return to the co-presidency climaxes nearly a week of political maneuvering and bitter fighting in the wake of a general strike that has virtually immobilized the country.

Ovando negotiated the truce Tuesday which ended most of the fighting between the army and miners.

Wednesday, however, miners were said to have fired at an army post near Catavi, 280 miles south of La Paz.

The fighting was reported by Defense Minister Hugo Suarez who accused the miners of breaking the cease-fire.

In describing the new two-man presidency, Suarez said, "It is a copresidency, but it has but one purpose and commands with only one voice."

Book Drive On For Ataturk

Members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary at the University of Nebraska, are in the midst of a four-week drive to collect books for a library at Ataturk University in eastern Turkey.

Ten years ago the university entered into a contract with the Agency for International Development to provide technical assistance in developing the new Ataturk University. The federal government provides all funds for the program.

The need for books at Ataturk was cited by Harold L. Allen, chief of the Nebraska staff in Turkey, who said that the nearest library is 600 miles from Ataturk University. There is a need for text and reference books covering a broad range of subjects.

De Gaulle Readies Revamping Drive

Paris (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is preparing an offensive to achieve a top-to-bottom revamping of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) on his own terms, reliable diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

He is most likely to launch the offensive after the December French presidential elections, the sources said.

Western officials did not rule out the possibility that De Gaulle might pull France out of NATO altogether in 1968 or 1969 if he fails to get his own way. But they said there are no firm indications at the moment that he plans to do so.

The sources said De Gaulle has given no official confirmation of these plans yet. But they said all indications from French officials point in that direction.

Apparent Demands

De Gaulle has not yet spelled out his demands, but Western officials said they appeared to include:

—A breakup of the integrated NATO command structure, which De Gaulle regards as objectionalbe.

—Major changes in the political structure of NATO as an organization, doing away with most of the supranational features to which he also objects.

U.S. Withdraw

—Withdrawal of all foreign NATO forces, including those of the United States, from French territory.

—Removal of Supreme Allied Headquarters (SHAPE) from France.

Diplomatic sources recalled that in a New Year's talk with French newsmen, De Gaulle said that while he still favored continuation of the Atlantic Alliance, he objected strongly to many features of NATO as an organization.

Drastic Change In Strategy To Be Sought By Englishmen

London (AP)— The British government, with U.S. support, has decided to seek a drastic revision of western defense strategy in Europe, qualified officials reported Wednesday night.

The British plans, the informants said, envisage:

—Abandonment of an 11-year-old strategy binding all North Atlantic alliance forces to fight a land campaign in Europe for up to 90 days after the first nuclear or conventional exchanges with a Communist enemy.

— Adoption instead of a new allied role designed to prevent, stall, suppress or otherwise deter frontier or other incidents that could escalate into the first fateful nuclear exchanges.

— The vesting of greater authority in U.S. Gen. Lyman D. Lemnitzer, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe (SAUCER), to control, deploy and use nuclear weapons. But this would be done in a way that should not upset the existing "two-key" system of control, which leaves the U.S. President with the ultimate decision on using nuclear bombs.

Britain's proposals are to be presented to a special two-day conference of NATO defense ministers in Paris Monday by Defense Secretary Denis Healey.

Disaster Areas

Washington (AP) — President Johnson declared three South Dakota counties a disaster area because of recent floods.

HUAC Has Stormy Hearing

Chicago (AP) — Witness after witness refused to answer questions Wednesday at a stormy session of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The committee got statements, wrangling and debate, but not the information it sought. Witnesses invoked—in all—the 1st, 4th, 5th, 6th, 9th, 13th, 14th, 15th, and 19th Amendments to the Constitution.

And U.S. marshals ejected 12 men and women, most of them young, who interrupted the testimony by shouting protests such as, "This farce has gone far enough," and "HUAC should be abolished."

And outside, pickets and counterpickets marched in front of the mansion-style building on Lake Shore Drive.

Briskest Action

The briskest action of the day came while David Englestein was on the witness stand. Alfred Nittle, committee counsel, asked if he knew Yolanda Hall while he was an instructor at the Chicago Worker's School, which Nittle said was a Communist indoctrination center.

Thomas P. Sullivan, attorney for Mrs. Hall, hurried forward to object. Marshals, apparently regarding him as out of order, ushered him back to his chair.

Sullivan got up again and asked that any testimony about his client be heard in closed session. The committee was in conference on the dais. Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Texas, who was presiding, ordered marshals to seat Sullivan. But Sullivan seated himself. The committee turned down the request for a closed session.

"Yolanda Hall was here in Chicago in 1949 as an admitted Communist," Nittle asserted.

Sullivan objected again.

Joined 3 Times

Lucious Armstrong, 65, a retired steel mill hand, told the committee that he joined the Communist Party in 1931, left it in 1934, rejoined it in 1937, left it again in 1948, and rejoined in 1953 when the FBI asked him to keep an eye on party activity.

He told the same basic story that the committee heard Tuesday from Miss Lola Bell Holmes. Both are Negroes who live on Chicago's South Side.

In speaking of his evaluation of the Communist Party in this country Wednesday Armstrong asserted: "The American people better wake up."

When Armstrong had concluded Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said Armstrong and others who spied on the Communists for the American government "are the unsung heroes of our time."

Fast State Action Seen If Road Beautification OKd

A State Road Department official said Wednesday Nebraska probably will be able to act quickly should Congress approve President Johnson's highway beautification program.

Bruce Gillan, chief of the department's program and planning division, said many of the eyesores along Nebraska's major roadways already have been located.

He also noted that the state's strong billboard control law, which now applies only to the Interstate Highway, can serve as a base for also controlling outdoor advertising along primary highways.

President Johnson Wednesday asked Congress to pass legislation to eliminate billboards and automobile junkyards from view along Interstate and primary highways, except in commercial and industrial areas. He also recommended legislation requiring states to use some funds for landscaping, beautification of scenic roads and establishment of recreation areas along the nation's network of roads.

Gillan said Nebraska and a few other states already are busy planning and constructing recreation areas, along the Interstate highway. Nine wayside areas featuring lakes, camping sites and recreation facilities, are planned along the Nebraska segment of the superhighway.

"This beautification program was no Surprise," Gillan said. "We knew something like this was coming."

A State Roads Department study several months ago showed there are 234 junkyards and 37 dumps "clearly visible" along Nebraska's 5,500 miles of Interstate and primary highways. The junkyards and dumps range in size from a quarter acre to 60 acres, according to the study report, and only three junkyards are visible from the Interstate.

A move to change Nebraska's method of controlling billboards along the Interstate has been rejected by the Legislature's Public Works Committee. The committee instead recommended an interim study of highway eyesores.

The University of Nebraska is conducting a study, financed by the state and federal governments, to find out what are the best grasses and trees to be used by Nebraska highway builders. The $120,000-a-year project is progressing at the University's Experiment Station at Mead.

State Engineer John Hossack said University botanists are searching for grasses and trees that are hardy, attractive and require little maintenance.

He said little landscaping has been tried in Nebraska, with the exception of along the interstate and some of the older roads, because of money shortages and the nature of Nebraska weather.

Burbach Heads Road Study

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton was named Wednesday to head special nine-member legislative committee to guide a $300,000 study of Nebraska's road needs.

Appointment of the committee was made by the Legislative Council's four-member executive board and announced by Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point, chairman of the Council.

The committee will direct the comprehensive study directed in Legislative Resolution No. 3 passed by lawmakers earlier this session.

The Legislature agreed to place $10,000 of tax money into the study so it could retain control of it. About two-thirds of the cost will come from federal funds and the remainder from Roads Department funds.

Other members of the committee are Sens. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, the chief introducer of the resolution authorizing the study; Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, Calista Hughes of Humboldt, Richard Marvel of Hastings, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, William Skarda of Omaha, Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

The last comprehensive study of Nebraska highway needs was published in 1948.

Tax-Tightening Move Gets First-Round OK

The Legislature Wednesday gave 26-0 first-round approval to a major property tax-tightening proposal.

LB331 requires county registers of deeds to report quarterly all sales or transfers of real estate to the state tax commissioner.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the bill's principal sponsor, said it would furnish the tax commissioner with more accurate information upon which to base property valuations between counties.

He said the bill would also improve the method of recording property valuations for taxation purposes.

Supported

The state tax commissioner's office supported the legislation at its public hearing last month.

Under the bill, registers of deeds would file periodic reports listing the amount of property sales and the estimated value of the land involved. Even property transfers where no money exchanges hands would be reported.

The State Association of Registers of Deeds has said it opposes the bill.

Legislation growing out of the legislative recount controversy in the First District earlier this year was given 25-0 preliminary approval.

Obvious Error

It provides that election officials may proceed with a recount if there is an obvious error on record.

Also, in the general election, officials must order a recount if the vote separating two candidates is less than one per cent of the total votes cast for the office.

Last January, Auburn car dealer Floyd Pohlman asked the Legislature to order a recount of his race with Sen. Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt, who defeated Pohlman by only 18 votes.

The Legislature rejected the request, but agreed something should be done to allow a recount before the Legislature convenes.

Action on a proposal that all real estate sales about $2,000 be subject to a state documentary stamp tax was deferred after objections to the measure were raised by Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln.

LB524, introduced by Revenue Committee Chairman Jules W. Burbach of Crofton, would set a 55-cent per every $500 fee on property sales.

Burbach said the federal government is contemplating abandoning this form of taxation and that the state should be prepared to step in.

Other bills given first-round approval:

LB892, allowing 25% of the legal voters of a school district to petition for a referendum on a redistrictnig proposal. A majority vote would carry the plan.

LB621, requiring the Department of Insurance to adminster examinations to all non-resident applicants for an insurance license in Nebraska.

LB584, providing that all future public buildings built in Nebraska shall include an access ramp for handicapped persons.

LB385, establishing an unauthorized insurers false alvertising process act in Nebraska.

LB704, increasing to $40 per week unemployment compensation benefits for those who earn less than $900 in a calendar quarter.

May 26, 1965

LB705, strengthening the disqualification provisions of the employment security law.

LB441, changing the method of taxing motor vehicles forming a part of a fleet.

Wylie Seeks To Withdraw LB397

Elgin Sen. William Wylie asked legislature premission Wednesday to withdraw his LB397, which provides that trucks of apiarists, used to carry their own supplies and produce, shall be considered commercial trucks for registration purposes.

Wylie's request was laid over one day in accordance with Unicameral rules.

A move to change Nebraska's method of controlling billboards along the Interstate has been rejected by the Legislature's Public Works Committee. The committee instead recommended an interim study of highway eyesores.

The University of Nebraska is conducting a study, financed by the state and federal governments, to find out what are the best grasses and trees to be used by Nebraska highway builders. The $120,000-a-year project is progressing at the University's Experiment Station at Mead.

State Engineer John Hosack said University botanists are searching for grasses and trees that are hardy, attractive and require little maintenance.

He said little landscaping has been tried in Nebraska, with the exception of along the interstate and some of the older roads, because of money shortages and the nature of Nebraska weather.

Burbach Heads Road Study

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton was named Wednesday to head special nine-member legislative committee to guide a $300,000 study of Nebraska's road needs.

Appointment of the committee was made by the Legislative Council's four-member executive board and announced by Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point, chairman of the Council.

The committee will direct the comprehensive study directed in Legislative Resolution No. 3 passed by lawmakers earlier this session.

The Legislature agreed to place $10,000 of tax money into the study so it could retain control of it. About two-thirds of the cost will come from federal funds and the remainder from Roads Department funds.

Other members of the committee are Sens. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, the chief introducer of the resolution authorizing the study; Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, Calista Hughes of Humboldt, Richard Marvel of Hastings, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, William Skarda of Omaha, Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

The last comprehensive study of Nebraska highway needs was published in 1948.

Deadlock Continues On Voc-Tech Schools Bill

The Legislature's Education Committee remained deadlocked Wednesday on bills calling for establishment of vocational technical schools at six specific sites in the state.

Motions to kill the measures split the committee on 4-4 votes, and the bills remained stalled.

The committee also split 4-4 on a motion to reconsider its action last week in advancing LB482, a product of an interim study, which would establish a system of state-operated area trade schools. The committee had advanced the bill, which does not specify sites, on a 5-2 vote.

Specific site bills call for state financed and operated trade schools at North Platte, Sidney, O'Neill, Norfolk, Ogallala and Broken Bow.

Local Initiative

The committee has advanced along with LB482 Aurora Sen. Maurice Kremer's area trade schools to be established on local initiative.

Following Wednesdays stalemate, a motion was made to authorize Committee chairman Ross Rasmussen of Hooper to report to the Legislature that the committee is "hopelessly deadlocked" on the specific site bills. The motion died for lack of a second.

In other action, the committee advanced LB316, introduced chiefly by Valentine Sen. Elvin Adamson, which would reduce from six per cent to four per cent the annual rental on state school lands.

Knight Attempts To Revive State Aid To JCs, OU

Lincoln Sen. John Knight moved in the Legislature Wednesday to revive a bill calling for state financial aid to junior colleges and the University of Omaha.

The Legislature killed the bill by a two-vote margin Tuesday.

Consideration of the revival motion was delayed at Knight's request.

The bill, LB786, introduced by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter and nine others, would allow $150 in state aid to students per year.

Junior colleges at Fairbury, Norfolk, McCook and Scottsbluff would be eligible, in addition to junior colleges established in the future, like the one expected to open this fall at North Platte.

The University of Omaha would receive the state aid for its freshmen and sophmore classes.

The bill was killed on a 23-21 vote on general file, its first floor appearance after being reported out by the education committee.

Tax-Tightening Move Gets First-Round OK

The Legislature Wednesday gave 26-0 first-round approval to a major property tax-tightening proposal.

LB331 requires county registers of deeds to report quarterly all sales or transfers of real estate to the state tax commissioner.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the bill's principal sponsor, said it would furnish the tax commissioner with more accurate information upon which to base property valuations between counties.

He said the bill would also improve the method of recording property valuations for taxation purposes.

Supported

The state tax commissioner's office supported the legislation at its public hearing last month.

Under the bill, registers of deeds would file periodic reports listing the amount of property sales and the estimated value of the land involved. Even property transfers where no money exchanges hands would be reported.

The State Association of Registers of Deeds has said it opposes the bill.

Legislation growing out of the legislative recount controversy in the First District earlier this year was given 25-0 preliminary approval.

Obvious Error

It provides that election officials may proceed with a recount if there is an obvious error on record.

Also, in the general election, officials must order a recount if the vote separating two candidates is less than one per cent of the total votes cast for the office.

Last January, Auburn car dealer Floyd Pohlman asked the Legislature to order a recount of his race with Sen. Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt, who defeated Pohlman by only 18 votes.

The Legislature rejected the request, but agreed something should be done to allow a recount before the Legislature convenes.

Action on a proposal that all real estate sales about $2,000 be subject to a state documentary stamp tax was deferred after objections to the measure were raised by Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln.

LB524, introduced by Revenue Committee Chairman Jules W. Burbach of Crofton, would set a 55-cent per every $500 fee on property sales.

Burbach said the federal government is contemplating abandoning this form of taxation and that the state should be prepared to step in.

Other bills given first-round approval

LB892, allowing 25 of the legal voters of a school district to petition for a referendum on a redistricting proposal. A majority vote would carry the plan.

LB621, requiring the Department of Insurance to administer examinations to all non-resident applicants for an insurance license in Nebraska.

LB584, providing that all future public buildings built in Nebraska shall provide an access ramp for handicapped persons.

LB585, establishing an unauthorized insurers false advertising process act in Nebraska.

LB704, increasing to $40 per week the unemployment compensation benefits for those who earn less than $800 in a calendar quarter.

May 26, 1965

LB705, strengthening the disqualification provisions of the employment security law.

LB441, changing the method of taxing motor vehicles forming a part of a fleet.

Wylie Seeks To Withdraw LB397

Elgin Sen. William Wylie asked legislature premission Wednesday to withdraw his LB397, which provides that trucks of apiarists, used to carry their own supplies and produce, shall be considered commercial trucks for registration purposes.

Wylie's request was laid over one day in accordance with Unicameral rules.

. . . 600 MARINES COMING HOME

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — Six hundred U.S. Marines — the first to land in the embattled Dominican Republic—were the first to leave Wednesday. They represent the first trimming of U.S. military strength in proportion to the arrival of Latin American troops here.

Units of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment boarded helicopters at a polo field in the international zone the Marines set up amid the Dominican civil war.

They were flown to the carrier Boxer lying offshore. A U.S. military spokesman said the Marines would not depart for the United States until the Boxer and accompanying naval units are fully and economically loaded for departure.

Four Days Later

The first Marines landed in the Dominican Republic at 6 p.m. April 28, four days after the outbreak of the rebellion that toppled the government of Donald Reid Cabral.

Other Marines soon poured ashore and were joined by paratroopes of the 82nd Airborne Division, building American military strength here to about 21,000 men.

President Johnson announced that the American landings were necessary to protect the lives of Americans and others many of whom wanted to be evacuated. He said also that the landings prevented a Communist takeover of the rebellion.

48 Countries

The White House announced forces have evacuated 6,514 persons, including 2,282 American citizens and 2,475 persons claiming the Dominican Republic as their country of origin.

The list of evacuees included citizens of 48 countries.

The United States will continue to provide the bulk of the men and material in the newly created Inter-American Force (IAF) under whose command and the remaining U.S. troops have been placed. The IAF was authorized by the Organization of American States (OAS), the first such force to be organized in hemisphere history.

The departed Marines were replaced by 600 Brazilian, Honduran, Nicaraguan and Costa Rican troops, the first IAF Latin American contingents to arrive here. The Brazilian troops at full strength will number about 1,200 men.

Some 300 Brazilians have arrived, the rest to folow in a continuing airlift that includes U.S. Air Force transport planes.

Alvim Is Commander

The IAF commander is Brazilian Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim, with U.S. Army Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr. the deputy commander.

El Salvador with a three-officer advance guard is the only other Latin American country to say it will send a contingent to serve in the IAF.

The departure of the Marines followed a night of renewed clashes between U.S. troops and rebels holed up in downtown Santo Domingo.

French Again Criticize U.S. Intervention

Paris (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's government sharply criticized the United States again Wednesday for intervening in the Dominican Republic. It charged American action there is a threat to peace.

It did so in a statement by Information Minister Alain Preyrefitte following a cabinet meeting presided over by De Gaulle.

Peyrefitte's remarks had all the earmarks of having been dictated by De Gaulle himself, as is often the case in policy statements released after a cabinet meeting.

"The French government is convinced," Peyrefitte said, "that the present foreign political and military intervention in Santo Domingo could only lead, if it continues, to the extension both on the spot and in this region of the world as a whole of disturbances that would be disquieting for international peace."

This was not the De Gaulle government's first criticism of the United States for intervening in the Dominican crisis.

After a cabinet meeting presided over by De Gaulle two weeks ago, Peyrefitte made it plain that France considers insurgent leader Col. Francisco Caamano Deno to be head of the legitimate government of the Dominican Republic.

Sample Of Nun's Life

Straubing, Germany (AP) — Hoping to attract recruits, the Ursuline Convent is opening its doors to girls of 18 and over so they may spend several days sampling the life of the nuns. The mother superior thinks this is the first such experiment in a convent but says a Benedictine Abbey in east Bavaria offers a similar program for men.

Rusk: Dominica Red Threat Down

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared Wednesday that the Communist threat in the Dominican Republic "has been very substantially reduced." He foresaw a pullout soon of large numbers of American troops.

The secretary of state devoted most of his remarks at a news conference — his first in two months — to what he termed a stock-taking of the Dominican crisis which began four weeks ago.

He said the fast moving events which led to the landing of U.S. troops in Santo Domingo should spur the Organization of American States to consider setting up "some stand-by forces on a continuing basis, on prompt call," to rush to trouble spots.

A number of the hemisphere foreign ministers are meeting here Thursday on the Dominican situation and Rusk indicated the United States would push the stand-by forces idea at that session.

Only three of the 19 foreign ministers have reported definitely that they will take part however. They are Vasco Leitao da Cunha of Brazil, Paul Sapena Pastor of Paraguay, and Gonzalo Escudero of Ecuador.

Five countries have indicated they will not be represented by their foreign ministers —Chile, Colombia, Mexico, Peru and Venezuela.

Argentina, Bolivia, Haiti and Uruguay are reported undecided.

And the foreign ministers of the six Central American countries will attend only if a considerable number of the other foreign ministers participate, it was reported.

President Johnson said on May 2 that the Dominican rebellion had been seized by "a band of Communist conspirators."

The first submarine to fly the Atlantic was Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau's two-man diving saucer.

MILLER & PAINE AT THE CROSSROADS OF NEBRASKALAND! PLAN TO ATTEND NEBRASKALAND DAYS JUNE 1 TO 6

State Finally Gets Voc Ed Funds

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
The Associated Press

After months of frustration, the State Department of Education finally has received its initial share of federal funds available under the 1963 Vocational Education Act.

Seven Nebraska high schools have already applied for a slice of the $837,977 in matching funds, and State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said the department is geared to act quickly in allocating the money.

The $837,977 is available for for the fiscal year ending June 30, and cannot be carried over into the next fiscal period. Unused money will be sent back to Washington for reallocation.

Set To Move Fast

"We're ready to move fast on any approved projects," said Miller, who must decide how the funds are to be allocated. He said he trouble will come in finding acceptable projects in time.

The Schuyler, Holbrook, Columbus, Rushville, Ashland and Allen high schools and the proposed East Lincoln High School have filed applications for portions of the 1964-65 funds. Education Department officials expect another 150 schools to follow suit before the June 1 deadline for filing applications.

The money is allocated on a reimbursement basis to help finance construction of buildings and purchasing of equipment for vocational education purposes. The local schools must first spend the money, then request 50% reimbursement in federal funds.

Nebraska expects to receive $1,255,000 under the act during the next fiscal year, and another $1,592,000 for each fiscal year after that. The immediate problem, however, is to find qualified projects for the $837,977 available until June 30.

From $300,000 to $400,000 of the total will be spent on construction at the East Lincoln High School.

Probably Not All

Glenn Strain of the Education Department's Vocational Education Division said the state probably will be able to take advantage of "a considerable amount" of the 1964-65 funds, but he doubted enough projects can be approved in time to make use of all of the money.

The last-minute rush developed after misunderstandings, federal red tape and complications forced one delay after another in Nebraska's effort to qualify for participation in the program established by the Vocational Education Act passed by Congress two years ago.

In order to participate in the program, each state must have an approved state vocational education plan. Nebraska's Education Department submitted its plan to federal officials last year but it was returned with several suggested revisions.

While the department was busy making revisions, the U.S. Office of Education announced that each state would have to sign a statement that its schools do not practice racial discrimination before it could participate in federal programs.

The Nebraska Education Department sent in its statement of civil rights compliance, stating no problems existed in Nebraska, and the revised vocational education plan. That was in January.

Technicality

After not receiving any word for two months, the Education Department inquired and found that a technicality involving the civil rights statement was holding up its approval and approval of the vocational education plan.

Some quick work by state officials corrected the situation, but Miller said he fears the delay may have cost the state as much as $430,000 because of the difficulty now in taking advantage of all of the 1964-65 vocational education funds.

Morrison Wants Drunken Drivers To Be 'Grounded'

Omaha (AP) — Gov. Frank Morrison declared Wednesday that "persons convicted of driving while intoxicated should be grounded in accordance with the law and I'm determined to see that judges follow the law."

He said he plans some sort of "remedial action — possibly by arranging a test case leading to a Supreme Court decision."

A conviction of driving while intoxicated carries a mandatory six-month license suspension. However, law enforcement officers and safety officials have complained some judges set aside the suspension provision.

The governor said he will meet Tuesday with George Nothhelfer, executive vice president of the Omaha Safety Council, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Chauncey Sheldon to explore a course of action.

(A recent article by The Star pointed out that one out of 25 drivers convicted of offenses with mandatory revocation of the driver's license were escaping revocation with the sanction of some courts, particularly in the Omaha area.)

French 'Positive'

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The French government has shown "a positive attitude" toward supplying Lebanon with planes for its air force, Foreign Minister Philippe Takla said in Beirut.

Terry Moves To Kill Tax Exemption Bill

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff moved Wednesday to kill a bill which would exempt from taxation pension plans held by insurance companies.

The measure, LB385, would "further subsidize Nebraska insurance companies" by relieving the six-mill gross premiums tax which they now pay on such plans, Carpenter said.

Domestic insurance companies already have a competitive advantage over foreign companies which must pay a 2% premiums tax, Carpenter said, "and now they want more advantage."

The Scottsbluff lawmaker said he is "tired of seeing the rest of us on a treadmill bringing our money into insurance companies, banks and building and loan associations so that they can build huge marble palaces."

Proponents of the bill, sponsored by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, said it merely implements a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall.

A similar bill, LB384 exempting pension plans held in trust, was approved on general file by a 42-0 vote.

Approval of LB384 and disapproval of LB385 would place insurance companies at a competitive disadvantage with banks and trust companies, Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha argued.

The real benefit from tax exemption would fall upon employes who participate in the pension plans, rather than the insurance companies, Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln said.

Carpenter's motion will be considered Thursday.

When's It End?

Rome (AP) — Poultryman Domineco Liverani found a hen's egg as big as an orange and weighing 10.5 ounces in one of his nests. Inside he found another whole egg, shell and all, and inside the second egg were two yolks.

Annual Sessions Plan Survives Committee Vote

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for annual sessions of the Unicameral survived by a single vote Wednesday a motion to scuttle it in the Urban Affairs Committee.

The bill, LB904, chiefly sponsored by Sen. S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk, was held in committee for later action.

The kill motion attracted a 4-3 vote, with five votes needed either to advance or ax the measure.

Brauer said the bill would "streamline" legislative activities, boost efficiency and allow senators to be "better informed to make equitable judgment on budgets."

45-Day Sessions

The proposed amendment provides for budget sessions, limited to 45 calendar days, during even-numbered years beginning in 1968. Such sessions could consider only appropriations and revenue bills.

Sessions during odd-numbered years would continue to consider any and all legislation without time limitation.

Brauer said he has been "very dissatisfied with what's going on" during the 1965 session, his first.

"Isn't the average citizen shook up enough by us meeting once every two years?" Committee Chairman George Syas of Omaha asked.

No witnesses other than Brauer spoke on the bill.

In other action, the committee advanced two measures authorizing school districts to acquire real estate located outside their districts, and permitting appointed and elected officeholders to run for mayor or city council in Omaha.

Amended

LB902, sponsored chiefly by Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, was amended to provide that any purchase of land costing more than $5,000 outside the school district must be submitted to a vote of the people.

The bill will permit the Omaha School District to acquire 167 acres on the Twin Rivers site near Venice, presumably for its vocational agriculture program.

LB902 allows acquisition of such land for laboratory, recreation, camping or educational facilities.

LB903, signed by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, would over-ride Omaha city charter provisions which do not allow elected officeholders to run for mayor or city council.

Both bills won 7-0 approval, and neither attracted opposition witnesses.

N. L. Cole Construction Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for work on sewer and water districts in Bel Mar second addition, near 15th and Irving Streets.

Cole bid $34,587 on the sewer district, compared to $35,489 by Dobson Brothers Construction Co. and $35,987 by H. R. Bookstrom Construction Co.

On the water district, Cole bid $18,100; Bookstrom, $18,469 and Dobson, $18,995.

Dobson submitted the apparent low bid of $5,025 for a water district near 73rd and Colby. Other bidders were Bookstrom at $5,187 and Cole at $5,336.

For a sewer district near 73rd and Colby, Dobson bid $3,512, Bookstrom, $3,692 and Cole, $3,872.

State Finally Gets Voc Ed Funds

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
The Associated Press

After months of frustration, the State Department of Education finally has received its initial share of federal funds available under the 1963 Vocational Education Act.

Seven Nebraska high schools have already applied for a slice of the $837,977 in matching funds, and State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said the department is geared to act quickly in allocating the money.

The $837,977 is available for for the fiscal year ending June 30, and cannot be carried over into the next fiscal period. Unused money will be sent back to Washington for reallocation.

Set To Move Fast

"We're ready to move fast on any approved projects," said Miller, who must decide how the funds are to be allocated. He said he trouble will come in finding acceptable projects in time.

The Schuyler, Holbrook, Columbus, Rushville, Ashland and Allen high schools and the proposed East Lincoln High School have filed applications for portions of the 1964-65 funds. Education Department officials expect another 150 schools to follow suit before the June 1 deadline for filing applications.

The money is allocated on a reimbursement basis to help finance construction of buildings and purchasing of equipment for vocational education purposes. The local schools must first spend the money, then request 50% reimbursement in federal funds.

Nebraska expects to receive $1,255,000 under the act during the next fiscal year, and another $1,592,000 for each fiscal year after that. The immediate problem, however, is to find qualified projects for the $837,977 available until June 30.

From $300,000 to $400,000 of the total will be spent on construction at the East Lincoln High School.

Probably Not All

Glenn Strain of the Education Department's Vocational Education Division said the state probably will be able to take advantage of "a considerable amount" of the 1964-65 funds, but he doubted enough projects can be approved in time to make use of all of the money.

The last-minute rush developed after misunderstandings, federal red tape and complications forced one delay after another in Nebraska's effort to qualify for participation in the program established by the Vocational Education Act passed by Congress two years ago.

In order to participate in the program, each state must have an approved state vocational education plan. Nebraska's Education Department submitted its plan to federal officials last year but it was returned with several suggested revisions.

While the department was busy making revisions, the U.S. Office of Education announced that each state would have to sign a statement that its schools do not practice racial discrimination before it could participate in federal programs.

The Nebraska Education Department sent in its statement of civil rights compliance, stating no problems existed in Nebraska, and the revised vocational education plan. That was in January.

Technicality

After not receiving any word for two months, the Education Department inquired and found that a technicality involving the civil rights statement was holding up its approval and approval of the vocational education plan.

Some quick work by state officials corrected the situation, but Miller said he fears the delay may have cost the state as much as $430,000 because of the difficulty now in taking advantage of all of the 1964-65 vocational education funds.

Morrison Wants Drunken Drivers To Be 'Grounded'

Omaha (AP) — Gov. Frank Morrison declared Wednesday that "persons convicted of driving while intoxicated should be grounded in accordance with the law and I'm determined to see that judges follow the law."

He said he plans some sort of "remedial action — possibly by arranging a test case leading to a Supreme Court decision."

A conviction of driving while intoxicated carries a mandatory six-month license suspension. However, law enforcement officers and safety officials have complained some judges set aside the suspension provision.

The governor said he will meet Tuesday with George Nothhelfer, executive vice president of the Omaha Safety Council, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Chauncey Sheldon to explore a course of action.

(A recent article by The Star pointed out that one out of 25 drivers convicted of offenses with mandatory revocation of the driver's license were escaping revocation with the sanction of some courts, particularly in the Omaha area.)

French 'Positive'

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The French government has shown "a positive attitude" toward supplying Lebanon with planes for its air force, Foreign Minister Philippe Takla said in Beirut.

Terry Moves To Kill Tax Exemption Bill

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff moved Wednesday to kill a bill which would exempt from taxation pension plans held by insurance companies.

The measure, LB385, would "further subsidize Nebraska insurance companies" by relieving the six-mill gross premiums tax which they now pay on such plans, Carpenter said.

Domestic insurance companies already have a competitive advantage over foreign companies which must pay a 2% premiums tax, Carpenter said, "and now they want more advantage."

The Scottsbluff lawmaker said he is "tired of seeing the rest of us on a treadmill bringing our money into insurance companies, banks and building and loan associations so that they can build huge marble palaces."

Proponents of the bill, sponsored by Sen. Fred Carsons of Beatrice, said it merely implements a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall.

A similar bill, LB384 exempting pension plans held in trust, was approved on general file by a 42-0 vote.

Approval of LB384 and disapproval of LB385 would place insurance companies at a competitive disadvantage with banks and trust companies. Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha argued.

The real benefit from tax exemption would fall upon employes who participate in the pension plans, rather than the insurance companies, Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln said.

Carpenter's motion will be considered Thursday.

When's It End?

Rome (AP) — Poultryman Domineco Liverani found a hen's egg as big as an orange and weighing 10.5 ounces in one of his nests. Inside he found another whole egg, shell and all, and inside the second egg were two yolks.

Annual Sessions Plan Survives Committee Vote

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for annual sessions of the Unicameral survived by a single vote Wednesday a motion to scuttle it in the Urban Affairs Committee.

The bill, LB904, chiefly sponsored by Sen. S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk, was held in committee for later action.

The kill motion attracted a 4-3 vote, with five votes needed either to advance or ax the measure.

Brauer said the bill would "streamline" legislative activities, boost efficiency and allow senators to be "better informed to make equitable judgment on budgets."

45-Day Sessions

The proposed amendment provides for budget sessions, limited to 45 calendar days, during even-numbered years beginning in 1968. Such sessions could consider only appropriations and revenue bills.

Sessions during odd-numbered years would continue to consider any and all legislation without time limitation.

Brauer said he has been "very dissatisfied with what's going on" during the 1965 session, his first.

"Isn't the average citizen shook up enough by us meeting once every two years?" Committee Chairman George Syas of Omaha asked.

No witnesses other than Brauer spoke on the bill.

In other action, the committee advanced two measures authorizing school districts to acquire real estate located outside their districts, and permitting appointed and elected officeholders to run for mayor or city council in Omaha.

Amended

LB902, sponsored chiefly by Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, was amended to provide that any purchase of land costing more than $5,000 outside the school district must be submitted to a vote of the people.

The bill will permit the Omaha School District to acquire 167 acres on the Twin Rivers site near Venice, presumably for its vocational agriculture program.

LB902 allows acquisition of such land for laboratory, recreation, camping or educational facilities.

LB903, signed by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, would over-ride Omaha city charter provisions which do not allow elected officeholders to run for mayor or city council.

Both bills won 7-0 approval, and neither attracted opposition witnesses.

Dobson submitted the apparent low bid of $5,025 for a water district near 73rd and Colby. Other bidders were Bookstrom at $5,187 and Cole at $5,336.

For a sewer district near 73rd and Colby, Dobson bid $3,512. Bookstrom, $3,692 and Cole, $3,872.

White: Space Walking Plan Is 'Great'

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Edward White said Wednesday "it is just great" that the decision was made that he try to step outside the orbiting Gemini 4 spacecraft next week.

He said he was well trained for the space excursion. He added that the feat would not be as important as the long-duration goal of the flight—to find out how well men and equipment withstand prolonged exposure to the space environment.

White and astronaut James McDivitt, both Air Force majors, are to blast off June 3 on an intended four-day mission.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday that during the second orbit White would open his hatch and if there were no difficulties he would float about 25 feet into space on a lifeline. He is to be outside the craft about 10 minutes as he flies more than 100 miles above the southern United States.

He will take pictures and make observations. McDivitt will control the capsule and photograph his drifting space partner.

The excursion would duplicate the space stroll made March 18 by Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov.

White was asked Wednesday how he felt about emerging from the spacecraft and its relative importance in the flight. He replied:

"I feel just great. I have worked with all the equipment involved. I am ready and I think it is just great that the decision has been made.

"As for the second part of the question, our mission in Gemini is one of long duration. That is the purpose of the program, so of course I still feel the long duration aspect is more important than EVA (extra-vehicular activity)."

'Cautious Optimism' Given Mariner 4

Los Angeles (AP) — A jet propulsion laboratory official expressed "cautious optimism" Wednesday as the U.S. spacecraft Mariner 4 passed the 90 million-mile mark on its flight to take the best pictures yet of the planet Mars.

Milton Goldfine, Mariner launch director, told newsmen at the space electronics symposium there is a slight chance that Mariner 4 might fail if it runs into intense radiation near Mars.

"We're not sure whether Mars has a strong radiation field like the Van Allen Belt around earth, but if it does this could upset the light-sensing equipment designed to aim the television camera at Mars when the spacecraft flies past July 14," he said.

"Our scientists have estimated this chance at about 1 in 10,000."

He said Mariner 4, launched Sept. 28, is functioning normally except for two previously announced failures of minor instruments and now is a little more than 12 million straight-line miles from Mars. The craft has recorded five solar flares with no damage, he said.

More Guards Asked

Rome (AP) — The Italian government asked parliment to more than double the number of guards protecting the country's museums, art galleries and antiquities.

Two Pegasus Squawks Are First Meteors

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Pegasus 2 "space bird" satellite emitted two electronic squawks when penetrated by meteoroids during its first 24 hours in space, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Wednesday.

The huge payload, with a wingspan of 96 feet, was launched Tuesday from Cape Kennedy by a Saturn 1 rocket.

Officials said the first meteoroid hit was recorded about six hours after launching. The second penetrated the vehicle early Wednesday. Purpose of the satellite is to study the frequency and penetrating power of these bits of space debris and the hazard they pose to manned space travel.

Printers End Baltimore Sun Strike, Cross Picket Lines

Baltimore (AP) — Presses at the Baltimore Sun, idled for 38 days after printers refused to cross picket lines of the striking American Newspaper Guild, began rolling again Wednesday night.

Robert H. Kavanaugh, promotion director of the paper, which publishes morning, evening and Sunday editions, said, "The presses began rolling at 10:40 p.m., EDT. A 24-page paper will be delivered to all subscribers" Thursday morning.

A full complement of printers and other trade union members crossed guild picket lines Wednesday and reported for work, Kavanaugh said.

Minor Skirmishes

There were several minor skirmishes at the entrances to the Sun Wednesday night when the evening shift of pressmen reported for duty. Two of them received minor injuries when they were struck by thrown objects. They were treated at a nearby hospital.

Guild pickets were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct in connection with separate scuffles.

Although a circuit court injunction has been issued limiting pickets to seven at each entrance, police made no move to enforce it and at least 90 pickets were counted at one gate.

Police Escorts

Sunpapers trucks in convoys, and with motorcycle police escorts, left the plant loaded with papers for delivery to routemen.

Guild pickets massed at the back gate, through which the trucks rolled, screaming imprecations, but there were no incidents.

Meanwhile, the Hearst-owned News American recalled its workers in preparation for an afternoon paper Thursday.

The guild, representing reporters, editorial writers, advertising workers and clerical help at the Sun, struck April 17. At issue are wages and union security. Six fruitless bargaining sessions have been held with a federal mediator as a go-between.

SHOOTING THE MILITARY

Lady Bird Johnson took her home movie camera out onto the "Truman balcony" of the south portico of the White House Wednesday to film an evening reception for the military. Hosted by herself and President Johnson, the reception was held on the south lawn.

Engineering Frat Elects Johannsen

Delbert Johannsen of Bloomfield has been elected president of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity at the University of Nebraska. He succeeds Stanley Knudson of Inland.

Other new officers include: Gary A. Brobst of Lincoln, vice president; Glenn A. Newby of Churdan, Iowa, recording secretary; James Farho of Omaha, corresponding secretary; Kenneth J. Korinek of Lincoln, treasurer; and Robert W. Brightfelt of Erie, Pa., historian.

The "Sunday Journal and Star" delivered at your door has five sections of interesting, timely features. You'll like the sports section known as "Sport Red," whether your a Husker fan, or hunter. livery rate.

Honorary Lists 5 New Members

Hastings — Five Hastings College students were recently initiated into the college chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic arts fraternity. Membership is based on the accumulation of a specificed number of points earned through acting and backstage crew activities.

House Group OKs 4-Year Extension Feed Grain Bill

Washington (AP)—A House Agriculture Subcommittee has approved a four-year extension of feed grain provisions of the omnibus farm bill.

The bill, which now goes to the full committee for approval would provide that during the period a feed grain acreage diversion program is in effect, farmers to be eligible for price support would have to participate in that diversion program to an extent prescribed by the secretary of agriculture.

Under those conditions, the price support for corn would be 65 to 90% of parity, and at comparable levels for grain sorghums, barley, oats and rye. This is the same as existing law. Parity is a yardstick designed to provide a fair return for the farmer in relation to his cost.

There is a payment—in-kind provision in addition to regular price supports. In determining the amounts of these payments, the secretary would take into account the extent of participation by the farmer in the acreage division program.

In case an acreage diversion program is not in effect, existing law would apply, providing for the price support of corn at not less than 50 nor more than 90% of parity, to be set at a level that would not increase surplus government-held stocks.

29 TABBED BY NU HONORARY GERMAN UNIT

Bishop Smith On Methodist Meet Agenda

Bishop W. Angie Smith, Episcopal leader of Oklahoma—New Mexico and Indian Mission Conferences of the Methodist Church, will be a speaker at the 105th session of the Nebraska Methodist annual conference in Omaha June 7-10.

Widely known for his work with the Indians since assignment to the Southwestern Conference in 1944, Bishop Smith is honorary chief of 21 Indian tribes in the Southwest. The number of Indians on Methodist rolls in his area has increased from less than 3,800 in 1944 to more than 10,000.

Also at the meeting in Omaha, delegates and visitors will have a glimpse of portions of the new Methodist hymnal due to be released in 1966.

White: Space Walking Plan Is 'Great'

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Edward White said Wednesday "it is just great" that the decision was made that he try to step outside the orbiting Gemini 4 spacecraft next week.

He said he was well trained for the space excursion. He added that the feat would not be as important as the long-duration goal of the flight—to find out how well men and equipment withstand prolonged exposure to the space environment.

White and astronaut James McDivitt, both Air Force majors, are to blast off June 3 on an intended four-day mission.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday that during the second orbit White would open his hatch and if there were no difficulties he would float about 25 feet into space on a lifeline. He is to be outside the craft about 10 minutes as he flies more than 100 miles above the southern United States.

He will take pictures and make observations. McDivitt will control the capsule and photograph his drifting space partner.

The excursion would duplicate the space stroll made March 18 by Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov.

White was asked Wednesday how he felt about emerging from the spacecraft and its relative importance in the flight. He replied:

"I feel just great. I have worked with all the equipment involved. I am ready and I think it is just great that the decision has been made.

"As for the second part of the question, our mission in Gemini is one of long duration. That is the purpose of the program, so of course I still feel the long duration aspect is more important than EVA (extra-vehicular activity)."

'Cautious Optimism' Given Mariner 4

Los Angeles (AP) — A jet propulsion laboratory official expressed "cautious optimism" Wednesday as the U.S. spacecraft Mariner 4 passed the 90 million-mile mark on its flight to take the best pictures yet of the planet Mars.

Milton Goldfine, Mariner launch director, told newsmen at the space electronics symposium there is a slight chance that Mariner 4 might fail if it runs into intense radiation near Mars.

"We're not sure whether Mars has a strong radiation belt like the Van Allen Belt around earth, but if it does this could upset the light-sensing equipment designed to [illegible] at Mars when the spacecraft flies past July 14," he said.

"Our scientists have estimated this chance at about 1 in 10,000."

He said Mariner 4, launched Sept. 28, is functioning normally except for two previously announced failures of minor instruments and now is a little more than 12 million straight-line miles from Mars. The craft has recorded five solar flares with no damage, he said.

More Guards Asked

Rome (AP) — The Italian government asked parliament to more than double the number of guards protecting the country's museums, art galleries and antiquities.

Two Pegasus Squawks Are First Meteors

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Pegasus 2 "space bird" satellite emitted two electronic squawks when penetrated by meteoroids during its first 24 hours in space, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Wednesday.

The huge payload, with a wingspan of 96 feet, was launched Tuesday from Cape Kennedy by a Saturn 1 rocket.

Officials said the first meteoroid hit was recorded about six hours after launching. The second penetrated the vehicle early Wednesday. Purpose of the satellite is to study the frequency and penetrating power of these bits of space debris and the hazard they pose to manned space travel.

Leg Exhibition

London (AP) — The Marquess of Anglesey's wooden leg went on exhibition in the Waterloo exhibition at the Wellington Barracks in London. His lordship lost a leg at the Battle of Waterloo.

Printers End Baltimore Sun Strike, Cross Picket Lines

Baltimore (AP) — Presses at the Baltimore Sun, idled for 38 days after printers refused to cross picket lines of the striking American Newspaper Guild, began rolling again Wednesday night.

Robert H. Kavanaugh, promotion director of the paper, which publishes morning, evening and Sunday editions, said, "The presses began rolling at 10:40 p.m., EDT. A 24-page paper will be delivered to all subscribers" Thursday morning.

A full complement of printers and other trade union members crossed guild picket lines Wednesday and reported for work, Kavanaugh said.

Minor Skirmishes

There were several minor skirmishes at the entrances to the Sun Wednesday night when the evening shift of pressmen reported for duty. Two of them received minor injuries when they were struck by thrown objects. They were treated at a nearby hospital.

Guild pickets were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct in connection with separate scuffles.

Although a circuit court injunction has been issued limiting pickets to seven at each entrance, police made no move to enforce it and at least 90 pickets were counted at one gate.

Police Escorts

Sunpapers trucks in convoys, and with motorcycle police escorts, left the plant loaded with papers for delivery to routemen.

Guild pickets massed at the back gate, through which the trucks rolled, screaming imprecations, but there were no incidents.

Meanwhile, the Hearst-owned News American recalled its workers in preparation for an afternoon paper Thursday.

The guild, representing reporters, editorial writers, advertising workers and clerical help at the Sun, struck April 17. At issue are wages and union security. Six fruitless bargaining sessions have been held with a federal mediator as a go-between.

SHOOTING THE MILITARY

Lady Bird Johnson took her home movie camera out onto the "Truman balcony" of the south portico of the White House Wednesday to film an evening reception for the military. Hosted by herself and President Johnson, the reception was held on the south lawn.

House Group OKs 4-Year Extension Feed Grain Bill

Washington (AP)—A House Agriculture Subcommittee has approved a four-year extension of feed grain provisions of the omnibus farm bill.

The bill, which now goes to the full committee for approval would provide that during the period a feed grain acreage diversion program is in effect, farmers to be eligible for price support would have to participate in that diversion program to an extent prescribed by the secretary of agriculture.

Under those conditions, the price support for corn would be 65 to 90% of parity, and at comparable levels for grain sorghums, barley, oats and rye. This is the same as existing law. Parity is a yardstick designed to provide a fair return for the farmer in relation to his cost.

There is a payment—in-kind provision in addition to regular price supports. In determining the amounts of these payments, the secretary would take into account the extent of participation by the farmer in the acreage division program.

In case an acreage diversion program is not in effect, existing law would apply, providing for the price support of corn at not less than 50 nor more than 90% of parity, to be set at a level that would not increase surplus government-held stocks.

Hair Dryer Discovery

From Stanford, Calif., comes news of a valuable new use for a hair dryer.

The most important piece of equipment in the Lipid Research laboratory at Stanford Medical Center is a hair dryer.

Scientists who dry liquid blood plasma extracts in thin layer plate chromotography need to separate sugar from other blood plasma ingredients.

Waiting for many layers of an extract to dry took too long. And that's where the machine, which dries the extracts in a very narrow band, came in. Naturally the hair dryerplasma extract theory was the brain child of a woman.

"Millions of dollars may be spent in research, but my $9 hair dryer is indispensable," said technician Rosemary Hess.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	Pass	Dble
Pass	1♦	Pass	1♥
Pass	2♥	Pass	4♥

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Bridge is not a lazy man's game — that is, if you want to play the game well. You can't just sit there and follow suit, or make mechanical bids and plays, and still expect to get the best results.

You have to do some active and independent thinking to figure out who has what at the table, and then follow these thoughts through to a logical conclusion.

Here is the kind of problem you occasionally encounter. Let's say you've reached four hearts on the bidding shown and West leads the king of clubs. East overtakes it with the ace and returns a club. West wins with the ten and continues with the queen, East discarding a diamond as you ruff.

Assume you now enter dummy with a diamond and play a heart to the queen, losing the finesse to the king. East eventually gets another trump trick and you go down one.

Now the fact is that this could happen in lots of bridge games and nobody would pay any attention to it. The players might think that South was unlucky to lose the heart finesse and would attribute the result to bad luck.

Despite this, if you consider the matter fairly, it is clear that South goofed on the hand and should have made the contract instead of going down one.

It is not difficult to conclude that East cannot have the king of hearts and that a finesse is therefore a wasted effort. Declarer should lead the ace and a low heart in the hope that West was dealt the doubleton king. If he plays in this fashion, he makes the contract.

Since East has shown up with the ace of clubs at trick one, South may reasonably assume that he cannot have the king of hearts also. East would surely have responded to the club bid with an ace and a king; since he failed to do so, West must be credited with the king.

Award

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. William H. Hasebroock of West Point, is president, will honor James Ebel of Lincoln, as one of the recipients of the national organization's Awards of Merit to Broadcast Management.

The award will be presented at a luncheon on Thursday, June 3, for which the Lincoln Woman's Club members will be hostesses. Mrs. George W. Mechling, club president, will make the presentation.

The awards are presented annually by the federation in cooperation with the National Association of Broadcasters.

The General Federation's 74th annual convention will be held June 7 to 11, at New Orleans, and many Nebraska club members are making plans to attend.

Representing the Lincoln club will be Mrs. Mechling, president; Mrs. Harley McCoid, Mrs. Eugene Jager and Mrs. Charles Angell.

Representatives from the state federation will include Mrs. Walter Kirchhefer of Sutton, president; Miss Ruth Ebmeier, Laurel, first vice president; Mrs. Don Kolterman, Seward, treasurer; Mrs. Pat Stander, Jr., Plattsmouth, District I music chairman, as well as past state presidents, Mrs. R. W. Hill, Lincoln, Mrs. P. O. Marvel, Giltner, Mrs. H. E. Huntemer, Grand Island, and Mrs. Bilse J. Robinson, Albion.

Many of the Nebraska delegation plan to make the trip by chartered bus, and their itinerary will include trips to many southern mansions, gardens and places of historical interest.

Contest Finalist

Winning second place among 12 contestants at the recent speech contest of the North Central Region of International Toastmistress Clubs held at Milwaukee, was Mrs. Henry L. Holst of Lincoln, who represented the Cornhusker Council 5 of the organization.

A report on the regional meeting and contest was given to the club Monday evening by Mrs. Josephine Eyen, club delegate, and Miss Cora Mae Briggs presented a tentative brochure pertaining to the group's project of making speakers available to organizations in the area upon request.

Mrs. Lavon Sumption spoke on her recent experience of accompanying a group of Lincoln Girl Scouts on a bus tour to Chicago, where the Lincoln group joined more than 800 Scouts and their leaders from midwestern states. Also a program speaker was Miss Lois Grow.

Honored

An honored guest on Wednesday evening was Mrs. David E. Fiehtner. Mrs. Fiehtner was presented a baby shower at a party for which Mrs. Robert R. Parent was hostess to 20 guests at her home.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Overcast skies haven't dampened the spirits of Park Manor residents—weekend plans, trips and social get-togethers are already in full swing.

In view of the recent weather, we might think that suburban families are being a little optimistic after reviewing the morning's social news, but come rain or shine fun always persists in the Park Manor area.

PARK MANOR

Perhaps optimism has set in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Callaway, but when the family fivesome was deciding on a fun venture for the weekend, a boating trip sounded the most mouth-watering. So with fingers crossed for sunny weather, Mr. and Mrs. Callaway and their three children Mick, Sharon and Lorie will leave Friday for Lake Okoboji, Iowa. The three day sporting trip, to end Monday night, will include boating, water skiing, sunning, and maybe one of the five will return with a healthy fish or two.

A trip to the lake also is on the weekend agenda for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sasse. The members of the Sasse family plan to return to their cabin on Wagner's Lake near Columbus this weekend. The day will be spent, hopefully, IN the water and on top with water skiing. But, Mrs. Sasse predicts there will be plenty of tidying up to do in and around the cabin before the fun can get underway for another summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Sasse recently returned from their vacation which took them to New Jersey and New York. They were pleased to find that tickets were available for them to see the broadway show, "I had A Ball" which starred the well known comedian, Buddy Hackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Whiteley also will have to cover a few miles before they reach all of the fun and excitement. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley are not headed for a lake, however, but rather to the high school graduation ceremonies at Nelson. Mr. Whiteley's brother, Bruce, will be one of the graduating seniors tonight. Because of the evening activities in Nelson, the weekend is beginning early for Mr. and Mrs. Whitely. Saturday evening is the night for alumns in Nelson, and we hear Mr. Whiteley is anticipating the reunion dinner in hopes that some old acquaintances will be present. After some Saturday reminiscing, they plan to return to Lincoln on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley will be the house guests of Mr. Whiteley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whiteley while in Nelson.

Former Lincoln residents will arrive in Lincoln Friday for a four-day stay with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moreland. We are referring to Mr. and Mrs. James Courtney who now reside in St. Louis, Mo. Besides visiting old friends around the Lincoln area, the visiting couple plans to spend most of the time reacquainting themselves with Mr. and Mrs. Moreland.

But, the barbecue is past, and looking forward to future plans Mr. and Mrs. Conaway have planned a trip to Trenton on Memorial Day. In Trenton, they will meet their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Nelson and their family who are driving to the small Nebraska town from their home in Denver, Colo.

If all goes well, Mrs. Nelson and her three children Denis, Shana and Rusty Shane will return to Lincoln with Mr. and Mrs. Conaway.

GUEST is television dancer

A charming visitor in Lincoln, Miss Vicki Sue Johns, admits it takes a heap of practice to be perfect and that graceful and effortless-seeming dancing on the TV variety shows is the result of hours and weeks and months and years of preparation.

Miss Johns, a former resident of Lincoln, is one of the six young ladies whose dancing is viewed weekly on the Red Skelton show. A student of dancing since she was four years old, she is the newest member of the Tom Hansen Dancers of Hollywood, Calif., for which group she was chosen from among 100 applicants.

Although Miss Johns's "workweek" covers only five days, each week involves learning at least two new routines, four days of rehearsals and a fifth day (8 o'clock to 8 o'clock) for taping the show.

"It's not work, it's fun", says Miss Johns, because that red-headed, freckle-faced Mr. Skelton is "always funny, and the nicest of all TV stars".

Miss Johns and her mother, Mrs. Victor Johns, were honored Wednesday at a luncheon for which Mrs. Herman Hahn was hostess at her home.

Dinner

The faculty members of Lincoln High School will gather for a buffet dinner tonight. The 6:30 o'clock affair will be held at the Hotel Lincoln.

Exhibit

The Lincoln Artists Guild has extended an invitation to the public to attend the opening of its June-July show on Saturday at the Guild's Cellar Gallery, 1434 O.

Coffee will be served during the exhibit hours. 9 o'clock to noon.

A TRIO of guests in town

A popular guest trio in Lincoln at the moment, includes Mrs. Harold Johnson and her two sons—young Andrew, and an even younger Dan, formerly of Neenah, Wis., now of Wyckoff, N.J.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Angie Holbert, Delta Gamma at Nebraska, and her sons are the house guests of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holbert.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Bridge is not a lazy man's game — that is, if you want to play the game well. You can't just sit there and follow suit, or make mechanical bids and plays, and still expect to get the best results.

You have to do some active and independent thinking to figure out who has what at the table, and then follow these thoughts through to a logical conclusion.

Here is the kind of problem you occasionally encounter. Let's say you've reached four hearts on the bidding shown and West leads the king of clubs. East overtakes it with the ace and returns a club. West wins with the ten and continues with the queen, East discarding a diamond as you ruff.

Assume you now enter dummy with a diamond and play a heart to the queen, losing the finesse to the king. East eventually gets another trump trick and you go down one.

Now the fact is that this could happen in lots of bridge games and nobody would pay any attention to it. The players might think that South was unlucky to lose the heart finesse and would attribute the result to bad luck.

Despite this, if you consider the matter fairly, it is clear that South goofed on the hand and should have made the contract instead of going down one.

It is not difficult to conclude that East cannot have the king of hearts and that a finesse is therefore a wasted effort. Declarer should lead the ace and a low heart in the hope that West was dealt the doubleton king. If he plays in this fashion, he makes the contract.

Since East has shown up with the ace of clubs at trick one, South may reasonably assume that he cannot have the king of hearts also. East would surely have responded to the club bid with an ace and a king; since he failed to do so, West must be credited with the king.

Award

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. William H. Hasebroock of West Point, is president, will honor James Ebel of Lincoln, as one of the recipients of the national organization's Awards of Merit to Broadcast Management.

The award will be presented at a luncheon on Thursday, June 3, for which the Lincoln Woman's Club members will be hostesses. Mrs. George W. Mechling, club president, will make the presentation.

The awards are presented annually by the federation in cooperation with the National Association of Broadcasters.

The General Federation's 74th annual convention will be held June 7 to 11, at New Orleans, and many Nebraska club members are making plans to attend.

Representing the Lincoln club will be Mrs. Mechling, president; Mrs. Harley McCoid, Mrs. Eugene Jager and Mrs. Charles Angell.

Representatives from the state federation will include Mrs. Walter Kirchhefer of Sutton, president; Miss Ruth Ebmeier, Laurel, first vice president; Mrs. Don Kolterman, Seward, treasurer; Mrs. Pat Stander, Jr., Plattsmouth, District I music chairman, as well as past state presidents, Mrs. R. W. Hill, Lincoln, Mrs. P. O. Marvel, Giltner, Mrs. H. E. Huntemer, Grand Island, and Mrs. Bilse J. Robinson, Albion.

Many of the Nebraska delegation plan to make the trip by chartered bus, and their itinerary will include trips to many southern mansions, gardens and places of historical interest.

Contest Finalist

Winning second place among 12 contestants at the recent speech contest of the North Central Region of International Toastmistress Clubs held at Milwaukee, was Mrs. Henry L. Holst of Lincoln, who represented the Cornhusker Council 5 of the organization.

A report on the regional meeting and contest was given to the club Monday evening by Mrs. Josephine Even, club delegate, and Miss Cora Mae Briggs presented a tentative brochure pertaining to the group's project of making speakers available to organizations in the area upon request.

Mrs. Lavon Sumption spoke on her recent experience of accompanying a group of Lincoln Girl Scouts on a bus tour to Chicago, where the Lincoln group joined more than 800 Scouts and their leaders from midwestern states. Also a program speaker was Miss Lois Grow.

Honored

An honored guest on Wednesday evening was Mrs. David E. Fiehtner. Mrs. Fiehtner was presented a baby shower at a party for which Mrs. Robert R. Parent was hostess to 20 guests at her home.

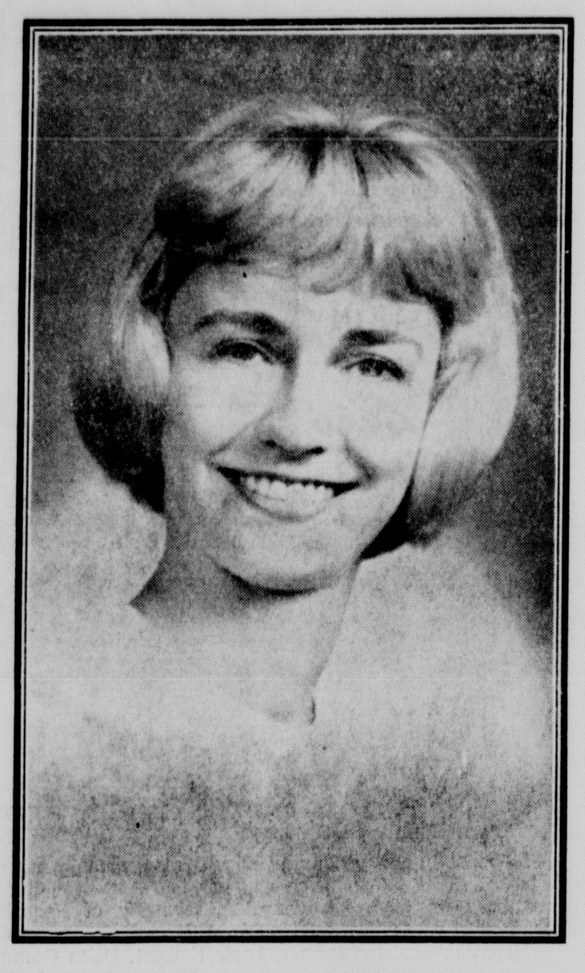
COED plans August wedding



Of particular interest to Greek Letter Row, on the Nebraska campus, and town circles is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hoflund of Sioux City, Iowa, of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Hoflund's daughter, Kay Anderson, to Kenneth D. Borrett, Jr., of Cape Girardeau, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Borrett.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Aug. 7.

June Brides-Elect Are Honored

A June bride-elect whose approaching wedding has been the incentive for a series of courtesies this spring is Miss Barbara Shuman, who will become the bride of J Murry Shaeffer of Grand Island, on Friday, June 11.

On Thursday evening, June 10, Mr. Shaeffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Shaeffer of Grand Island, will honor their son and Miss Shuman at a rehearsal dinner to be held at The Knolls. The guests will include members of the family, and birdal party.

The soon-to-be bride, who is the dauther of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Shuman, was the guest of honor last Friday evening when Mrs. Elmer T. Hobbs entertained at a linen shower at her home. The 20 guests included officers of the honoree's Eastern Star group.

A popular bride-elect of June who has been honored at numerous courtesies this spring is Miss Patricia Ann Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Johns and Gamma Phi Beta at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Johns, whose marriage to Wilbur E. Andresen of Plainville, Kan., will be an event of Friday, June 11, was the guest of honor last Sunday evening at an informal pizza supper and personal shower held at the home of Miss Susie Cole. The 25 guests were college classmates and sorority sisters of the honoree, and assisting Miss Cole as hostesses were Mis Janice Walt, Miss Mary Morrow, Miss Penny Sullivan and Miss Susan Ducker.

On Sunday, May 16, the bride-elect was presented a bathroom shower at a party for which Mrs. Duane Allison, Mrs. Richard Spohn and Mrs. Earl Simmons were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Allison.

Mrs. Guy Johnson entertained for Miss Johns at a bridal shower at her home on Saturday, May 15, and the soon-to-be bride was the guest of honor on Friday, May 14, when Mrs. Jerry Schmid was hostess at a dessert luncheon and shower at Hillcrest Country Club.

Mrs. Harold Madsen and Miss Emmajean Dunham were hostesses at a kitchen shower on Thursday, May 13, at the home of Miss Dunham. The guests included former high school classmates of the honoree.

Miss Johns and her fiance, who is a student at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, shared honors recently at a patio supper for which Dr. and Mrs. John R. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ruppert and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller were hosts and hostesses at the Ruppert home. A one-gift shower was presented to the couple.

Also included among recent courtesies for the bride-to-be was a shower for which Mrs. J. J. Uhrich was hostess, and a party given in Plainville, Kan., by Mrs. Morris Veverka and Mrs. Sylvester Peavey.

TALK of the town

The talk around town this morning concerns just plain, unadulterated fun — And the fun began last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Stebbins were host and hostess at an after-5:30 o'clock party. The affair was a courtesy to Mrs. Dewey Gruenhagen of Minneapolis, a former Lincoln resident, and her daughter, Miss Jane Gruenhagen who claims California as 'home.'

Mrs. Gruenhagen stopped off in Lincoln en route to Minneapolis from California where she spent several days upon her return from a cruise. The guest list included a group of old Lincoln friends of Mrs. Gruenhagen who arrived on Wednesday afternoon and, accompanied by her daughter, will leave this morning for Minneapolis.

• • •

And there is fun on the Friday morning calendar, also. We hear that Mrs. Earl Lampshire and her mother, Mrs. H. A. Capek, are to be 10:30 o'clock-to-12:30 o'clock coffee hostesses at the home of Mrs. Lampshire when they entertain Piedmont neighbors.

• • •

Since we are on the subject of parties we'll skip to Saturday evening, June 5—That is the date of a canape party for which Mr. and Mrs. Ted Forke and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cedardahl will be hosts and hostesses. The guests have been invited for the hours of 6:30 o'clock-to-8:30 o'clock at the Lincoln Country Club.

• • •

News of guests always is fun—and we have just learned that next Tuesday is arrival day for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald and their four months-old daughter, Anne Elizabeth, of Noank, Conn.

Mrs. Fitzgerald will be remembered as the former Sue Healey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Healey, and KKG at Nebraska.

The threesome, of course, will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Healey.

CHERYL SMITH is honored at party

When Mrs. Jeffrey Orr entertained at a dessert supper at Hotel Cornhusker on Tuesday evening, the party paid prenuptial courtesy to Miss Cheryl Ann Smith, whose marriage to Dennis Craig Merry will be solemnized on June 13.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Overcast skies haven't dampened the spirits of Park Manor residents—weekend plans, trips and social get-togeters are already in full swing.

In view of the recent weather, we might think that suburban families are being a little optimistic after reviewing the morning's social news, but come rain or shine fun always persists in the Park Manor area.

PARK MANOR

Perhaps optimism has set in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Callaway, but when the family fivesome was deciding on a fun venture for the weekend, a boating trip sounded the most mouthwatering. So with fingers crossed for sunny weather, Mr. and Mrs. Callaway and their three children Mick, Sharon and Lorie will leave Friday for Lake Okoboji, Iowa. The three day sporting trip, to end Monday night, will include boating, water skiing, sunning, and maybe one of the five will return with a healthy fish or two.

A trip to the lake also is on the weekend agenda for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sasse. The members of the Sasse family plan to return to their cabin on Wagner's Lake near Columbus this weekend. The day will be spent, hopefully, IN the water and on top with water skiing. But, Mrs. Sasse predicts there will be plenty of tidying up to do in and around the cabin before the fun can get underway for another summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Sasse recently returned from their vacation which took them to New Jersey and New York. They were pleased to find that tickets were available for them to see the broadway show, "I had A Ball" which starred the well known comedian, Buddy Hackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Whiteley also will have to cover a few miles before they reach all of the fun and excitement. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley are not headed for a lake, however, but rather to the high school graduation ceremonies at Nelson. Mr. Whiteley's brother, Bruce, will be one of the graduating seniors tonight. Because of the evening activities in Nelson, the weekend is beginning early for Mr. and Mrs. Whitely. Saturday evening is the night for alumns in Nelson, and we hear Mr. Whiteley is anticipating the reunion dinner in hopes that some old acquaintances will be present. After some Saturday reminiscing, they plan to return to Lincoln on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley will be the house guests of Mr. Whiteley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whiteley while in Nelson.

Former Lincoln residents will arrive in Lincoln Friday for a four-day stay with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moreland. We are referring to Mr. and Mrs. James Courtney who now reside in St. Louis, Mo. Besides visiting old friends around the Lincoln area, the visiting couple plans to spend most of the time reacquainting themselves with Mr. and Mrs. Moreland.

But, the barbecue is past, and looking forward to future plans Mr. and Mrs. Conaway have planned a trip to Trenton on Memorial Day. In Trenton, they will meet their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Nelson and their family who are driving to the small Nebraska town from their home in Denver, Colo.

If all goes well, Mrs. Nelson and her three children Denis, Shana and Rusty Shane will return to Lincoln with Mr. and Mrs. Conaway.

GUEST is television dancer

A charming visitor in Lincoln, Miss Vicki Sue Johns, admits it takes a heap of practice to be perfect and that graceful and effortless-seeming dancing on the TV variety shows is the result of hours and weeks and months and years of preparation.

Miss Johns, a former resident of Lincoln, is one of the six young ladies whose dancing is viewed weekly on the Red Skelton show. A student of dancing since she was four years old, she is the newest member of the Tom Hansen Dancers of Hollywood, Calif., for which group she was chosen from among 100 applicants.

Although Miss Johns's "workweek" covers only five days, each week involves learning at least two new routines, four days of rehearsals and a fifth day (8 o'clock to 8 o'clock) for taping the show.

"It's not work, it's fun", says Miss Johns, because that red-headed, freckle-faced Mr. Skelton is "always funny, and the nicest of all TV stars".

Miss Johns and her mother, Mrs. Victor Johns, were honored Wednesday at a luncheon for which Mrs. Herman Hahn was hostess at her home.

Dinner

The faculty members of Lincoln High School will gather for a buffet dinner tonight. The 6:30 o'clock affair will be held at the Hotel Lincoln.

Exhibit

The Lincoln Artists Guild has extended an invitation to the public to attend the opening of its June-July show on Saturday at the Guild's Cellar Gallery, 143½ O.

Coffee will be served during the exhibit hours, 9 o'clock to noon.

A TRIO of guests in town

A popular guest trio in Lincoln at the moment, includes Mrs. Harold Johnson and her two sons—young Andrew, and an even younger Dan, formerly of Neenah, Wis., now of Wyckoff, N.J.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Angie Holbert, Delta Gamma at Nebraska, and her sons are the house guests of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holbert.

FOOD

unbeatable combination

Perfect as a light supper on a hot night or hearty lunch any day of the week. Frankfurter-Kraut Rounds are easily put together. Broiling time? A quick 10 minutes!

The broiling time is short because frankfurters are already cooked by the time they reach the consumer. Sauerkraut, too, is ready to eat so it's another convenience food.

You have your choice of flavors and meats, too, with frankfurters. Usually they're made of 60% beef and 40% pork. However, there are also all-beef and mostly veal frankfurters as well as those with different percentages of beef and pork.

Half-pound, pound and family size (three pound) packages are available or frankfurters may be purchased by the pound. They are as close as your refrigerator, freezer or the corner delicatessen. A pound contains 8 to 10 frankfurters.

FRANKFURTER-KRAUT ROUNDS

8 frankfurters
1 can (16 ounces) sauerkraut, drained
¼ cup chili sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream
4 hamburger buns, split and toasted

Cut frankfurters almost through with a sharp knife, into 7 sections allowing about ½ inch space between cuts. Combine sauerkraut and chili sauce and heat. Spoon 3 to 4 tablespoons sauerkraut mixture on each toasted bun half. Place cut frankfurter on sauerkraut to form circle. Fill center with 2 tablespoons sour cream. Place on broiler rack and insert broiler pan and rack so that top of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broil 10 minutes. 8 servings.

Fruit kabobs using fresh fruit are a pretty and delightful accompaniment with an open sandwich like this. When served in a bowl of cracked ice, they will give a refreshing look to lunch or supper on a hot, humid day.

Center the bowl with a cluster of grapes. On wooden sticks alternate some of the following: melon balls, sections of plums, fresh or canned pineapple squares, strawberries or other berries, sweet cherries, peach sections or melon wedges.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married for over 20 years to a self-made man who has had very little education. He is doing very well financially. Our sons are of college age, and my husband refused to encourage them to get a higher education. He says all you need to get along is guts. I don't agree. Do you?

VAN NUYS

DEAR VAN: No. But if "guts" are a factor, an educated man with guts has a much better chance of succeeding than a man with guts alone.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've been married three and one-half months and I love married life. My husband and I get along fine except for one thing. He doesn't want me to wear a girdle. So far it hasn't bothered me because most of my clothes can be worn without one. But with summer coming on, I'll be wearing last summer's clothes and they all have straight skirts. I can't wear a straight skirt without a girdle. My husband says I don't need a girdle, but I feel sloppy without one. When I wear a girdle, my husband doesn't talk to me for a day. I love my husband and want to please him, but this has me stumped. I don't know why he is so against girdles.

GIRDLE TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Tell your husband that you FEEL better in a girdle, and, furthermore, he can wear what he wants to under his clothes, and you'll do the same. Stay FIRM on that. (Maybe he was fascinated by a bowl of gelatin when he was a baby.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with a father kissing his son: Our son is almost eight years old and I can't remember ever seeing his father kiss him. My husband says, "Men don't kiss boys—it's effeminate." It's heartbreaking to see our little four-year-old daughter getting hugs and kisses from her Daddy, while the little boy watches with tears in his eyes. The boy is a fine, well-behaved child. He idolizes his father, but the resentment he is building up toward his sister because of all the affection her father lavished on her is terrible. Please tell me, Abby do you think it is so wrong for a father to kiss his son?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No Some fathers (particularly Europeans) kiss sons and daughters alike, which is normal and acceptable in my book. Only men who aren't absolutely sure of their own masculinity go overboard trying to prove it.

COED plans August wedding

Of particular interest to Greek Letter Row, on the Nebraska campus, and town circles is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hoflund of Sioux City, Iowa, of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Hoflund's daughter, Kay Anderson, to Kenneth D. Borrett, Jr., of Cape Girardeau, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Borrett.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Aug. 7.

June Brides-Elect Are Honored

A June bride-elect whose approaching wedding has been the incentive for a series of courtesies this spring is Miss Barbara Shuman, who will become the bride of J. Murry Shaeffer of Grand Island, on Friday, June 11.

On Thursday evening, June 10, Mr. Shaeffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Shaeffer of Grand Island, will honor their son and Miss Shuman at a rehearsal dinner to be held at The Knolls. The guests will include members of the family and birdal party.

The soon-to-be bride, who is the dauther of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Shuman, was the guest of honor last Friday evening when Mrs. Elmer T. Hobbs entertained at a linen shower at her home. The 20 guests included officers of the honoree's Eastern Star group.

A popular bride-elect of June who has been honored at numerous courtesies this spring is Miss Patricia Ann Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Johns and Gamma Phi Beta at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Johns, whose marriage to Wilbur E. Andresen of Plainville, Kan., will be an event of Friday, June 11, was the guest of honor last Sunday evening at an informal pizza supper and personal shower held at the home of Miss Susie Cole. The 25 guests were college classmates and sorority sisters of the honoree, and assisting Miss Cole as hostesses were Mis Janice Walt, Miss Mary Morrow, Miss Penny Sullivan and Miss Susan Ducker.

On Sunday, May 16, the bride-elect was presented a bathroom shower at a party for which Mrs. Duane Allison, Mrs. Richard Spohn and Mrs. Earl Simmons were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Allison.

Mrs. Guy Johnson entertained for Miss Johns at a bridal shower at her home on Saturday, May 15, and the soon-to-be bride was the guest of honor on Friday, May 14, when Mrs. Jerry Schmid was hostess at a dessert luncheon and shower at Hillcrest Country Club.

Mrs. Harold Madsen and Miss Emmajean Dunham were hostesses at a kitchen shower on Thursday, May 13, at the home of Miss Dunham. The guests included former high school classmates of the honoree.

Miss Johns and her fiance, who is a student at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, shared honors recently at a patio supper for which Dr. and Mrs. John R. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ruppert and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller were hosts and hostesses at the Ruppert home. A one-gift shower was presented to the couple.

Also included among recent courtesies for the bride-to-be was a shower for which Mrs. J. J. Uhrich was hostess, and a party given in Plainville, Kan., by Mrs. Morris Veverka and Mrs. Sylvester Peavey.

TALK of the town

The talk around town this morning concerns just plain, unadulterated fun — And the fun began last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Stebbins were host and hostess at an after-5:30 o'clock party. The affair was a courtesy to Mrs. Dewey Gruenhagen of Minneapolis, a former Lincoln resident, and her daughter, Miss Jane Gruenhagen who claims California as 'home.'

Mrs. Gruenhagen stopped off in Lincoln en route to Minneapolis from California where she spent several days upon her return from a cruise. The guest list included a group of old Lincoln friends of Mrs. Gruenhagen who arrived on Wednesday afternoon and, accompanied by her daughter, will leave this morning for Minneapolis.

• • •

And there is fun on the Friday morning calendar, also. We hear that Mrs. Earl Lampshire and her mother, Mrs. H. A. Capek, are to be 10:30 o'clock-to-12:30 o'clock coffee hostesses at the home of Mrs. Lampshire when they entertain Piedmont neighbors.

• • •

Since we are on the subject of parties we'll skip to Saturday evening, June 5—That is the date of a canape party for which Mr. and Mrs. Ted Forke and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cedardahl will be hosts and hostesses. The guests have been invited for the hours of 6:30 o'clock-to-8:30 o'clock at the Lincoln Country Club.

• • •

News of guests always is fun—and we have just learned that next Tuesday is arrival day for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald and their four months-old daughter, Anne Elizabeth, of Noank, Conn.

Mrs. Fitzgerald will be remembered as the former Sue Healey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Healey, and KKG at Nebraska.

The threesome, of course, will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Healey.

CHERYL SMITH is honored at party

When Mrs. Jeffrey Orr entertained at a dessert supper at Hotel Cornhusker on Tuesday evening, the party paid prenuptial courtesy to Miss Cheryl Ann Smith, whose marriage to Dennis Craig Merry will be solemnized on June 13.

Champion Clay Looking Ahead To Patterson, Chuvalo

Lewiston, Maine (AP) — Cassius Clay looked ahead to Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo Wednesday while the stunned sports world debated the heavyweight champion's controversial one-round knock out of Sonny Liston.

The filmed version of Tuesday night's quick fight indicated that the bout did not end in the record time of one minute flat but the Maine Boxing Commission stuck to that figure pending a full meeting. The playback of the close circuit telecast tape showed unofficially that Liston went down at 1:44 got up at 1:56, and finally was declared knocked out at 2:11.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott defended himself for not keeping Clay in a neutral corner after the knockdown, for failing to check with the timekeeper, and for not counting.

Walcott said he never got a chance to start counting because Clay stood over the fallen Liston saying: "Get up and fight, you bum," and balked at going to a neutral corner.

Nobody across the ring could hear the timekeeper, Francis McDonough, and Walcott let the fighters mix it up again while he checked and found out that McDonough already had counted 12. Then he stopped it for keeps.

Under the rules of the Maine Commission, the referee is authorized to stop his count if a boxer refused to go to the proper corner.

"It might have been better if Walcott had stopped the count by the knockdown time keeper until Clay went to the neutral corner and then started again," said Duncan MacDonald, a commission member.

After viewing the film of the fight, MacDonald said the two officials who had timed the fight — time keeper Russell Carroll and McDonough —would submit affidavits that the time of one minute was correct.

"We will get a copy of the films and also a radio tape and consider everything at a full meeting, later," said MacDonald in the absence of Chairman George Russo.

MacDonald said he did not know when the meeting would be held.

The film showed that Clay landed a right to Liston's head. Whether it was hard enough to make Liston go down for the long count is something that only Liston knows for sure. It was the first time the 31-year-old ex-champion had been on the canvas in his 38-bout career tracing back to 1953. He quit on his stool after the sixth round had ended in their also controversial first fight 15 months ago in Miami Beach, Fla.

"It was a good punch," said Liston. "The blow landed on my left cheekbone."

"It was a good lick," said Patterson, another ex-champion who watched from the press row.

"It was lightning and thunder," said Clay. "Fast as lightning and booming as thunder."

"Clay hit Liston a right hand — a good right hand punch," said Walcott.

Many in the announced crowd of 4,280 in the tiny high school hockey rink gathered around the ring and yelled: "fake . . . fix." There was mixed opinion in the press row.

Most of the writers expressed surprise that Liston went down so quickly and didn't get up right away.

Fred Brooks, president of Sportsvision, the company would get between $550,000 that staged the closed circuit television show, estimated that 55,000 saw the telcast at 258 locations. He said the gross gate from all sources including $20,000 at the arena was about $4.5 million. He estimated each of the fighters and $600,000 for their one minute effort.

Clay said he yelled "Get up, you bum" at Liston because "I wanted the world to note that I wanted to fight. I heard people saying 'fake' and I said 'get up.'"

The champion, wearing a bright red sweater over a white shirt, told a news conference he was ready to fight anybody.

"I am challenging the world," he said. "If there is anybody in Mars, bring him down. I don't want to meet Patterson and people say I am ducking somebody.

"Who do the people think can whup me? That Chuvalo had the nerve to push me when he climbed in the ring after the fight. I am not going to forget that. But who would bet on Chuvalo, Patterson and Ernie Terrell to beat me?"

Terrell is recognized as as heavyweight champion by the World Boxing Association, which stripped Clay of his title for signing for a return bout with Liston. Clay is recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts, Maine and some parts of the world.

"I don't want nobody saying I am ducking people," Clay continued. "Let the people vote. Who do you think?

"Patterson, the rabbit, is still the first thing in my mind. Everwhere I go, people, especially the Negro race, say 'Floyd Patterson will beat you.' He's a man who falls down when he gets hit. The rabbit has a habit of being knocked down. After the fight I told Floyd that his dream had come true and he had a good chance of getting the next fight."

Although Patterson appeared next in line, possibly in September in New York, Chuvalo also is in the picture. The big Canadian champion lost a decision to Patterson Feb. 1. Canadians have ofefred Patterson $300,000 to fight in Tronto against Chuvalo.

"The onliest man to have a chance with me is Chuvalo," said Clay.

"He takes a lot, is determined, and he is not afraid. They had to pull him off me in the ring. He was serious. He is building himself up for a big disgrace."

Clay said his next fight would be in New York City.

"I'd like to see it outdoors in New York," said Cassius. "Let the people see it out in the open where the center of the world is.

"You just see the beginning. I may fight for 10 years. I told you Sonny Liston would wind up flat on his back. There he is."

Clay grabbed a photograph and held it high.

"It was a new punch that Jack Johnson took to his grave with him — a right on the button," said Clay. "What the fans don't realize is that my mouth overshadows my ability. I got a great future. A lot of surprises."

Clay said his big surprise for this fight had been his weight, 206 pounds, to Liston's 215½.

HOMERS PACE TWINS

Minnesota Tips Boston By 9-7

. . . ANGELS CLIP NATS

By Associated Press

Home runs by Bob Allison, Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva paced Minnesota to a 9-7 victory over Boston Wednesday night as the Twins continued to batter Red Sox pitching. The victory put the Twins into first place over the slumping Chicago White Sox by seven percentage points.

The Twins, who had rapped five home runs in a 17-5 romp over the Red Sox the previous night, had to come from behind to win after scoring four runs in the first inning—three on Allison's homer.

Boston rallied for a 6-5 lead but Oliva's leadoff homer in the fifth ignited a decisive four-run Minnesota burst. Killebrew hit a bases-empty homer in the third.

Jim Fregosi's run-scoring single off reliever Bennie Daniels in the ninth inning gave the Los Angeles Angels a 2-1 victory over Washington after they had been held to one hit — Joe Adcock's fourth-inning homer — by Pete Richert over the first eight. Richert tired in the heat and gave way to Daniels at the start of the ninth.

Bert Campaneris cracked a two-run homer and bunted another run home, leading Kansas City to a 6-3 decision over Baltimore, and Luis Tiant checked Chicago on five hits in Cleveland's 3-1 victory over the White Sox. The New York Yankees were rained out at Detroit.

George Altman, traded from the New York Mets to the Chicago Cubs last winter, cracked a two-run 10th inning homer, giving the Cubs an 8-6 National League victory over his ex-mates.

Manny Mota's two-out squeeze bunt in the seventh inning broke a 3-3 tie, keying Pittsburgh's 5-3 triumph over Philadelphia, sixth straight victory for the Pirates.

Joe Torre and Felipe Alou each hit a pair of homers in Milwaukee's 10-4 romp over San Francisco and Houston ripped Cincinnati 8-3, Jim Wynn driving in four runs with a homer, triple and single, in afternoon games.

Cronin, Giles Nix Quick Expansion

Washington (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Warren Giles indicate little support for quick expansion of their 10-member-team leagues.

But they figure it'll happen eventually.

Six Democratic house members recently asked for an expansion of major league baseball, giving clubs to Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and one other city, and creating three eight-team major leagues for the 1966 baseball season.

The congressmen are Reps. Thaddeus J. Dulski and Richard D. McCarthy of Buffalo; Earl Cabell and James C. Wright of Dallas-Fort Worth; and Clemente J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss of Milwaukee.

Zablocki and Reuss have sought in the past to block the transfer of the Milwaukee Braves to Atlanta, now set for next year.

Cronin in letters to the congressmen made public Wednesday said the problems to be surmounted for expansion are manifoled.

"To cite one of the most important problems," Cronin wrote, "we must provide a stability for existing franchises, particularly for those resulting through expansion in 1961. It is a personal opinion that we have enjoyed progress along these lines in the comparately brief span of four championship seasons.

"Hopefully, baseball's supply of talent will continue on the increase, and our aims may be achieved in the foreseeable future so that we may adapt suggestions such as yours into a concrete plan of action."

Giles wrote that he agreed there are many cities desiring major league baseball and expansion will no doubt come sometime in the future.

Giles said the position of the congressmen oversimplifies a very complex matter.

"We have learned from our earlier expansion that planning is required and there are many factors to consider," Giles said.

"It would, in my opinion, be a mistake and harmful to existing clubs, and not beneficial to any new clubs, to undertake further expansion while we are still digesting the expansion teams of 1961 and '62."

Tests On Reds' Pitcher Negative

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Jim Maloney, who has been having arm troubles, was given an examination Wednesday by team physician Dr. George Ballou but all tests, including x-rays, were negative.

Dr. Ballou expressed belief Maloney may have aggravated a previous arm ailment for which he was given cortisone shots.

Maloney flew in here from Houston where the Reds are winding up a series with the Astros. After the examination he left for San Francisco, where he will rejoin the club and team officials said he is expected to resume throwing later this week.

Vieth Questions Fords' Ability To Finish '500'

. . . OFFY TO WIN IN LONG HAUL

Indianapolis (AP)— The Ford-powered cars should be the ones to watch in the Indianapolis 500-mile race Monday. But driver Bob Veith says his Offenhauser will beat them in the long run.

"I'm not worried about the Fords," the Fort Bragg, Calif., veteran said. "Actually, I don't think many of them will finish."

Veith will start from the inside position of the fourth row in his No. 54 liquid suspension special. Ahead of him will be seven Ford-powered racers, including pole sitter and defending champions, A. J. Foyt, and world road racing champion, Jimmy Clark, the No. 2 man.

"There are some of them faster than me — they proved that in qualifications," said Veith, who won his 10th spot with a trial speed of 156.417 —about five miles per hour less than pacesetter Foyt.

"But even though I can't hope to keep up with those fast ones, at least for the first 20 laps or so, they are going to have to desoup their fuel or make three pit stops to go the 500 miles.

"We're set up to go with the same setups we had at qualification time and that means our fuel consumption will be set for two stops of high-running speed."

Veith, whose car is a rear-engine model, said he'd be foolish to try to run neck-and-neck with the early chargers.

"You increase your chance for error and that could mean an accident, or you take a chance on wearing out your own machine," he said.

The Californian said, "all I want to do is keep within a halflap of Foyt and Clark and anybody who is charging at the start. But that will be only for the first 20 laps or so. Then I'll move out and race."

Veith said his four chief rivals will be — Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., in a rear-engine Offy; rookie Billy Foster, of Victoria, B.C., in another rear Offy; and the Novi drivers, Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y.

"I think they have the machinery to go competitive for the full race," Veith said. But he admitted that with 7 Fords starting, "some of them will finish—but a heck of a lot of them won't."

"And if they don't change their fuel setups, they'll have to stop three times. If they do change, they'll lose a couple of miles per hour and I'll keep up with them," he declared.

Veith's remarks point out the pride the Offy drivers still have despite the mighty assault being waged for the first time by the newer Fords.

Veith said the beauty of his machine is its reliability.

"It's built to go all day," he said. "With the chassis we have and the rear-engine Offenhauser, we know it'll be dependable. We've got a lot of miles on it and we know what it can do."

The point raised by Veith was echoed by a Ford pilot.

"There are maybe four Fords that can go the distance at a racing speed," said the driver. "And I'm not sure about them over the long haul, either. I think the engine in Foyt's car will be the most dependable because mechanic George Bignotti has done all the work on it."

Lincoln Comets Sign 3 Players To '65 Contracts

Two former Peru State Teachers College football players and a Nebraska end who caught a touchdown pass for the Cornhuskers in the Gotham Bowl are the latest additions to the Lincoln Comets' roster, coach Don Erway announced Wednesday.

Mike Eger is the former Husker end who has signed with the professional team. Eger, 6-1 and 200 pounds, played at Nebraska in 1958, 1959 and 1962.

Keith Grimes, 6-2, 220-pounder who lettered two years at Peru at halfback and fullback, is expected to play in the Comets' offensive backfield, Erway said.

Bob Sterner, a former Lincoln Northeast tackle who played football and basketball at Peru, has been signed as an offensive lineman. Sterner stands 6-4 and weighs 240 pounds.

Meanwhile, Comet President Bob VanDervoort announced a switch in schedule dates. Lincoln was slated to open against the Quad Cities at Moline, Ill., on Aug. 21 in the Professional Football League of America's first year of operation. The Moline franchise has been moved to Rock Island, Ill., because of stadium difficulties, VanDervoort said, so the Comets' game with the Raiders has been rescheduled for Oct. 30.

As a result the Comets' opener will be at Omaha there Aug. 28.

The Comets hope to line up a non-league game in advance of the Omaha date, VanDervoort indicated.

Pep Limited To Exhibition Fight

Toronto (AP)—Willie Pep, 42-year-old former world featherweight champion, will be permitted to fight only an exhibition here next month because of his age.

Pep, who resumed fighting this year after a six-year layoff, was scheduled to headline an afternoon boxing card at Maple Leaf Stadium on Sunday, June 8, in a regular eight-rounder.

But Marve McKenzie, the Ontario Athletic Commissioner who also is president of the World Boxing Association, ruled Wednesday that the bout can be no more than an exhibition because of Pep's age.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Ike Watches Charity Golf

. . . ELBOW, SHOULDER SORE

Philadelphia (AP) — "Can I keep the flag in general?"

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir."

This wasn't a military maneuver, just some of the dialogue in an exhibition golf refered by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The former president, unable to play in the charity match because of a sore elbow and shoulder, went 11 holes, rested in the club house for five, then came back for the 17th and 18th.

The match at the Philadelphia Country Club Wednesday was won 1-up by Arnold Palmer and singer Andy Williams—Eisenhower's replacement—over Jack Nicklaus and dancer Ray Bolger.

Nicklaus, the Masters champion, and Bolger, who came here from California for the second straight year, deadlocked the match on the 17th as Nicklaus holed a 45-foot curving, uphill putt.

But on the 18th, Palmer chipped 20 feet to within inches of the cup, and Bolger missed a four-footer, giving Palmer and Williams the match.

The real winner, of course, was the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania, which netted $27,000 from a sellout gallery of 1,000 spectators.

Gen. Eisenhower posed for pictures but declined to answer any questions. However, his aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Schulz, said the general's right elbow and shoulder were lame.

Schulz said, "It isn't serious," and replied negatively when asked if it was the 74-year-old Eisenhower's old bursitis condition.

The repartee over the flag took place on the first hole when Bolger prepared to hit out of a trap. After the rapid fire question and answer, the dancer blasted out of the sand to within four feet of the hole and Nicklaus canned it to give them a quick 1-up lead.

Nicklaus disclosed that he was going to St. Louis Thursday to practice on the Bellerive Country Club course, site of next month's U.S. Open championship. He said Palmer might join him.

The Masters champion said he played the Bellerive several weeks ago and found it to be "very tough."

Asked which he considered the more important tournament, the Masters or the Open, Nicklaus said, "It depends upon which one you're playing."

FALLEN MATADOR

Spanish matador Manuel (El Cordobes) Benitez felt the wrath of two angry bulls in the Madrid ring. One bull (top) hooks a horn into an old arm injury to make the matador dance in pain. A second bull (bottom) knocks Benitez for some minor injuries. Despite the beating, Benitez finished off three bulls and won the plaudits of the fans.

Indy 500 Race Drivers Finely Trained Athletes

. . . MUSCLED STARTER INITIATED PROGRAM

Indianapolis (AP) — Drivers at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway are superbly trained athletes — they have to be to tame the hundreds of horses that power their cars —but none is in better condition than starter Pat Vidan, whose flags control the 500-mile race.

Many of them owe their fine condition and muscular control to Vidan, a former gymnasium operator at Portland, Ore., who conducts a volunteer program of workouts open to all drivers.

"If all are in condition we eliminate another hazard," Vidan says.

Ronnie Duman might not have been able to drive in qualifications for the May 31 race if he had not been in fine condition.

Duman suffered severe burns last year in the second-lap pileup that stopped the race. His biceps wasted down to 12¼ inches while he lay in a hospital for six weeks, but another six weeks of workouts after he left the hospital built them back to 16 inches.

This year Duman was hospitalized again in early May for an emergency appendectomy. Vidan said doctors stated that his rate of healing in one day was equivalent to 2½ days for an average person. Three days out of the hospital and he was driving again.

Vidan, a hugely muscled man, recommends comparatively light weights for drivers for over-all development of grip, arms, back, neck and chest.

The drivers have a machine at the Speedway which gives a stiff steering wheel to practice the effort of guiding a car, but Vidan favors a more complete exercise program, emphasizing the grip.

"If the grip starts going, fatigue spreads," Vidan says.

Many drivers do not drink or smoke, and most of those who indulge are moderate. They may celebrate after winning a race or qualifying for the 500-but only if they aren't running anywhere the next day.

Driving has its superstitions, but they seem to be dying out.

For many years green was taboo as a color. That superstition took a setback when Pat Flaherty won the 1956 race with a green shamrock painted on his helmet, and it has been pretty well demolished by Scotsman Jim Clark's success in a green Lotus-Ford.

But you still don't find any peanuts in the pits on race day. Nobody recalls how that superstition started, but drivers just won't have them around.

Yank Outfielder Sued By Model

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—A male model who figured in a tavern altercation with two New York Yankee baseball players sued one Wednesday for $20,000.

Jerome Modezelewski contended in his Circuit Court action that Roger Maris struck him.

Maris already has a $300,000 suit for malicious prosecution pending against Modezelewski. The outfielder was acquitted last month of assault on the model.

A teammate, Clete Boyer, also was charged with assaulting Modezelewski. Boyer's trial has been postponed to September.

Sure beats smoking!

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.

2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.

3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

How can you know till you try it?

Champion Clay Looking Ahead To Patterson, Chuvalo

Lewiston, Maine (AP) — Cassius Clay looked ahead to Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo Wednesday while the stunned sports world debated the heavyweight champion's controversial one-round knock out of Sonny Liston.

The filmed version of Tuesday night's quick fight indicated that the bout did not end in the record time of one minute flat but the Maine Boxing Commission stuck to that figure pending a full meeting. The playback of the closed circuit telecast tape showed unofficially that Liston went down at 1:44 got up at 1:56, and finally was declared knocked out at 2:11.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott defended himself for not keeping Clay in a neutral corner after the knockdown, for failing to check with the timekeeper, and for not counting.

Walcott said he never got a chance to start counting because Clay stood over the fallen Liston saying "Get up and fight, you bum," and balked at going to a neutral corner.

Nobody across the ring could hear the timekeeper, Francis McDonough, and Walcott let the fighters mix it up again while he checked and found out that McDonough already had counted 12. Then he stopped it for keeps.

Under the rules of the Maine Commission, the referee is authorized to stop his count if a boxer refused to go to the proper corner.

"It might have been better if Walcott had stopped the count by the knockdown timekeeper until Clay went to the neutral corner and then started again," said Duncan MacDonald, a commission member.

After viewing the film of the fight, MacDonald said the two officials who had timed the fight — time keeper Russell Carroll and McDonough —would submit affidavits that the time of one minute was correct.

"We will get a copy of the films and also a radio tape and consider everything at a full meeting, later," said MacDonald in the absence of Chairman George Russo.

MacDonald said he did not know when the meeting would be held.

The film showed that Clay landed a right to Liston's head. Whether it was hard enough to make Liston go down for the long count is something that only Liston knows for sure. It was the first time the 31-year-old ex-champion had been on the canvas in his 38-bout career dating back to 1953. He quit on his stool after the sixth round had ended in their also controversial first fight 15 months ago in Miami Beach, Fla.

"It was a good punch," said Liston. "The blow landed on my left cheekbone."

It was a good lick," said Patterson, another ex-champion who watched from the press row.

"It was lightning and thunder," said Clay. "Fast as lightning and booming as thunder."

"Clay hit Liston a right hand — a good right hand punch," said Walcott.

Many in the announced crowd of 4,280 in the tiny high school hockey rink gathered around the ring and yelled: "fake . . . fix." There was mixed opinion in the press row.

Most of the writers expressed surprise that Liston went down so quickly and didn't get up right away.

Fred Brooks, president of Sportsvision, the company would get between $550,000 that staged the closed circuit television show, estimated that 55,000 saw the telecast at 258 locations. He said the gross gate from all sources including $20,000 at the arena was about $4.5 million. He estimated each of the fighters and $600,000 for their one minute effort.

Clay said he yelled "Get up, you bum" at Liston because "I wanted the world to note that I wanted to fight. I heard people saying 'fake' and I said 'get up.'"

The champion, wearing a bright red sweater over a white shirt, told a news conference he was ready to fight anybody.

I am challenging the world," he said. "If there is anybody in Mars, bring him down. I don't want to meet Patterson and people say I am ducking somebody.

"Who do the people think can whup me? That Chuvalo had the nerve to push me when he climbed in the ring after the fight. I am not going to forget that. But who would bet on Chuvalo, Patterson and Ernie Terrell to beat me?"

Terrell is recognized as as heavyweight champion by the World Boxing Association, which stripped Clay of his title for signing for a return bout with Liston. Clay is recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts, Maine and some parts of the world.

"I don't want nobody saying I am ducking people," Clay continued. "Let the people vote. Who do you think?

"Patterson, the rabbit, is still the first thing in my mind. Everwhere I go, people, especially the Negro race, say 'Floyd Patterson will beat you.' He's a man who falls down when he gets hit. The rabbit has a habit of being knocked down. After the fight I told Floyd that his dream had come true and he had a good chance of getting the next fight."

Although Patterson appeared next in line, possibly in September in New York, Chuvalo also is in the picture. The big Canadian champion lost a decision to Patterson Feb. 1. Canadians have offered Patterson $300,000 to fight in Toronto against Chuvalo.

"The onliest man to have a chance with me is Chuvalo," said Clay.

"He takes a lot, is determined, and he is not afraid. They had to pull him off me in the ring. He was serious. He is building himself up for a big disgrace."

Clay said his next fight would be in New York City.

I'd like to see it outdoors in New York," said Cassius. "Let the people see it out in the open where the center of the world is.

You first see the beginning. I may fight for 10 years. I told you Sonny Liston would wind up flat on his back. There it is.

Clay grabbed a photograph and added:

"It was a new punch that Jack Johnson took to his grave with him — a right on the button," said Clay. "What the fans don't realize is that my mouth overshadows my ability. I got a great future. A lot of surprises."

Clay said his big surprise for this fight had been his weight: 206 pounds to Liston's 215.

HOMERS PACE TWINS

Minnesota Tips Boston By 9-7

. . . ANGELS CLIP NATS

By Associated Press

Home runs by Bob Allison, Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva paced Minnesota to a 9-7 victory over Boston Wednesday night as the Twins continued to batter Red Sox pitching. The victory put the Twins into first place over the slumping Chicago White Sox by seven percentage points.

The Twins, who had rapped five home runs in a 17-5 romp over the Red Sox the previous night, had to come from behind to win after scoring four runs in the first inning—three on Allison's homer.

Boston rallied for a 6-5 lead but Oliva's leadoff homer in the fifth ignited a decisive four-run Minnesota burst. Killebrew hit a bases-empty homer in the third.

Jim Fregosi's run scoring single off reliever Bennie Daniels in the ninth inning gave the Los Angeles Angels a 2-1 victory over Washington after they had been held to one hit — Joe Adcock's fourth-inning homer — by Pete Richert over the first eight. Richert tired in the heat and gave way to Daniels at the start of the ninth.

Bert Campaneris cracked a two-run homer and bunted another run home, leading Kansas City to a 6-3 decision over Baltimore, and Luis Tiant checked Chicago on five hits in Cleveland's 3-1 victory over the White Sox. The New York Yankees were rained out at Detroit.

George Altman traded from the New York Mets to the Chicago Cubs last winter, cracked a two-run 10th inning homer, giving the Cubs an 8-6 National League victory over his ex-mates.

Manny Mota's two-out squeeze bunt in the seventh inning broke a 3-3 tie, keying Pittsburgh's 5-3 triumph over Philadelphia, sixth straight victory for the Pirates.

Joe Torre and Felipe Alou each hit a pair of homers in Milwaukee's 10-4 romp over San Francisco and Houston ripped Cincinnati 8-3. Jim Wynn driving in four runs with a homer, triple and single in afternoon games.

Cronin, Giles Nix Quick Expansion

Washington (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Warren Giles indicate little support for quick expansion of their 10-member-team leagues.

But they figure it'll happen eventually.

Six Democratic house members recently asked for an expansion of major league baseball, giving clubs to Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and one other city, and creating three eight-team major leagues for the 1966 baseball season.

The congressmen are Reps. Thaddeus J. Dulski and Richard D. McCarthy of Buffalo; Earl Cabell and James C. Wright of Dallas-Fort Worth; and Clemente J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss of Milwaukee.

Zablocki and Reuss have sought in the past to block the transfer of the Milwaukee Braves to Atlanta, now set for next year.

Cronin in letters to the congressmen made public Wednesday said the problems to be surmounted for expansion are manifoled.

"To cite one of the most important problems," Cronin wrote, "we must provide a stability for existing franchises, particularly for those resulting through expansion in 1961. It is a personal opinion that we have enjoyed progress along these lines in the comparately brief span of four championship seasons.

"Hopefully, baseball's supply of talent will continue on the increase, and our aims may be achieved in the foreseeable future so that we may adapt suggestions such as yours into a concrete plan of action."

Giles wrote that he agreed there are many cities desiring major league baseball and expansion will no doubt come sometime in the future.

Giles said the position of the congressmen oversimplifies a very complex matter.

"We have learned from our earlier expansion that planning is required and there are many factors to consider," Giles said.

"It would, in my opinion, be a mistake and harmful to existing clubs, and not beneficial to any new clubs, to undertake further expansion while we are still digesting the expansion teams of 1961 and '62."

Tests On Reds' Pitcher Negative

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Jim Maloney, who has been having arm troubles, was given an examination Wednesday by team physician Dr. George Ballou but all tests, including x-rays, were negative.

Dr. Ballou expressed belief Maloney may have aggravated a previous arm ailment for which he was given cortisone shots.

Maloney flew in here from Houston where the Reds are winding up a series with the Astros. After the examination he left for San Francisco, where he will rejoin the club and team officials said he is expected to resume throwing later this week.

Pep Limited To Exhibition Fight

Toronto (AP)—Willie Pep, 42-year-old former world featherweight champion, will be permitted to fight only an exhibition here next month because of his age.

Pep, who resumed fighting this year after a six-year layoff, was scheduled to headline an afternoon boxing card at Maple Leaf Stadium on Sunday, June 8, in a regular eight-rounder.

But Marve McKenzie, the Ontario Athletic Commissioner who also is president of the World Boxing Association, ruled Wednesday that the bout can be no more than an exhibition because of Pep's age.

End For Tackle

New York (AP) — The New York Giants sent Bob Taylor, 245-pound defensive end, to the Minnesota Vikings Wednesday in exchange for Dave O'Brien, 247-pound offensive tackle. Both players have been in the National Football League for two seasons.

Vieth Questions Fords' Ability To Finish '500'

. . . OFFY TO WIN IN LONG HAUL

Indianapolis (AP)— The Ford-powered cars should be the ones to watch in the Indianapolis 500-mile race Monday. But driver Bob Veith says his Offenhauser will beat them in the long run.

"I'm not worried about the Fords," the Fort Bragg, Calif., veteran said. "Actually, I don't think many of them will finish."

Veith will start from the inside position of the fourth row in his No. 54 liquid suspension special. Ahead of him will be seven Ford-powered racers, including pole sitter and defending champions, A. J. Foyt, and world road racing champion, Jimmy Clark, the No. 2 man.

"There are some of them faster than me — they proved that in qualifications," said Veith, who won his 10th spot with a trial speed of 156.417 —about five miles per hour less than pacesetter Foyt.

"But even though I can't hope to keep up with those fast ones, at least for the first 20 laps or so, they are going to have to desoup their fuel or make three pit stops to go the 500 miles.

"We're set up to go with the same setups we had at qualification time and that means our fuel consumption will be set for two stops of high-running speed."

Veith, whose car is a rear-engine model, said he'd be foolish to try to run neck-and-neck with the early chargers.

"You increase your chance for error and that could mean an accident, or you take a chance on wearing out your own machine," he said.

The Californian said, "all I want to do is keep within a halflap of Foyt and Clark and anybody who is charging at the start. But that will be only for the first 20 laps or so. Then I'll move out and race."

Veith said his four chief rivals will be — Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., in a rear-engine Offy; rookie Billy Foster, of Victoria, B.C., in another rear Offy; and the Novi drivers, Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y.

"I think they have the machinery to go competitive for the full race," Veith said. But he admitted that with 7 Fords starting, "some of them will finish—but a heck of a lot of them won't."

"And if they don't change their fuel setups, they'll have to stop three times. If they do change, they'll lose a couple of miles per hour and I'll keep up with them," he declared.

Veith's remarks point out the pride the Offy drivers still have despite the mighty assault being waged for the first time by the newer Fords.

Veith said the beauty of his machine is its reliability.

"It's built to go all day," he said. "With the chassis we have and the rear-engine Offenhauser, we know it'll be dependable. We've got a lot of miles on it and we know what it can do."

The point raised by Veith was echoed by a Ford pilot.

"There are maybe four Fords that can go the distance at a racing speed," said the driver. "And I'm not sure about them over the long haul either. I think the engine in Foyt's car will be the most dependable because mechanic George Bignotti has done all the work on it."

—SCHEDULE SWITCH SET—

Lincoln Comets Sign 3 Players To '65 Contracts

Two former Peru State Teachers College football players and a Nebraska end who caught a touchdown pass for the Cornhuskers in the Gotham Bowl are the latest additions to the Lincoln Comets' roster, coach Don Erway announced Wednesday.

Mike Eger is the former Husker end who has signed with the professional team. Eger, 6-1 and 200 pounds, played at Nebraska in 1958, 1959 and 1962.

Keith Grimes, 6-2, 220-pounder who lettered two years at Peru at halfback and fullback, is expected to play in the Comets' offensive backfield, Erway said.

Bob Sterner, a former Lincoln Northeast tackle who played football and basketball at Peru, has been signed as an offensive lineman. Sterner stands 6-4 and weighs 240 pounds.

Meanwhile, Comet President Bob VanDervoort announced a switch in schedule dates. Lincoln was slated to open against the Quad Cities at Moline, Ill., on Aug. 21 in the Professional Football League of America's first year of operation. The Moline franchise has been moved to Rock Island, Ill., because of stadium difficulties, VanDervoort said, so the Comets' game with the Raiders has been rescheduled for Oct. 30.

As a result the Comets' opener will be at Omaha there Aug. 28.

The Comets hope to line up a non-league game in advance of the Omaha date, VanDervoort indicated.

Player Set To Defend Speedway Open Crown

. . . FOUR BIG NAMES MISSING

Indianapolis (AP) — Gary Player, making his first start since he tied for second in the Masters, will open defense of the Speedway Festival Open Golf Championship at Greentree Country Club Thursday.

The field of 143 challengers includes most of the leaders on the pro circuit, but there are some prominent names missing - top money winner Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, PGA champion Bobby Nichols and U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

Doug Sanders, winner of the Pensacola and Doral Opens and second to Nicklaus on the 1965 money list, and Bruce Crampton, winner of the Bing Crosby and Colonial tournaments, head the field. They and Nicklaus are this season's only double winners.

All of this tourney's former winners — record holder Billy Casper, Doug Ford and Dow Finsterwald — are back to challenge Player's bid for the $17,500 top prize. The total purse is $87,500.

Casper's record 264, set in 1962, and Jim Ferrier's one-round mark of 61, set in 1963, may be safe. Greentree plays 570 yards longer than the speedway course, site of the five previous Festival Opens, and its par 71 may be a sturdy challenge.

The tournament was moved to Greentree, 10 miles northeast of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, because the speedway course is being rebuilt this year. The distance is great enough that carburetion tests at the track Saturday will not disturb the golfers' concentration.

Homero Blancas, who tied for seventh at Houston and New Orleans, is being tagged as a rookie to watch.

"Blancas is away to a better start in his first season than Nicklaus experience in his first year," publicist Doc Giffin of the Professioal Golfers Association said.

Blancas has won $8,050 this season. At the same point in his rookie year, Nicklaus had won only $1,096, but he went on to beat Palmer for the U.S. Open Championship.

Five pros broke par in a pro-amateur warmup Wednesday Bruce Devlin picking up the winner's $500 with a 68. Billy Casper and Art Wall shot 69s and Bob Charles and Jay Hebert 70s.

Dick Mayer, whose team had a best-ball 57, won $400.

Ed Smith Gets Ace

Ed Smith hit a hole-in-one at the 160-yd. par 3 No. 8 hole at Hillcrest Country Club Wednesday afternoon.

Odell — Jerry Rupprecht, who has coached basketball at Odell the past five years, will take over duties as head football coach next year.

His varsity teams posted a 105-22 record including a runner-up finish in the Class D tournament last year.

The new basketball coach will be Vern Aylor, who has coached at Holmesville.

Surbiton, England (AP)—Two United States Wightman Cup players, Billie Jean Moffitt and Mimi Arnold, gained quarter-final berths in the Surrey tennis championships Wednesday.

Miss Moffitt, from Long Beach, Calif., defeated Susan Rich of New Zealand 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Arnold, from Redwood City, Calif., subdued Gwen Houlihan of Ireland 11-9, 6-1.

Richey Advances To Singles Semis

Paris (AP)—Nancy Richey of Dallas and the two other favorites zipped into the women's singles semifinals of the French tennis championships Wednesday with decisive two-set victories.

Miss Richey, 22-year-old star who is ranked the top U.S. woman player, defeated Francoise Durr of France 8-6, 9-7.

Margaret Smith of Australia, top-seeded and the defending champion, eliminated Norma Baylon of Argentina 6-3, 6-1 and Maria Bueno of Brazil defeated Annette Van Zyl of South Africa 6-4, 6-3.

Lesley Turner of Australia advanced to the semifinals Tuesday when Ann Haydon Jones of Britain defaulted because of a pulled muscle in her right shoulder.

Miss Richey, seeded No. 4, meets Miss Smith in the semifinals Friday and Miss Bueno, seeded No. 2, plays Miss Turner, seeded No. 3. Thus, the top four made the round of four in an unusual show of form.

In Thursday's men's semifinals, it will be three Australians and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale. Top-seeded Roy Emerson takes on Tony Roche and Fred Stolle meets Drysdale.

Miss Richey trailed Miss Durr 0-3 in the first and 0-2 in the second, but stormed back each time and took command. The French girl dropped the 13th game of the first set on two consecutive errors and Miss Richey then held her serve at love.

With the count 7-all in the second set, the American broke her opponent's service on two errors and two double faults by Miss Durr, then finished the match by holding her own service.

Miss Smith held her service only once in her first set, but Miss Baylon couldn't even do that well. And in the second set, Miss Baylon managed only 10 points in the seven games, three of them off Miss Smith's serve.

Ike Watches Charity Golf

. . . ELBOW, SHOULDER SORE

Philadelphia (AP) — "Can I keep the flag in general?"

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir."

This wasn't a military maneuver, just some of the dialogue in an exhibition golf refered by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The former president, unable to play in the charity match because of a sore elbow and shoulder, went 11 holes, rested in the club house for five, then came back for the 17th and 18th.

The match at the Philadelphia Country Club Wednesday was won 1-up by Arnold Palmer and singer Andy Williams—Eisenhower's replacement—over Jack Nicklaus and dancer Ray Bolger.

Nicklaus, the Masters champion, and Bolger, who came here from California for the second straight year, deadlocked the match on the 17th as Nicklaus holed a 45-foot curving, uphill putt.

But on the 18th, Palmer chipped 20 feet to within inches of the cup, and Bolger missed a four-footer, giving Palmer and Williams the match.

The real winner, of course, was the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania, which netted $27,000 from a sellout gallery of 1,000 spectators.

Gen. Eisenhower posed for pictures but declined to answer any questions. However, his aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Schulz, said the general's right elbow and shoulder were lame.

Schulz said, "It isn't serious," and replied negatively when asked if it was the 74-year-old Eisenhower's old bursitis condition.

The repartee over the flag took place on the first hole when Bolger prepared to hit out of a trap. After the rapid fire question and answer, the dancer blasted out of the sand to within four feet of the hole and Nicklaus canned it to give them a quick 1-up lead.

Nicklaus disclosed that he was going to St. Louis Thursday to practice on the Bellerive Country Club course, site of next month's U.S. Open championship. He said Palmer might join him.

The Masters champion said he played the Bellerive several weeks ago and found it to be "very tough."

Asked which he considered the more important tournament, the Masters or the Open, Nicklaus said, "It depends upon which one you're playing."

FALLEN MATADOR

Spanish matador Manuel (El Cordobes) Benitez felt the wrath of two angry bulls in the Madrid ring. One bull (top) hooks a horn into an old arm injury to make the matador dance in pain. A second bull (bottom) knocks Benitez for some minor injuries. Despite the beating, Benitez finished off three bulls and won the plaudits of the fans.

Indy 500 Race Drivers Finely Trained Athletes

. . . MUSCLED STARTER INITIATED PROGRAM

Indianapolis (AP) — Drivers at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway are superbly trained athletes — they have to be to tame the hundreds of horses that power their cars —but none is in better condition than starter Pat Vidan, whose flags control the 500-mile race.

Many of them owe their fine condition and muscular control to Vidan, a former gymnasium operator at Portland, Ore., who conducts a volunteer program of workouts open to all drivers.

"If all are in condition we eliminate another hazard," Vidan says.

Ronnie Duman might not have been able to drive in qualifications for the May 31 race if he had not been in fine condition.

Duman suffered severe burns last year in the second-lap pileup that stopped the race. His biceps wasted down to 12¼ inches while he lay in a hospital for six weeks, but another six weeks of workouts after he left the hospital built them back to 16 inches.

This year Duman was hospitalized again in early May for an emergency appendectomy. Vidan said doctors stated that his rate of healing in one day was equivalent to 2½ days for an average person. Three days out of the hospital and he was driving again.

Vidan, a hugely muscled man, recommends comparatively light weights for drivers for over-all development of grip, arms, back, neck and chest.

The drivers have a machine at the Speedway which gives a stiff steering wheel to practice the effort of guiding a car, but Vidan favors a more complete exercise program, emphasizing the grip.

"If the grip starts going, fatigue spreads," Vidan says.

Many drivers do not drink or smoke, and most of those who indulge are moderate. They may celebrate after winning a race or qualifying for the 500-but only if they aren't running anywhere the next day.

Driving has its superstitions, but they seem to be dying out.

For many years green was taboo as a color. That superstition took a setback when Pat Flaherty won the 1956 race with a green shamrock painted on his helmet, and it has been pretty well demolished by Scotsman Jim Clark's success in a green Lotus-Ford.

But you still don't find any peanuts in the pits on race day. Nobody recalls how that superstition started, but drivers just won't have them around.

Reserved Seat Prices For '500' To Be Increased

Indianapolis (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway announced Wednesday the first increase since 1954 in reserved seat prices for the 500-mile Memorial Day race.

Effective next year, the increase will range from $1.50 to $5. The general admission price, raised from $3 to $5 for the 1964 race, will not be changed.

The new ticket schedule will range from $9 for reserved bleacher seats to $35 for penthouse box seats in the four huge grandstands along the main straightaway.

Yank Outfielder Sued By Model

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—A male model who figured in a tavern altercation with two New York Yankee baseball players sued one Wednesday for $20,000.

Jerome Modezelewski contended in his Circuit Court action that Roger Maris struck him.

Maris already has a $300,000 suit for malicious prosecution pending against Modezelewski. The outfielder was acquitted last month of assault on the model.

A teammate, Clete Boyer, also was charged with assaulting Modezelewski. Boyer's trial has been postponed to September.

Sure beats smoking!

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

How can you know till you try it?

Love Life Of Honey Bee Needs Study

OKs $5.7 Billion For Ag Dept.

Washington (UPI) — House members agreed Wednesday that further research is needed on the structure of cows, the sterlization of fruit flies, and the love life of the honey bee.

They decided against cutting off price supports on tobacco.

Then they passed and sent to the Senate a $5.7 billion appropriation to finance these and other programs of the Agriculture Department in the 12 months starting July 1.

The appropriations committee served notice that expensive farm price supports cannot be halted any time soon.

The farm bill was passed on a 354 to 41 roll call vote after members, on another roll call, turned down 208 to 187 a motion to bar so-called "funny money," or foreign currency sales of surplus American crops to Indonesia or the United Arab Republic.

The Appropriations Committee — which earlier had chopped $25 million off a projected outlay of $100 million to expand an experimental food stamp plan to help feed the needy in the United States —changed its mind and asked the House to put back the full sum requested.

The House, which was ready to overturn the committee on this point anyway, complied without argument. The committee insisted the extra money probably wouldn't be needed but said it wanted to make sure that nobody goes hungry.

Lackluster attacks on the bill were highlighted by a more or less annual report from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, on some of the farm research projects under way or planned overseas.

In addition to the studies of cows, flies and bees, Gross listed inquiries into per capita food consumption in the rural areas of Spain; possible prodction of booze from soybeans in Japan; seeding of grain in dry ground in Israel; and development in Turkey of an odor-measuring device.

Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., the bill's floor manager, replied that these and other like projects in much of the rest of the world were being paid for in foreign currency owned by this country and not available for conversion into American money.

Anyway, he said the titles, although always good for some fun, covered research that in many cases could be of vital importance to the American taxpayer. After that, Gross made no move to bar or limit the overseas research.

Tests Show Smallpox In D.C. Positive

Washington (UPI) — Government health tests confirmed Wednesday that the wife of a student from Ghana had a mild case of smallpox when she entered this country earlier this month.

District Health Director Murray Grant said confirmation was received from the Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

The case is the first reported in the nation's capital in 33 years.

The testing began last Thursday when Mrs. Josephine Byrouthy, 30, of Accra, was admitted to D. C. General Hospital.

Murray said health authorities assumed immediately that Mrs. Byrouthy had contracted smallpox and vaccinated more than 900 persons who might have come in contact with the woman and her husband, Jamail.

Authorities still are seeking a taxi driver who drove the couple to the hospital and a doctor who was at the center at the time.

Grant said the physician was believed visiting in Boston.

Mrs. Byrouthy became ill last Thursday, 13 days after arriving here to join her husband.

Player Set To Defend Speedway Open Crown

. . . FOUR BIG NAMES MISSING

Indianapolis (AP) — Gary Player making his first start since he tied for second in the Masters, will open defense of the Speedway Festival Open Golf Championship at Greentree Country Club Thursday.

The field of 143 challengers includes most of the leaders on the pro circuit, but there are some prominent names missing - top money winner Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, PGA champion Bobby Nichols and U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

Doug Sanders, winner of the Pensacola and Doral Opens and second to Nicklaus on the 1965 money list, and Bruce Crampton winner of the Bing Crosby and Colonial tournaments head the field. They and Nicklaus are this season's only double winners.

All of this tourney's former winners — record holder Billy Casper Doug Ford and Dow Finsterwald — are back to challenge Player's bid for the $17,500 top prize. The total purse is $87,500.

Casper's record 264, set in 1962, and Jim Ferrier's one-round mark of 61, set in 1963, may be safe. Greentree plays 570 yards longer than the speedway course, site of the five previous Festival Opens, and its par 71 may be a sturdy challenge.

The tournament was moved to Greentree, 10 miles northeast of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, because the speedway course is being rebuilt this year The distance is great enough that carburetion tests at the track Saturday will not disturb the golfers' concentration.

Homero Blancas, who tied for seventh at Houston and New Orleans, is being tagged as a rookie to watch.

"Blancas is away to a better start in his first season than Nicklaus experience in his first year," publicist Doc Giffin of the Professioal Golfers Association said.

Blancas has won $8,050 this season At the same point in his rookie year, Nicklaus had won only $1,096, but he went on to beat Palmer for the U.S. Open Championship.

Five pros broke par in a pro-amateur warmup Wednesday Bruce Devlin picking up the winner's $500 with a 68. Billy Casper and Art Wall shot 69s and Bob Charles and Jay Hebert 70s.

Dick Mayer whose team had a best-ball 57, won $400.

Miss Richey, 22-year-old star who is ranked the top U.S. woman player, defeated Francoise Durr of France 8-6, 9-7

Lesley Turner of Australia advanced to the semifinals Tuesday when Ann Haydon Jones of Britain defaulted because of a pulled muscle in her right shoulder

Miss Richey, seeded No. 4, meets Miss Smith in the semifinals Friday and Miss Bueno, seeded No. 2, plays Miss Turner, seeded No. 3. Thus, the top four made the round of four in an unusual show of form.

In Thursday's men's semifinals, it will be three Australians and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale Top-seeded Roy Emerson takes on Tony Roche and Fred Stolle meets Drysdale

Miss Richey trailed Miss Durr 0-3 in the first and 0-2 in the second, but stormed back each time and took command The French girl dropped the 13th game of the first set on two consecutive errors and Miss Richey then held her serve at love

With the count 7-all in the second set, the American broke her opponent's service on two errors and two double faults by Miss Durr, then finished the match by holding her own service.

Miss Smith held her service only once in her first set but Miss Baylon couldn't even do that well And in the second set, Miss Baylon managed only 10 points in the seven games, three of them off Miss Smith's serve

British Convinced China Air-Dropped 2nd Bomb

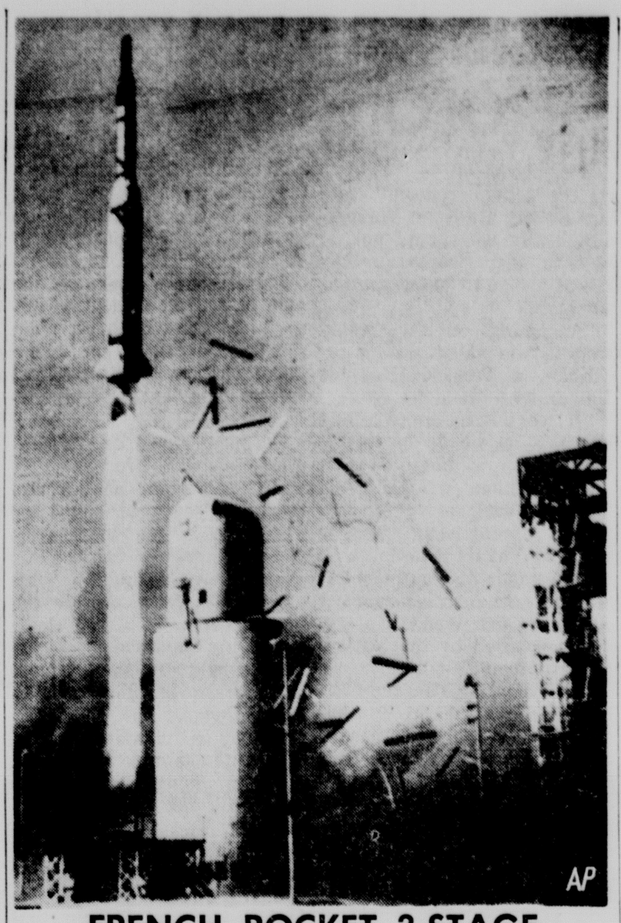
London (AP)— British defense authorities are reported convinced Red China's second nuclear weapon test was a bomb detonated from a plane.

A qualified source said Wednesday night evidence has reached London suggesting also that the explosion May 14 was of a device packing less power than the first Chinese blast Oct. 16.

The first was described by U.S. authorities as possessing the explosive force of about 20,000 tons of TNT—or about as powerful as the bombs that hit Nagasaki and Hiroshima. It generally is assumed to have been detonated from a tower.

If in fact the second Chinese weapon was dropped from a plane it denotes, in the British view, a greater measure of sophistication in nuclear weaponry than Western experts had expected.

The reason, as explained by the informant, is that it takes special know-how to wrap all the complicated mechanisms in a device small enough to be loaded aboard a plane, even a big one.



FRENCH ROCKET 3-STAGE

The French army Wednesday released this photograph of the May 13 launching in the Sahara of their three-stage "Emeraude" rocket. It reached a height of about 110 miles in just over four minutes. It is part of the French program to develop missiles to carry nuclear warheads.

Indonesian Boats Attack Singapore

Singapore (AP)—Indonesian infiltrators were engaged in a running sea battle with Singapore marine police boats Wednesday night 500 yards from the entrance to Singapore harbor, police reported Thursday.

They said at least one boatload of Indonesians was shot up and one Indonesian was captured. After questioning police took the Indonesian back out to sea to help locate other infiltrators.

Police sources said it was probably the largest and most daring attack yet made by Indonesians on Singapore.

Wool-Clad Jackie And Children Fly Home To Hot New York City

New York (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her two children returned from England to New York's 91-degree temperature Wednesday.

Both former first lady and her daughter, Caroline, 7, were dressed in wool outfits and showed signs of feeling the heat as they stepped off a commercial jetliner at Kennedy International Airport.

But John-John, 4, wearing a yellow wool coat matching that of his sister, wasn't phased. He bounded down the ramp and skipped to a waiting limousine. Then he stood on the hot concrete for a last look at the huge jetliner that brought him across the Atlantic before his mother made him get in the car.

The Kennedys returned home Wednesday from a two-week visit to England where they attended ceremonies conducted by Queen Elizabeth dedicating a memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy at Runnymede.

Also aboard the commercial flight bringing Mrs. Kennedy and her party home was actress Bette Davis. She told newsmen that she met Mrs. Kennedy for the first time and chatted briefly with her during the flight.

-House Agrees-

Love Life Of Honey Bee Needs Study

OKs $5.7 Billion For Ag Dept.

Washington (UPI) — House members agreed Wednesday that further research is needed on the structure of cows the sterlization of fruit flies, and the love life of the honey bee

They decided against cutting off price supports on tobacco

Then they passed and sent to the Senate a $5.7 billion appropriation to finance these and other programs of the Agriculture Department in the 12 months starting July 1.

The appropriations committee served notice that expensive farm price supports cannot be halted any time soon

The farm bill was passed on a 354 to 41 roll call vote after members, on another roll call, turned down 208 to 187 a motion to bar so-called "funny money," or foreign currency sales of surplus American crops to Indonesia or the United Arab Republic.

The Appropriations Committee — which earlier had chopped $25 million off a projected outlay of $100 million to expand an experimental food stamp plan to help feed the needy in the United States —changed its mind and asked the House to put back the full sum requested.

The House, which was ready to overturn the committee on this point anyway, complied without argument. The committee insisted the extra money probably wouldn't be needed but said it wanted to make sure that nobody goes hungry.

Lackluster attacks on the bill were highlighted by a more or less annual report from Rep. H R Gross, R-Iowa, on some of the farm research projects under way or planned overseas.

In addition to the studies of cows, flies and bees, Gross listed inquiries into per capita food consumption in the rural areas of Spain; possible prodction of booze from soybeans in Japan; seeding of grain in dry ground in Israel; and development in Turkey of an odor-measuring device

Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., the bill's floor manager, replied that these and other like projects in much of the rest of the world were being paid for in foreign currency owned by this country and not available for conversion into American money.

Anyway, he said the titles, although always good for some fun, covered research that in many cases could be of vital importance to the American taxpayer After that, Gross made no move to bar or limit the overseas research

Tests Show Smallpox In D.C. Positive

Washington (UPI) — Government health tests confirmed Wednesday that the wife of a student from Ghana had a mild case of smallpox when she entered this country earlier this month

District Health Director Murray Grant said confirmation was received from the Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

The case is the first reported in the nation's capital in 33 years

The testing began last Thursday when Mrs Josephine Byrouthy, 30, of Accra, was admitted to D C General Hospital.

Murray said health authorities assumed immediately that Mrs. Byrouthy had contracted smallpox and vaccinated more than 900 persons who might have come in contact with the woman and her husband, Jamail

Authorities still are seeking a taxi driver who drove the couple to the hospital and a doctor who was at the center at the time.

Grant said the physician was believed visiting in Boston.

Mrs. Byrouthy became ill last Thursday, 13 days after arriving here to join her husband.

Eisenhower: New Problems Require Changed Approach

By MERRIMAN SMITH

Gettysburg, Pa. (UPI)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose ice-blue eyes have seen much of war, relaxed in a swivel chair, toyed with one of his three black desk pens, and mused about the different ways of handling a great international crisis.

The question was this: "Would the same technique you used to pressure Korean armistice negotiations work today in Viet Nam—would even an indirect threat of nuclear force bring Hanoi to the conference table?"

He shook his head. "No. I don't think so. After all, Korea was a long time ago, and things have changed."

On a drizzly morning this week, in the quiet calm of his office on the edge of the Gettysburg College campus, a five-minute drive from his farm, the former president talked of crises—past, present and future. He faced many of them in his eight years in the White House. He knows the burdens that now confront his Texas friend, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Strategy Different

And he knows that strategy which worked a few years ago will not necessarily work in today's world of ugly little wars and revolutions.

Take Korea, for example. That war was stalemated when Eisenhower took over the presidency from Harry S. Truman in January, 1953. The new chief executive was fed up with the situation, and wanted the Chinese Communists to know it.

He therefore let it be known to Peking that he was prepared to hit the Chinese with everything in the U.S. arsenal, including nuclear weapons, unless they agreed to meaningful armistice negotiations. The Chinese got the message, and there was an armistice.

Eisenhower is not suggesting that the United States hamstring itself by disavowing nuclear power. But Eisenhower recognizes the nature of the conflict now under way in Southeast Asia, and the lack of concentrated industrial and military targets on the Red mainland, and the unpredictability of Communist Chinese leaders with their harsh disregard for human life.

'Patience, Pressure'

He has no prescription for Viet Nam other than "patience and pressure"—the strategy now being employed by Johnson.

Our conversation turned to some of the great crises of his years— Suez, Hungary, Dien Bien Phu, the U2 incident.

I said: "You had your share of crisis when you were in the White House. What were some of the tougher ones and how did you react to them? Were there times when you stayed up all night worrying about being hit by an atom bomb?"

Almost impatiently, sweeping his right hand across the desk top as if to brush away the thought, he replied:

"Oh, no. Of course I had heard decisions to make—tough ones—but you can't let these things ruin your life or sap the strength of your judgment.

Bogged In Detail

When he was in the White House, he said, he tried to devote himself to the larger problems without becoming bogged down in detail.

"You can't stay awake all night worrying about every detail and be ready to cope with another big one which is sure to hit you the next morning."

What about the individual crisis?

The 1956 war over the Suez Canal, involving Egypt, Israel, Britain and France, was one of Eisenhower's more difficult times. He feels that one of his hardest chores was to tell the British and the French that the United States would not support their invasion of the canal zone. The attack was then stopped short of its objectives, and the two nations had to make what for them was a humiliating pullout.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Also highly difficult was Eisenhower's decision to reject the French request for U.S. air power in the 1954 battle of Dien Bien Phu. It was the defeat of the French garrison there by the Communist Viet Minh, led by Ho Chi Minh, that led to the French withdrawal from Indochina and the establishment of the present states of North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

France wanted U.S. air strikes to suppose its garrison. But Eisenhower would have none of it. He considered the French tactics militarily unsound.

He did not believe French reserves were sufficient or close enough to Dien Bien Phu to reach the fortress once the battle was under way. Furthermore, the French wanted U.S. air support under their control and operating entirely on the basis of their strategy.

Another great crisis was over the U2 spy plane, when Nikita Khrushchev scuttled the 1960 summit conference. To Eisenhower, this incident was troublesome and embarrassing, but he never felt it would lead to a threat of war.

Russian Risk

He was convinced then, as he still is today, that the Russians would not risk World War III because they do not want their homeland devastated.

During six of Eisenhower's eight years in the White House, the Democrats controlled Congress, and Johnson was the Senate Democratic leader. Another Texan, Speaker Sam Rayburn, ran the House.

As the general looks back on this period, he grins and says, "Make no mistake about it, I had to woo my opposition.

"I used to have them down to the White House quietly in the late afternoons. Some of the conversations we had—if there had been transcripts and they were made public, even today—golly, it still could raise a few roofs, let me tell you."

What about Ike's future? Right now he is occupied with matters involving the planned October publication of his next book, "Waging Peace." It is the second in a series of three volumes about his White House years.

Next Oct. 14, Eisenhower will be 75. Despite his years, his health seems better than it was a year ago.

He hopes to see President Johnson soon, probably in Washington.

SCIENCE 'MIGHT' PROLONG YOUTH

Washington (AP) — "There's no theoretical reason," said Dr. Robert R. Kohn Wednesday, "why we should not be able to keep people as they are at age 20 to 30 for another 40 years."

"Assuming society would want it," he added.

Kohn, a Western Reserve University pathologist, said:

"If we put as much effort into this as we do in getting to the moon, we might do it."

But another scientist said that even with such prolonged youth, general wear and tear would still exact its toll.

Kohn made his comments at a conference on research progress and trends in aging, sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.

'Normal' Disease

He offered the theory that aging is a "'normal' disease —probably the only 'normal' disease other than neurosis" —and conceivably susceptible to being inhibited by chemical or other means.

He even suggested a chemical for trial in animals.

In his view, the great degenerative killer diseases — like heart disease, cancer and cerebral strokes — are complications of aging, occurring in some people but sparing others.

And he said current proposals for stepped-up efforts to find cures for those elusive killer-maladies—sparked by the report of President Johnson's special commission on the subject — are deficient because they make little or no provision for research on the secret of the aging process.

Only 10 Years

Kohn said that even if cures were suddenly found for heart disease and cancer — without also tapping the mystery of aging — only about 10 years would be added to the present life expectancy of 70 years at birth.

This would be because the elderly would still be especially prone to death from respiratory diseases like pneumonia and influenza, and from accidents, Kohn declared.

Defining aging as "a normal biological process . . with onset sometime around maturity," Kohn suggested it's primarily due to progressive changes in collagen, a chemical occurring in the connective tissue outside the body's cells.

Chemical

Kohn said studies of a muscle disease in animals indirectly suggest the possibility of using a chemical called beta aminoitrile to slow down collagen changes, and possibly inhibit aging.

Dr. F. Marott Sinex, a Boston University biochemist, conceding that collagen changes might be one of the factors in aging, forecast that the secret of the physiological process of aging eventually will be tapped.

But even if it is, he said, "there will always be a mortality force. There will always be wear and tear."

British Convinced China Air-Dropped 2nd Bomb

London (AP)— British defense authorities are reported convinced Red China's second nuclear weapon test was a bomb detonated from a plane.

A qualified source said Wednesday night evidence has reached London suggesting also that the explosion May 14 was of a device packing less power than the first Chinese blast Oct. 16.

The first was described by U.S. authorities as possessing the explosive force of about 20,000 tons of TNT—or about as powerful as the bombs that hit Nagasaki and Hiroshima. It generally is assumed to have been detonated from a tower.

If in fact the second Chinese weapon was dropped from a plane it denotes, in the British view, a greater measure of sophistication in nuclear weaponry than Western experts had expected.

The reason, as explained by the informant, is that it takes special know-how to wrap all the complicated mechanisms in a device small enough to be loaded aboard a plane, even a big one.

FRENCH ROCKET 3-STAGE

The French army Wednesday released this photograph of the May 13 launching in the Sahara of their three-stage "Emeraude" rocket It reached a height of about 110 miles in just over four minutes. It is part of the French program to develop missiles to carry nuclear warheads

Indonesian Boats Attack Singapore

Singapore (AP)—Indonesian infiltrators were engaged in a running sea battle with Singapore marine police boats Wednesday night 500 yards from the entrance to Singapore harbor, police reported Thursday

They said at least one boatload of Indonesians was shot up and one Indonesian was captured. After questioning police took the Indonesian back out to sea to help locate other infiltrators.

Police sources said it was probably the largest and most daring attack yet made by Indonesians on Singapore.

"If we put as much effort into this as we do in getting to the moon, we might do it."

But another scientist said that even with such prolonged youth, general wear and tear would still exact its toll.

Kohn made his comments at a conference on research progress and trends in aging, sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.

'Normal' Disease

He offered the theory that aging is a "'normal' disease —probably the only 'normal' disease other than neurosis" —and conceivably susceptible to being inhibited by chemical or other means.

He even suggested a chemical for trial in animals.

In his view, the great degenerative killer diseases — like heart disease, cancer and cerebral strokes — are complications of aging, occurring in some people but sparing others.

And he said current proposals for stepped-up efforts to find cures for those elusive killer-maladies—sparked by the report of President Johnson's special commission on the subject — are deficient because they make little or no provision for research on the secret of the aging process.

Only 10 Years

Kohn said that even if cures were suddenly found for heart disease and cancer — without also tapping the mystery of aging — only about 10 years would be added to the present life expectancy of 70 years at birth.

This would be because the elderly would still be especially prone to death from respiratory diseases like pneumonia and influenza, and from accidents, Kohn declared.

Defining aging as "a normal biological process with onset sometime around maturity," Kohn suggested it's primarily due to progressive changes in collagen, a chemical occurring in the connective tissue outside the body's cells.

Chemical

Kohn said studies of a muscle disease in animals indirectly suggest the possibility of using a chemical called beta aminoitrile to slow down collagen changes, and possibly inhibit aging.

Dr. F. Marott Sinex, a Boston University biochemist, conceding that collagen changes might be one of the factors in aging, forecast that the secret of the physiological process of aging eventually will be tapped.

But even if it is, he said, "there will always be a mortality force. There will always be wear and tear."

Stock Mart Dips After Early Climb

New York (AP) — The stock market pendulum swung to the downside late Wednesday after rising in the morning. Trading was moderate.

The market held a respectable gain until early afternoon, then some of the gainers began to wilt. Traders stepped in to sell at the sign of weakness and the list fell about half as much as it gained in the preceding session.

Analysts saw it as another technical move.

In late morning the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead as much as 3.06 but it closed with a loss of 3.89—a spread of 7.95 between its highest and lowest level for the day.

It looked like merely another trading swing to brokers. No important piece of news was reported to account for the reversal of trend.

Volume for the day, however, was only 5.33 million shares—sub par for 1965—compared with a slack 4.93 million shares Tuesday.

Of 1,385 issues traded, 703 declined and 379 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 40 and new lows 70.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.3 to 336.3 with industrials off 1.1, rails off 1.5 to a low for the year and utilities off .6.

A huge trade of 286,800 shares in Consolidated Cigar at 49 was more than enough to make that issue the volume leader for the day. A brokerage firm was reported to have acted for an institutional investor in the sale of the stock.

Consolidated Cigar closed unchanged at $0 on total volume of 300,200 shares.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks fell, four rose and three were unchanged.

Prices moved irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.98 million shares compared with 1.52 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. Treasury bonds were stronger.

Students Create Site Plans, 'Centennial Center' Models

Four teams of University of Nebraska architecture students presented for judging Wednesday models and site plans for Centennial Centers which will later be used as permanent public recreation areas.

The centers were used for the project in connection with the State Game Commission's decision to establish two such centers for centennial activities during the summer and fall seasons in 1967 and for later permanent use as park rest areas adjacent to Interstate 80.

One center will be located in the Papio watershed district approximately 15 miles from downtown Omaha, the other near the Gothenburg interchange on Interstate 80, about 30 miles southeast of North Platte

To Publicize Centers

The models will be used by the Game Commission to publicize the centers according to C. D Platt, visiting professor who supervised the problem.

The second-year design students have worked eight weeks on the problem, Platt said.

The students were required to include in their site plans and landscape model an outdoor theater for 2,000 visitors, an open sports field seating 5,000, and the future location for boat launching and marina.

Jury

Swimming beach and bathhouse, concession area, visitors center and parking areas to accommodate 500 cars will be other features of the centennial centers

The jury which judged the problem included officials of the Game Commission and Centennial Commission, Marvin Kivett of the Nebraska Historical Society and Lincoln architect Lawrence Ensersen.

Boundary definitions and volunteer services have been formulated by the advisory committee of Project Head Start as the summer program for pre-schoolers continues preparations under its two directors, Dr. Wylie Russell and Mrs. Jerry Petsche.

A public general membership meeting to be held June 4 is also in the planning stages.

Volunteer services, under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Shanner, will function to provide volunteer staff for the Head Start units The Malone Center project has already expressed a need for volunteers to serve as teacher aides during morning or afternoon sessions and for volunteer drivers to take children on field trips to such sites as the Humane Society, State Capitol, Children's Zoo, a library, a theater and others.

Voluntarily

Applications for Project Head Start are to be signed voluntarily, but if the list needs to be supplemented a house-to-house campaign will be conducted to acquaint children and parents with the project, center and personnel

Head Start boundaries, listed below, cannot be altered to permit transfering of children from their specific areas to another center.

Muny Airport Display Prizes Awarded University Students

Chamber of Commerce Directors awarded $85 in prizes to the top three display designs submitted by University of Nebraska students for use at Municipal Airport

First prize was won by Sandra Casey, second by Richard Whitney and third by Dave Devries.

In other business the directors expressed favor for the construction of the projected state office building on 15th north of the Capitol. Such a location, it was pointed out, would contribute to the long-range plan for a specialized 15th, extending from the University of Nebraska campus to the Capitol.

The board also awarded Ben Norris, longtime chamber membership booster, a life membership.

It heard activities reports from the Lincoln Sowers club, its own committee on closer relations with neighborhood clubs, and from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It also heard a centennial report from State Centennial Commission Secretary Don Schreiner, and voted support for the committee's budget request which will be reviewed by the Legislature soon

Commons Won't Consider Homosexual Offenses Bill

London (UPI) — The House of Commons Wednesday refused to consider a bill for reform of the law on homosexual offenses by a vote of 178 to 159.

The vote ended hopes that the law might be revised during the current session of Parliament, although the House of Lords approved in principle a similar bill by a two to one margin Monday.

The Commons measure, introduced by Leo Abse, Labor MP, would have removed criminal penalties for private acts by consenting males over the age of 21.

Could Be Passed

Conceivably the bill before the Lords could receive final approval there during this session and come to the Commons, but it would be at the end of a long list of legislation considered critical by the government.

Both bills for revision of the homosexual law were private member's measures. The Labor government, as did the previous Conservative administration, has declined to throw its weight behind such controversial and delicate legislation.

Many members of the Commons abstained from voting. Abse noted in vain that existing law is ' a blackmailer's charter'' random in application and unenforceable.

'Male Identity

"I see my little son—he is 8 years old — these days stretchng out in search of his grown-up male identity," Abse said.

"I find him strutting around in my shoes and sometimes, heaven help him, putting on my hats. Is it surprising that a boy without a father, lacking a male figure with whom he can identify himself, is sometimes left with the curse of a male body encasing a feminine soul?"

But the thesis that a homosexual is the victim of his destiny was challenged by Sir Cyril Osborne, Conservative MP. "I do not believe there is such a thing as the inevitability of wickedness," he said.

Homosexual law reform has been endorsed by the archbishop of Canterbury, as well as by other prelates, major newspapers and community groups.

Utah Discovery Leads Oil News

Denver (AP)—A Green River oil discovery in Utah's Uintah County has been completed, Petroleum Information said in its weekly report Tuesday of activity in the Rocky Mountain-high plains region.

Other highlights of the report:

Nebraska — Marathon Oil plans to drill to granite at about 4,450 feet at the 1 Atwood (NW NE 10-5N-32W) in Hayes County. Stuarco Oil and Ak-Sar-Ben Petroleum were reported to have recovered more than 2,000 feet of oil in a drillstem test of the J sand at the 2 Buckley well (NE SW 19-22N-53W) in Scotts Bluff County. The DeKalb Agricultural Association has abandoned the 1 Rohrer (NE NW 26-27N-57W) in Sioux County after testing the D, J and Morrison sands.

SEEKS NO OUTSIDE AID

Rep. John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., said Wednesday he would "like to fight it out alone" in his quest for the New York City mayoralty. Lindsay, 43, who represents a Manhattan "silk-stocking" district, said he will seek help neither from the Republican National Committee nor from prominent non-New York Republicans. "I don't need officialdom to build me up," he said in Washington.

Vaccine Could Stop Measles

Chicago (UPI)—The American Academy of Pediatrics said Wednesday measles could be eliminated in the United States within five years if all children were immunized.

"Measles can be the next infectious disease to be eliminated from the United States if the presently available vaccines are widely used," the association's committee on the control of infectious diseases said.

The committee urged "all physicians and public health personnel to take whatever steps are necessary to see that all susceptible children receive measles vaccine."

"Vigorous endorsement and execution of this aim by physicians and responsible authorities should eliminate measles by 1970," the committee said.

Veteran Councilwoman Finally Defeated At 34

Los Angeles (AP)—In 1953 Rosalind Wiener, a dimpled 22-year-old coed, surprised almost everyone by defeating seven men for a Los Angeles City Council seat—and became one of the nation's youngest legislators.

"Don't run," her father, Oscar, a pharmacist, had warned her. "It's a jungle." But Roz won three successive four-year terms as the city's only councilwoman.

She became a power in state and local politics, helped bring the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles, became a tough opponent of Mayor Samuel W. Yorty—and found time to marry lawyer Eugene L. Wyman, now California Democratic national committeeman. She is the mother of three children.

Turned Out

Tuesday, the voters turned her out, electing political unknown Edmund Edelman, an attorney, by a 3 to 1 margin.

At 34, the youngster who "grew up" in City Hall, says she's "a little disillusioned."

"I'm discouraged," she told an interviewer. "It's hard for women to stay up there and make it in politics."

"I've had 12 years. Aside from my family, it's been my whole life."

Mrs. Wyman blamed her defeat in the nonpartisan election on "a combination of Yorty, a whispering campaign and antiwoman prejudice."

'Devastating'

"The older women were proud of me," said Mrs. Wyman. "But the women in my age group were devastating. They thought I should stay home like they do, cleaning house and taking care of the children."

The future? "I'm going to clean out my files, leave a list of capital improvements for my successor—and then maybe build a bonfire with the rest."

President Kennedy "offered me five jobs on his inaugural night," she says, and "President Johnson has been awfully nice," but she doesn't want to go to Washington or Sacramento, although Gov. Edmund G. Brown is a close political ally. "Too far from home," she says.

"I really have no idea what I'm going to do now," she said. "I might go into business —or to law school."

Allied Mutual, Standard Reliance Firms Merging

O. D. Trombla, president of Standard Reliance Insurance Co., (Mutual), has announced that the 68-year-old Nebraska company is being consolidated with Allied Mutual Insurance Co., of Des Moines, Iowa.

Formal approval of the consolidation has been granted by Director Frank J. Barrett of the Nebraska Department of Insurance on applications made by Trombla and by Allied Mutual's president, John E. Evans, and chairman of the board of directors, Lester T. Jones.

"The consolidation with Allied Mutual will be of great advantage to Nebraska policyholders," Trombla said. "They will be offered a wider range of services and coverages including 'package' and multiperil facilities."

Trombla said that the Standard Reliance home office building at 525 South 13th in Lincoln will be retained in the consolidation and operated as the Nebraska Branch Office of Allied Mutual. The entire office staff and agency force will also be retained in the new firm.

Stock Mart Dips After Early Climb

New York (AP) — The stock market pendulum swung to the downside late Wednesday after rising in the morning. Trading was moderate.

The market held a respectable gain until early afternoon, then some of the gainers began to wilt. Traders stepped in to sell at the sign of weakness and the list fell about half as much as it gained in the preceding session.

Analysts saw it as another technical move.

In late morning the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead as much as 3.06 but it closed with a loss of 3.89—a spread of 7.95 between its highest and lowest level for the day.

It looked like merely another trading swing to brokers. No important piece of news was reported to account for the reversal of trend.

Volume for the day, however, was only 5.33 million shares—sub par for 1965—compared with a slack 4.93 million shares Tuesday.

Of 1,385 issues traded, 703 declined and 379 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 40 and new lows 70.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.3 to 336.3 with industrials off 1.1, rails off 1.5 to a low for the year and utilities off .6.

A huge trade of 286,800 shares in Consolidated Cigar at 49 was more than enough to make that issue the volume leader for the day. A brokerage firm was reported to have acted for an institutional investor in the sale of the stock.

Consolidated Cigar closed unchanged at $0 on total volume of 300,200 shares.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks fell, four rose and three were unchanged.

Prices moved irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.98 million shares compared with 1.52 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. Treasury bonds were stronger.

France To Snub Battle Of Waterloo Celebrations

Paris (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle, refusing to let bygones be bygones, has vetoed French participation in planned celebrations of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, it was learned Wednesday.

As a result, plans have been dropped for an allied military parade June 18 on the Waterloo battlefield where Napoleon suffered his final defeat at the hands of the Duke of Wellington and Prussian Marshal Bluecher.

French officials said they received no formal invitation to take part in the ceremonies but it was learned preliminary "unofficial soundings" were politely but firmly turned down.

Old War Wounds

British embassy officials conceded there were "unofficial feelers" to find out whether the French had let their old war wounds heal.

But while the parade has been canceled, a Waterloo ball was still being planned in London with Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh attending.

The queen touched off something of an uproar in the French press this week when she said during her current West German tour that British and Prussian soldiers fought side by side against Napoleon. The French who regard Napoleon as a national hero, saw the remark as an insult.

'Enormous Blooper'

"Queen Elizabeth's Enormous Blooper," said the Gaullist newspaper Paris-Presse in a six-column front-page headline.

One French official jokingly suggested that France might stage a countercelebration to mark the Battle of Ligny where Napoleon defeated the Prussians just before his own defeat at Waterloo.

France will hold celebrations June 18 of another historic event — the 25th anniversary of De Gaulle's broadcast from London in 1940 in which he declared, "France has lost t battle but has not lost the war."

The broadcast summoned all Frenchmen to rally around his Free French banner to continue the struggle against the Nazis.

Labor Margin Lowest On Conservatives' Bill

London (AP)—The Labor government's margin in the House of Commons dropped to two in a vote on a clause in its new capital gains tax bill. The margin was the lowest since Labor took office last fall.

By 173-171, the government turned back a Conservative proposal to modify the capital gains tax by removing it from inheritance taxes and revalued property.

Commons Won't Consider Homosexual Offenses Bill

London (UPI) — The House of Commons Wednesday refused to consider a bill for reform of the law on homosexual offenses by a vote of 178 to 159.

The vote ended hopes that the law might be revised during the current session of Parliament, although the House of Lords approved in principle a similar bill by a two to one margin Monday.

The Commons measure, introduced by Leo Abse, Labor MP, would have removed criminal penalties for private acts by consenting males over the age of 21.

Could Be Passed

Conceivably the bill before the Lords could receive final approval there during this session and come to the Commons, but it would be at the end of a long list of legislation considered critical by the government.

Both bills for revision of the homosexual law were private member's measures. The Labor government, as did the previous Conservative administration, has declined to throw its weight behind such controversial and delicate legislation.

Many members of the Commons abstained from voting. Abse noted in vain that existing law is " a blackmailer's charter" random in application and unenforceable.

'Male Identity

"I see my little son—he is 8 years old — these days stretchng out in search of his grown-up male identity," Abse said.

"I find him strutting around in my shoes and sometimes, heaven help him, putting on my hats. Is it surprising that a boy without a father, lacking a male figure with whom he can identify himself, is sometimes left with the curse of a male body encasing a feminine soul?"

But the thesis that a homosexual is the victim of his destiny was challenged by Sir Cyril Osborne, Conservative MP. "I do not believe there is such a thing as the inevitability of wickedness," he said.

Homosexual law reform has been endorsed by the archbishop of Canterbury, as well as by other prelates, major newspapers and community groups.

Utah Discovery Leads Oil News

Denver (AP)—A Green River oil discovery in Utah's Uintah County has been completed, Petroleum Information said in its weekly report Tuesday of activity in the Rocky Mountain-high plains region.

Other highlights of the report:

Nebraska — Marathon Oil plans to drill to granite at about 4,450 feet at the 1 Atwood (NW NE 10-5N-32W) in Hayes County. Stuarco Oil and Ak-Sar-Ben Petroleum were reported to have recovered more than 2,000 feet of oil in a drillstem test of the J sand at the 2 Buckley well (NE SW 19-22N-53W) in Scotts Bluff County. The DeKalb Agricultural Association has abandoned the 1 Rohrer (NE NW 26-27N-57W) in Sioux County after testing the D, J and Morrison sands.

SEEKS NO OUTSIDE AID

Rep. John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., said Wednesday he would "like to fight it out alone" in his quest for the New York City mayoralty. Lindsay, 43, who represents a Manhattan "silk-stocking" district, said he will seek help neither from the Republican National Committee nor from prominent non-New York Republicans. "I don't need officialdom to build me up," he said in Washington.

Vaccine Could Stop Measles

Chicago (UPI)—The American Academy of Pediatrics said Wednesday measles could be eliminated in the United States within five years if all children were immunized.

"Measles can be the next infectious disease to be eliminated from the United States if the presently available vaccines are widely used," the association's committee on the control of infectious diseases said.

The committee urged "all physicians and public health personnel to take whatever steps are necessary to see that all susceptible children receive measles vaccine."

"Vigorous endorsement and execution of this aim by physicians and responsible authorities should eliminate measles by 1970," the committee said.

Concessions Open

Des Moines (AP)— The Iowa Conservation Commission said all of the state park concession stands will be open for the Memorial Day weekend, and thereafter.

Veteran Councilwoman Finally Defeated At 34

Los Angeles (AP)— In 1953 Rosalind Wiener, a dimpled 22-year-old coed surprised almost everyone by defeating seven men for a Los Angeles City Council seat—and became one of the nation's youngest legislators.

"Don't run," her father, Oscar, a pharmacist, had warned her. "It's a jungle." But Roz won three successive four-year terms as the city's only councilwoman.

She became a power in state and local politics, helped bring the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles, became a tough opponent of Mayor Samuel W. Yorty—and found time to marry lawyer Eugene L. Wyman, now California Democratic national committeeman. She is the mother of three children.

Turned Out

Tuesday the voters turned her out, electing political unknown Edmund Edelman, an attorney, by a 3 to 1 margin.

At 34 the youngster who "grew up" in City Hall, says she's "a little disillusioned."

"I'm discouraged," she told an interviewer. "It's hard for women to stay up there and make it in politics."

"I've had 12 years. Aside from my family, it's been my whole life."

Mrs. Wyman blamed her defeat in the nonpartisan election on "a combination of Yorty, a whispering campaign and antiwoman prejudice."

'Devastating'

"The older women were proud of me," said Mrs. Wyman. "But the women in my age group were devastating. They thought I should stay home like they do, cleaning house and taking care of the children."

The future? "I'm going to clean out my files, leave a list of capital improvements for my successor—and then maybe build a bonfire with the rest."

President Kennedy "offered me five jobs on his inaugural night," she says, and "President Johnson has been awfully nice," but she doesn't want to go to Washington or Sacramento, although Gov. Edmund G. Brown is a close political ally. "Too far from home," she says.

"I really have no idea what I'm going to do now," she said. "I might go into business —or to law school."

$1 Fine Appealed To High Court

James V. Gunn Wednesday appealed a $1 fine for running a red light to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

The fine was levied in Lincoln Municipal Court. The sentence was later upheld by a Lancaster County District Court jury.

Two To Become Priests In Service Slated Saturday

James A. Demuth of Lincoln and Melvin R. Rempe, whose parents live in Superior, will be ordained priests by Catholic Bishop James V. Casey in services at 10 a.m. Saturday in the new Cathedral of the Risen Christ in Lincoln.

The Rev. Mr. Demuth has completed his studies at Immaculate Conception Seminary, Conception, Mo.

The Rev. Mr. Rempe has finished his course at St. Thomas Seminary, Denver.

At the same ceremony, Bishop Casey will ordain Lawrence Gyhra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gyhra of Steinauer, a deacon.

Allied Mutual, Standard Reliance Firms Merging

O D Trombla president of Standard Reliance Insurance Co Mutual, has announced that the 68-year-old Nebraska company is being consolidated with Allied Mutual Insurance Co., of Des Moines, Iowa.

Formal approval of the consolidation has been granted by Director Frank J. Barrett of the Nebraska Department of Insurance on applications made by Trombla and by Allied Mutual's president, John E Evans, and chairman of the board of directors, Lester T. Jones.

"The consolidation with Allied Mutual will be of great advantage to Nebraska policyholders," Trombla said. "They will be offered a wider range of services and coverages including 'package' and multi-peril facilities."

Trombla said that the Standard Reliance home office building at 525 South 13th in Lincoln will be retained in the consolidation and operated as the Nebraska Branch Office of Allied Mutual. The entire office staff and agency force will also be retained in the new firm.

France To Snub Battle Of Waterloo Celebrations

Paris (UPI) — Pres[ident] Charles de Gaulle, refus[ed] let bygones be bygo[nes] vetoed French par[ticipation] in planned cele[brations] of the 150th anniversary o[f the] tle of Waterloo, it was [learned] Wednesday.

As a result, plans have been dropped for an allied military parade June 18 on the Waterloo battlefield where Napoleon suffered his [final] defeat at the hands of the Duke of Wellington and Prussian Marshal Bluecher.

French officials [said they] received no formal [invitation] to take part in the [celebrat]ies but it was learned [that] liminary "unofficial [talk]ings" were politely but firmly turned down.

Old War Wounds

British embassy officials conceded there were "unofficial feelers" to find out whether the French had let their old war wounds heal.

But while the parade has been canceled a Waterloo ball was still planned in London with Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh [as] guests.

[Queen] Elizabeth and Prince Philip will attend the 25th anniversary of De Gaulle's broadcast from London in 1940 in which he declared "France has lost a battle but has not lost the war!"

The broadcast summoned all Frenchmen to rally around his Free French banner "to continue the struggle against the Nazis."

Thermonuclear Blooper'

[Paris-Presse] Paris[ian] newspaper [called] the Waterloo [celebration] a "thermonuclear blooper."

One French official jokingly suggested that France might stage a counter-celebration to mark the Battle of Ligny where Napoleon defeated the Prussians just before his own defeat at Waterloo.

France will hold celebrations June 18 of the 25th anniversary of De Gaulle's broadcast from London in 1940 in which he declared "France has lost a battle but has not lost the war!"

The broadcast summoned all Frenchmen to rally around his Free French banner "to continue the struggle against the Nazis."

Labor Margin Lowest On Conservatives' Bill

London (AP)—The Labor government's margin in the House of Commons dropped to two in a vote on a clause in its new capital gains tax bill. The margin was the lowest since Labor took office last fall.

By 173-171, the government turned back a Conservative proposal to modify the capital gains tax by removing it from inheritance taxes and revalued property.

ARE YOU SURE...

about the maintenance of the home you plan to buy?

No home is a bargain, no matter how attractive the purchase price, unless you have considered the maintenance costs involved. Many home buyers are not sufficiently informed about a home to be able to make a proper evaluation of maintenance costs. The condition of the heating, wiring and plumbing systems, as well as the need for reroofing and repainting, all go into the maintenance and upkeep costs of any home.

The smart home buyer will seek advice on the many factors which are involved in the maintenance costs of a home. A Realtor is especially equipped to give this advice. His ability to forcast future maintenance costs can be invaluable in helping you judge whether or not a home is really a bargain.
When you seek a home, be sure about the maintenance costs. Let a member of the Lincoln Board of Realtors help you pick the right home.

ARE YOU SURE...

about the maintenance of the home you plan to buy?

No home is a bargain, no matter how attractive the purchase price, unless you have considered the maintenance costs involved. Many home buyers are not sufficiently informed about a home to be able to make a proper evaluation of maintenance costs. The condition of the heating, wiring and plumbing systems, as well as the need for reroofing and repainting, all go into the maintenance and upkeep costs of any home.

The smart home buyer will seek advice on the many factors which are involved in the maintenance costs of a home. A Realtor is especially equipped to give this advice. His ability to forecast future maintenance costs can be invaluable in helping you judge whether or not a home is really a bargain.

When you seek a home, be sure about the maintenance costs. Let a member of the Lincoln Board of Realtors help you pick the right home.

You can rely on Real Estate firms displaying this emblem — the sign of a Realtor.

SELLING HO

London is warming up a bit after a spell of chill and cold rain—you could have wrung me out like a sponge.

Long hair for young men is all the thing in Britain. In fashionable Mayfair, I saw page boy haircuts on beautifully groomed youngish fellows. I saw haircuts that left a trimmed fringe two inches below the collar line.

On the English roads, the working young man cultivates a more rugged cut—if it is cut. It looks a good deal like a mop. And I imagine his Mum, if she liked, could grab him by the feet and clean house with him.

☆ ☆ ☆

You have heard of the Beatles, naturally. But do you know who Twinkle is? Do you know The Animals?

Have you heard of Dusty Springfield? Of Sandie Shaw and the Kinks?

How about the Zombies? Georgie Fame?

At present count British singers hold seven places on the American Top Ten list.

The Top Ten is based on the number of records sold. Those little 45-speed pancakes. All of which, to my uncultured ear, go: 'Yeh! Yeh! Yeh! Yeh!"

Such difference put the Zombies in the No. 1 spot. And the difference pushed a mophead name of Georgie Fame ahead of the Beatles.

☆ ☆ ☆

If you didn't know it, there is a deal between the U.S. and Britain on cultural music exchange.

If they send us a singer, we get to send them a singer. Of "comparable talent." And, more important, for the same amount of money.

This has been worked out by various Americans unions —Musicians, Radio Artists, etc.,—and the British Musicians' Union.

The British were upset the other day when U.S. Immigration—prodded by the Department of Labor, in turn squeezed by the American Federation of Musicians — halted British Musician Kenny Ball at the airport.

They doubted his "distinguished merit or ability."

They also stopped 21-year-old Georgie Fame who was to have appeared on the TV "Hullabaloo" and "Shindig."

☆ ☆ ☆

All this seems to have begun a pop war between Britain and the U.S. (Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes, boys!")

"The Americans fear they are going to be swamped by thousands of our pop stars," said Tito Burns of the British Agents Association. He advises the British Labor Department which Americans to let in.

"We have never grumbled in all these years. Have never knocked back even the most untalented American idiot. But America now appears to be applying a sort of litmus test to our stars.

"They say the artist must have 'unusual or distinguished merit or ability' before they grant a work permt."

☆ ☆ ☆

Burns then noted that young Georgie Fame didn't show enough "distinguished merit" for "Hullabaloo." Even though he had knocked the Beatles off the top of the Top Ten.

The Zombies—who did the same thing in January—were banned.

And Kenny Ball was knocked off. He was to have been a direct exchange for a British appearance by Louis Armstrong. But old Satchmo will now exchange with The Animals who apparently do have "distinguished merit."

☆ ☆ ☆

"How," asked Tito Burnes, "can an American union official over there give a fair opinion of a British artist?"

That seems to me a far question.

I think mopheads like Georgie and the Kinks and the Zombies etc. have exactly the distinguished merit to appear on "Hullabaloo." I think they deserve each other.

London is warming up a bit after a spell of chill and cold rain—you could have wrung me out like a sponge

Long hair for young men all the thing in Britain In fashionable Mayfair I saw page boy haircuts on beautifully groomed youngish fellows. I saw haircuts that left a trimmed fringe two inches below the collar line

On the English roads, the working young man cultivates a more rugged cut—if it is cut. It looks a good deal like a mop. And I imagine his Mum, if she liked, could grab him by the feet and clean house with him.

You have heard of the Beatles, naturally But do you know who Twinkle is? Do you know The Animals'

Have you heard of Dusty Springfield? Of Sandie Shaw and the Kinks?

How about the Zombies? Georgie Fame?

At present count British singers hold seven places on the American Top Ten list

The Top Ten is based on the number of records sold. Those little 45-speed pancakes. All of which, to my uncultured ear, go: 'Yeh! Yeh! Yeh! Yeh!"

However, your teen-agers and mine can distinguish subtle differences in these "yeh, yeh, yeh" things.

Such difference put the Zombies in the No 1 spot And the difference pushed a mophead name of Georgie Fame ahead of the Beatles

☆ ☆ ☆

If you didn't know it, there is a deal between the US and Britain on cultural music exchange.

If they send us a singer, we get to send them a singer. Of "comparable talent" And, more important, for the same amount of money

This has been worked out by various American unions —Musicians, Radio Artists, etc ,—and the British Musicians' Union

The British were upset the other day when U.S. Immigration—prodded by the Department of Labor, in turn squeezed by the American Federation of Musicians — halted British Musician Kenny Ball at the airport.

They doubted his "distinguished merit or ability"

They also stopped 21-year-old Georgie Fame who was to have appeared on the TV "Hullabaloo" and "Shindig"

☆ ☆ ☆

All this seems to have begun a pop war between Britain and the US (Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes, boys!")

"The Americans fear they are going to be swamped by thousands of our pop stars." said Tito Burns of the British Agents Association He advises the British Labor Department which Americans to let in

"We have never grumbled in all these years Have never knocked back even the most untalented American idiot. But America now appears to be applying a sort of litmus test to our stars

They say the artist must have "unusual or distinguished merit or ability before they grant a work permit."

Burns then noted that young Georgie Fame didn't show enough "distinguished merit for "Hullabaloo." Even though he had knocked the Beatles off the top of the Top Ten.

The Zombies—who did the same thing in January—were banned

And Kenny Ball was knocked off. He was to have been a direct exchange for a British appearance by Louis Armstrong. But old Satchmo will now exchange with The Animals who apparently do have "distinguished merit."

"How," asked Tito Burnes "can an American union official over there give a fair opinion of a British artist?"

That seems to me a fair question

I think mopheads like Georgie and the Kinks and the Zombies etc have exactly the distinguished merit to appear on "Hullabaloo" I think they deserve each other
